

Retirement Plan Faces Veto

PRIMARY WINNER—Negro State Rep. Carl B. Stokes, along with his wife, Shirley, waves to his campaign workers and supporters as they celebrate his victory over incumbent Mayor Ralph Locher in Cleveland's hotly contested Democratic Mayoralty primary election. Stokes, who was defeated by Locher in the general election of 1965, won over Locher to take his first step toward becoming the first popularly elected Negro Mayor of a major American city. He will face Republican Seth Taft in the November general election. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Siege Broken; Enemy Retreats

SAIGON (AP) — Massive American firepower has broken the back of the Communists' month-long artillery siege of Con Thien and sent groups of North Vietnamese soldiers into retreat from abandoned gun pits, U.S. military authorities said today.

"We made it a Dien Bien Phu in reverse," Gen. William C. Westmoreland told a Washington Star reporter.

Severe Setback
The U.S. commander said the North Vietnamese had suffered a severe setback with heavy casualties in their attempts to knock out Con Thien and other Marine outposts below the demilitarized zone.

The break in the allies' favor on the war's one semistabilized front followed up American aerial attacks on North Vietnam Tuesday as close as 10 miles to Red China. The raiders hit two bridges that the Pentagon had previously held off-limits. In all, U.S. Air Force and Navy squadrons flew 106 missions over the North. Spokesmen announced one plane was shot down.

The North Vietnamese, who had claimed they downed seven planes Tuesday, broadcast a declaration that they felled five more Wednesday. There was no immediate American comment. Although the Communist fire on Con Thien slackened appreciably and aerial reconnaissance showed some groups pulling back, U.S. authorities said there was no sign of a general withdrawal of the 35,000 North Vietnamese troops estimated to be massed in and near the DMZ.

Westmoreland cautioned in an interview with The Associated Press that he expects renewed assaults against the Marine positions.

"I don't think the enemy has given up his aggressive campaign," the general said. Dien Bien Phu, in the hills 180 miles west of Hanoi, was the site of France's final defeat in the Indochina war in 1954. Big guns manhandled to the heights by Ho Chi Minh's Communist-led troops battered the remnants of a French army into submission.

The Communists' attack on Con Thien, at times surpassing 1,000 rounds a day, was their most massive artillery operation since Dien Bien Phu. Westmoreland has described the American response — aerial bombs and shells from both land-based and naval guns — as the greatest concentration of conventional firepower in history.

Shanker Gets 15 Days

Teacher Head Guilty

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Federation of Teachers was fined $150,000 today and its president, Albert Shanker, sentenced to 15 days in jail and fined $250 for criminal contempt of court in conducting a strike against the city's public school system.

The sentencing, by Justice Emilio Nunez in State Supreme Court, was viewed by the union as the first application of the punitive provisions of the state's new Taylor law, which bars strikes by public employees.

Charges against two other union officials were dismissed by Nunez.

The city's board of education had obtained an injunction against the strike under the new law, but it did not halt the walkout of the 50,000-member union. The fine thus amounts to about $3 per union member.

Maximum penalties under the law are fines of $10,000 a day against the union and jail terms of up to 30 days and a $250 fine against leaders.

Law Assailed
The law has been assailed by the two-million State AFL-CIO. The other defendants with Shanker were UFT Vice President George Altomare and David Wittes, treasurer.

Covered 17 Days
The walkout virtually eliminated all formal classroom instruction for the city's 1.1 million public school pupils. It was in effect 14 school days over a 17-day period.

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan said this morning he will veto the 25-year retirement plan for police and firemen passed unanimously by the Common Council last night.

Hits Cost Angle
In his statement to The Freeman Garraghan declared, "The aldermen had no business passing that new retirement plan without knowing what it would cost the city."

Under the old 30-year retirement plan, 16 per cent was taken out of the workers' wages. It was originally split eight and eight but in recent years the city paid 13 per cent and the employees three per cent. Under the 25-year plan a 25 per cent deduction would be taken out. It has not yet been ascertained whether the city would pay the extra nine per cent, the employees pay the nine per cent or if some kind of split would be worked out.

The mayor's point this morning was if no one knew how much the retirement plan would cost then how could the aldermen approve it.

Pretty Large Figures
The retirement fund runs into some pretty large figures. The city is currently paying a deficiency fund to the state to cover persons who retired in the past. That total was $104,799 this year for police and firemen and will increase by three per cent each year until 1980.

The city's share under the 30-year retirement plan for firemen and policemen for 1967 totaled $31,560.

Speaking against the retirement plan approved by the council, Garraghan said, "I want city employees treated fairly, however, there are taxpayers that must have the same fair treatment and real estate taxes cannot stand an additional burden."

"If the Common Council is going to add more yearly costs to the city, they will have to come up with revenues other than real estate taxes," Garraghan said.

Election Rates Second
The mayor was questioned on his chances for election if he vetoed the 25-year retirement plan. Said Garraghan, "If I have to sell the city short, I don't care if I ever get elected."

A report from the State Department of Audit and Control, which controls retirement funds, is expected within a week. According to Garraghan, the Department of Audit and Control could not tell him just how much the new retirement plan would cost when he (Garraghan) called them this morning.

No Residency Action
In other action, the aldermen received a resolution calling for the dropping of the residency law for city policemen. This was not acted on as it has to be in the possession of the aldermen for at least 10 days.

Robert Gollnick, representing Uniformed Fire Fighter's Association Local 461, said his organization felt firemen and policemen should be residents of the city. He added that his organization felt that firemen now living outside the city should not be forced to move into the city.

Salary Stumbling Block
Gollnick said the problem was not one of lack of applicants but rather the past lack of effort in providing attractive salaries both at the starting level and in future increments. "Pay a decent salary and you won't be at a lack for applicants," Gollnick said.

In other action, a protest letter was received from residents of the west side of Sharon Lane in the 12th Ward. The residents asked why the city is defraying the entire cost of the installation of a street on the easterly side of Main Street (Sharon Lane, according to the residents, is on the westerly side of Main Street) when on the westerly side of Main Street all the landowners were assessed by the city for the same type road.

The letter stated that the westerly side taxpayers were assessed for street improvement and should have their side improved.

Twelfth Ward Alderman John Machone said he requested an answer to this question at the September meeting of the council from Mayor Garraghan and City Engineer Thomas Wickman, which, he says, he has yet to receive.

The city sold a number of streets in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Project to Kingston Urban Renewal Agency for $1. They included

Murray Street, Newkirk Avenue, Water Street and Chambers Street.

Rezoning Approved
The council also approved the rezoning of the area in Broadway East where Rondot Gardens is under construction from commercial to multiple housing.

Alderman Edward Norton (D-Seventh Ward) moved that the meeting be adjourned in memory of Roland Lamoreaux, 57, superintendent of the city hall heating plant, who died yesterday afternoon. Mr. Lamoreaux had been a city employee since Jan. 6, 1962.

Next month's meeting will be delayed a week due to Election Day on the 7th. The Council will meet at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 14.

Kingston Hospital Official

Schnitzer Leaving Post

Robert M. Schnitzer, administrator of Kingston Hospital since 1954, has accepted an appointment as associate director of Hospital Affairs with the New York State Department of Health at Albany.

Schnitzer has resigned from the local hospital position effective October 25 in order to accept the appointment. The announcement was made to Kingston Hospital staff members Tuesday afternoon by Edward C. Byman, president of the hospital's board of trustees.

Received With 'Regret'

President Byman pointed out that Schnitzer served as administrator during a time when Kingston Hospital doubled its inpatient capacity, added greatly to its ancillary facilities, and completed three building fund campaigns. The latest was a $1.5 million project for the construction of a new wing which is now in service. The hospital today has an in-patient capacity of 200.

"We are sorry to see him leave, but we realize he is moving to advance his professional interests. We are confident his contributions on a state level will be of considerable importance. We wish him well," Byman said.

Miss Finger Takes Over
Miss Mary Finger, assistant administrator, will manage the hospital until a replacement candidate is selected to succeed Schnitzer.

During his tenure here, Schnitzer was active in committee work with the New York State Hospital Association, and is a past president of the Southeastern New York Hospital Association.

ton Hospital post in June 1954.

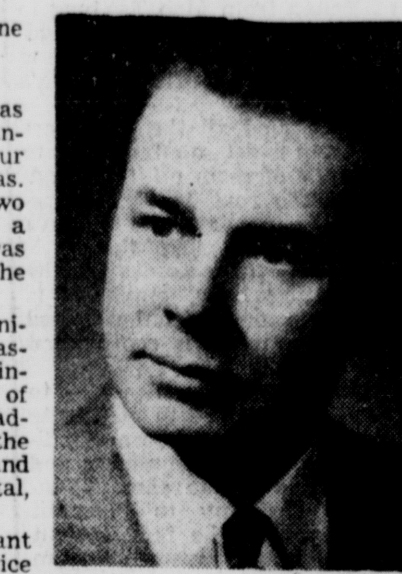

Discharged as Major

During World War 2, he was in the Army's medical administrative corps, serving four years, much of this overseas. He was executive officer of two evacuation hospitals and a medical depot company. He was honorably discharged with the rank of major.

A graduate of Rutgers University, he received his Master's Degree in hospital administration from the University of Chicago. He later served administrative internships at the Mercer Hospital, Trenton, and at Orange Memorial Hospital, Orange, N. J.

Schnitzer is a lieutenant colonel in the Medical Service Corps, U.S. Army Reserve and in 1963 graduated from the Command General Staff College. He also is a Fellow, American College of Hospital Administrators.

Active in community work, Schnitzer served four years as treasurer and a director of the Ulster County Community

Tax Surcharge in Trouble; Congress Presses for Cuts

By EDMOND Le BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, threatened by the House for weeks to cut spending or see his tax hike bill go down the drain, now has the ultimatum in black and white.

The taxwriting Ways and Means Committee voted 20 to 5 for a resolution putting aside the bill for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge "until such time as the President and the Congress reach an understanding" on spending cuts.

Given More Time

But the full House narrowly refused to order Johnson to slice spending $5 billion. It did give the Appropriations Committee more time to find ways of cutting the budget and acted to insure that departments whose appropriations haven't been finally voted yet will be able to meet their payrolls and other expenses at least through Oct. 10.

In last week's maneuverings, the House held up a vote on the temporary appropriations bill in a bid to force the Appropriations Committee to come up with a spending cut plan.

But the Ways and Means Committee's action Tuesday provided a clear enough message to the White House on congressional attitude about spending reductions.

But numerous questions of just where spending should be cut await congressional decisions.

On Tuesday alone, the Senate Appropriations Committee voted to add $95.5 million to the House-passed space money bill. A Senate-House conference committee added $13.5 million to a bill to continue the Teacher Corps, after the House had voted nothing for the program.

And the House passed a compromise bill to authorize $2.3 billion in military construction projects after hearing it described as "the most austere" measure possible.

There was no immediate administration reaction to the Ways and Means Committee's action.

One spokesman said he looked for no action by the administration. "I don't see any movement at the moment," he said. "I wouldn't look for any fast reaction."

The Ways and Means Committee has been insisting on tangible evidence of a spending cut of about $5 billion before it sends a tax increase bill to a reluctant House. Johnson has insisted major spending cuts can be calculated only after Congress passes the appropriations bills.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., told newsmen after the Ways and Means action: "It's hopeless."

He said that at present no tax increase would be approved by the committee or passed by the House, adding: "This looks to me like a first step to get a change. Even then a tax bill might not pass and I don't know what my position would be."

What in the World!

Mino Reserves Decision

County Judge Raymond J. Mino today reserved decision in the alleged entrapment case of two Woodstock residents charged with the sale of marijuana.

The action was in response to a request made by New York Civil Liberties Union lawyer, Burton Neuborne, that the grand jury be reconvened to dismiss indictments against Thomas L. Blackwell, an artist and Miss Giboney Whyte, a dress designer.

Carson McCullers Funeral

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 200 persons—including writers Tennessee Williams, Truman Capote and Janet Flanner—attended a funeral service here Tuesday for Carson McCullers, the author.

Mrs. McCullers, who was ill much of her life, died Friday at the age of 50 in a hospital in Nyack, N. Y., a suburban community where she lived for years.

Actresses Myrna Loy and Julie Harris were among those at the service at St. James' Episcopal Church. Miss Harris starred on the stage and screen in Mrs. McCuller's "The Member of the Wedding."

1967 Series Underway With Cards Favored 3-2

Fair weather with temperatures in the 60s greeted more than 35,000 fans at Boston's Fenway Park today as the 1967 World Series got underway.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who won the National League title more than two weeks ago, were 11-10 favorites to win the opener and 3-2 favorites to capture the Series over the Red Sox.

Bob Gibson, the outstanding pitcher in the '64 World Series, when St. Louis beat the New York Yankees, was the starter for the National League champions. He was opposed by Jose Santiago, holder of a 12-4 record and one of the top Red Sox hurlers in their stretch drive.

Foresee Repeat Of 1954

AN AP NEWS ANALYSIS
By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The military situation in the northern part of South Vietnam raises a possibility that the Communists are pushing stacks of blue chips into a gamble to produce a situation not entirely unlike that of 1954.

Communist strategists in North Vietnam may be tempted to think in terms of 13 years back, when France was in political uproar over the Vietnam conflict. It took one spectacular strategic defeat at Dien Bien Phu to shatter the morale of the French colonial power.

In Con Thien this week Peter Arnett of The Associated Press found a belief among U.S. Marine officers that Communists in that area had succeeded in one of their objectives: to draw U.S. forces away from the main thrust of the war. That thrust was toward destruction of the Viet Cong infrastructure and establishment of road and village security.

To do it, the Communists wheeled up enormous firepower to the Bien Hai River border. From that sanctuary they poured murderous fire on U.S. positions in the 1st Corps area.

Responding, the Americans had to move up reinforcements.

The strategic thinking of Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap is discernible. Giap, who masterminded the French debacle at Dien Bien Phu, learned his "people's war" at Yenao from Mao Tse tung in the 1930s. The idea of the sudden, decisive, morale-shattering victory springs from China's Mao.

"To wound all the 10 fingers of a man is not so effective as to chop one of them off," Mao advised. "To rout 10 of the enemy's divisions is not so effective as to annihilate one of them."

When the time comes for the annihilating blow, emphasis is placed on conventional war and guerrilla warfare is coordinated with it, wrote Mao.

Mao's instructions were to "lure the enemy to penetrate deep," always "choose conditions favorable to ourselves and unfavorable to the enemy," induce the enemy to "commit mistakes when he is worn out physically and mentally" from protracted war. Among the enemy mistakes, Mao counseled, would be piecemeal reinforcement and dispersion of main forces. Then, at the proper moment, after long stalemate, "people's war" forces should pass over to the offensive.

To Giap's way of thinking, the reinforced Marines at Con Thien, despite their modern weapons and air power, could be a likely target for fashioning something in the nature of a new Dien Bien Phu.

Nature Tour Set Sunday By Museum

Members and friends of the Mid Hudson-Catskill Museum may participate in a nature walk along the Peekamoose Trail Sunday, Oct. 8 at 10 a.m. Leading the walk will be Norman Kellar, a trustee of the Museum, and a member of the John Burroughs' Natural History Society.

The West Shokan Firehouse will be the point of departure, and the group will proceed along the 20-mile Peekamoose Trail. The tour will include both riding in one's car, and stopping along the way to observe flora and fauna of the area.

A 100-foot waterfall will provide a background for the picnic lunch, which will mark the halfway point of the trip. The group will then proceed through Sundown and Lows Corners, and around the Rondout Reservoir.

Hanging Rock Falls will be the last stop, with arrival there at approximately 3 p.m.

The trip is a "repeat" of one the Museum offered this past July.

Library Books

Fiction

Koningsberger, H. The Revolutionary. Forcefully explores the mysterious and very modern phenomenon of revolution.

Rooney, F. Shadow of God. A deeply moving and terrifying war story about five captured nuns on a Far Eastern peninsula.

Roth, P. When She Was Good. A powerful and original novel about a morally obsessed woman who destroys herself and those around her.

Stewart, M. The Gabriel Hounds. A suspense story based on an English legend about a pack of ghostly hounds that hunt through the sky with death.

Non-Fiction

Baker, J. A. The Peregrine. One of the most savage and beautiful bird books ever written.

Churchill, S. A Thread in the Tapestry. The author evokes the essence of what it was to be Sir Winston Churchill's daughter.

Friedlander, A. Never Trust A God Over 30. A cogent discussion of the new, activist clergy and the desires of today's young people.

Hutcheson, K. We Nehrus. A personal and dramatic history of one of the world's most important political families.

$7,019 for Santoroski Fund

The Michael P. Santoroski hour phone-in to Radio Station WGHQ. The open-end scholarship fund netted $7,019.27 during an 18-months to come in hopes of increasing even further the amount which will go to county high schools which have had their former students killed in Vietnam.

Credit for drumming up at least 25 per cent of the pledges yesterday is given to a friend of the Santoroski family, Jack Turk of Dunham Rock and Tunnel Excavation Corp. Turk knew the Santoroski's 20-year-old son, Michael, well; knew him before the young Army private lost both legs in Vietnam Sept. 6 when he encountered a booby trap. Michael, who in a letter to his mother Sept. 10 expressed no bitterness, saying, "It is God's Will," died Sept. 26 in an Army hospital in the Philippines.

The radio station's news director, Jim Thompson reported that many parents of other county servicemen killed in Vietnam, phoned in and expressed gratitude that the fund honored all 13 local youth who gave their lives for their country during the past two years.

More than 500 calls were received from residents and contributions were received in person at the station and at banks scattered throughout the county.

TB Hospital Action Another Step Closer

All that remains to convert the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital on Golden Hill to county infirmary purposes is the final consent from the State Health Department. This consent, it was disclosed today, is expected at any time.

Consent from the State Board of Social Welfare was chased from France for $15 million over 800,000 square miles of territory. At roughly three cents per acre, the Louisiana purchase was probably history's greatest real estate bargain.

granted on September 19, and consent from several other agencies involved in the matter has already been received.

With the permission of the State Department of Public Health the TB Hospital facilities will be then available for use as an infirmary under the jurisdiction of the local Department of Social Services.

The Ulster County Board of Supervisors has filed a letter of intent with the state, indicating that the county intends in the future to construct a new permanent infirmary facility.

Presently there are a dozen patients at the TB Hospital. When final consent is received from the State Health Department, some six or seven of the patients now in the hospital will be transferred to the State Homer Folks Hospital in Oneonta. About half of the patients now in the hospital have recovered sufficiently to be placed on the "out-patient" roll and will not be sent to Oneonta.

The chest clinic now conducted at the hospital will be continued, although it will be transferred to the Ulster County Department of Health jurisdiction.

In order to continue the clinic under the jurisdiction of the County Health Department, an application will be made at the October meeting of the Board of Supervisors for a transfer of funds from the Tuberculosis Hospital monies to the Health Department funds to continue the chest clinic program.

Mrs. Mildred Buddington and Robert Neal, library director. The painting is unique in that both the artist and subject were well-known residents of the Kingston area. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Registration Is 'Fairly Good'

Registration in the Ulster County went "fairly good" Tuesday, the first of eight final registration days in the 127 districts.

Official figures were not available today as results are being mailed to the Board of Elections by the various districts.

First day results will be tabulated later this week. Other registration dates will be Oct. 7, 10, 11, 12 and 13. Weekday hours will be 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. with Saturday hours 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. The slow registration to date makes election officials apprehensive of a last minute rush causing long waiting lines and added work loads. Scattered reports from the townships indicate a slow but steady response. Prior to the present PPR system voters in the towns were not required to register annually.

A number of election districts have been added this year to accommodate population increases in several towns. New districts include: Esopus, two; Hurley, two; Lloyd, three; Rosendale, two; Saugerties, three; Shawangunk, Ulster, one and Wawarsing, one.

Community Chest

A good community, one in which we would choose to live and one in which it is a pleasure to bring up children, requires general community cooperation. It must be a balanced community, one in which the needs of the people are met in the most efficient manner. The Community Chest provides an agency through which many activities and services can be coordinated and plans made to meet these needs.

The annual Ulster County Community Chest campaign is underway and will continue through October 21. The goal of $320,000 is for the 13 participating agencies to provide essential services for the next year. This year's higher campaign goal reflects a growing community and a bigger demand for services of the agencies, and therefore deserves greater support.

There should be no need to urge people to support these agencies for they have proved their worth in their respective fields over many years. Without them we would not have a balanced community, one which is meeting its obligations.

Success of the Community Chest depends upon the general public giving their fair share in a single contribution what the total amount otherwise would be given in separate contributions to the various organizations.

Only you can determine what should be your fair share of the required amount for the successful administration of these agencies.

A Chest contribution actually is an investment in the community served, an investment which returns dividends to all residents as well as those served by the agencies.

Let's give generously because we want to do our part for our community.

Let's show our appreciation for the work of many by a simple but most necessary single act of contributing generously.

Budget Out of Control?

President Johnson's budgetary troubles are multiplying both in and out of Congress.

House Republicans, joined by rebellious Democrats, sought to pressure Johnson to cut nondefense spending by $5 billion by sending a routine appropriation bill back to the Appropriation Committee with instructions to find the cutbacks. In another attempt, they sought to put a ceiling of $131.5 billion on government spending for this year as the price of their support for the proposed 10 per cent surtax.

What must have been galling to the White House was the fact that among the Democrats who joined in the pressure tactic was Wilbur D. Mills, the chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee. It was his notice to the President that he stood pat on his demand for a meaningful spending cut before he would move the bill for the surtax out of his committee.

However, George H. Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriation Committee, refused to pressure the President, saying it would be an admission the House cannot discharge its responsibility and would make Congress appear hopelessly bogged down and incompetent.

Just such an impression was hinted at outside of Congress as the American Bankers Association stated that estimates of a federal budget deficit of $30 billion despite record levels of income and output indicate the budget is out of control.

The bankers urged government to take the budget under control by junking programs that have outlived their usefulness, and to postpone or stretch out others. For abandonment, they cited the federal agricultural program and some aspects of foreign aid; for postponement, the nation's adventure in space.

By this time, the President should realize that his business as usual way of fighting a war is disturbing the economy, and the time has come to demand sacrifices at home matching those our fighting men are making in battle.

Behind Price Rises

The obvious things to say about the creeping consumer price index—up 0.3 per cent in August, which normally marks a decline—is that costs have been increasing, productivity declining and profit margins squeezed, producing offsetting rises in prices. This is especially true, since the wholesale index is expected to rise 0.2 in September, for the second month in a row. That is usually a key indicator of inflation.

One thing that is notable in these price changes is that the government seems to be complacent about them, once it opposed them vigorously. Has Washington given up and accepted a fresh round of inflation as inevitable? It has given up on its wage guideline and seems to be doing the same about prices. We are moving into a war economy without the protections usual to keep wages and prices within limit in wartime.

"Don't Worry, I'll Get You Down!"

David Lawrence Says Government Joins Private Industry

WASHINGTON.—The federal government thirty years ago tried by means of "made work" projects to diminish unemployment, but the effort failed. Today, in the midst of a period of economic expansion, unemployment persists. But this time a new approach is being tried. President Johnson has just directed five cabinet officers, along with the administrators of three federal agencies, to launch a major test program whereby the government would join private industry to help find jobs and provide training for the "hard core" unemployed.

This decision—to co-operate with private industry and give it a major part in dealing with unemployment—is a step that has long been advocated by businessmen. It may not succeed even now unless private enterprise is given the fullest responsibility, without the interjection of governmental bureaucracy.

The situation was emphasized a few days ago in a significant speech in New York City by Senator Wallace F. Bennett, Republican of Utah, at the convention of the American Bankers Association. He is a former president of the National Association of Manufacturers and has an intimate knowledge of business operations. He said:

"The basic problems of the depressed '30's have survived and even flourished in the shadow-world of government welfare. Although the number of individuals and families with incomes below the poverty level has dropped steadily as prosperity has increased throughout the last three decades, the number of public relief welfare rolls has continued to increase at what is to many an alarming rate. Three decades ago, there were just over 3 million persons receiving government welfare payments. Today, that number has increased to over 12 million. The dollar outlay for welfare payments has increased over eight-fold during the period until today it is over 5 billion dollars annually. . . .

"It is hopeful that many in Congress have finally come to realize what has always been obvious to some, that government paternalistic control and handouts, instead of encouraging people to get off relief, actually tend to attract more to welfare as a way of life, and once in this pattern to cling to it. . . .

"It is clear to me that we will never solve the problem of the poor of 1967 until we can move them out of the half-world of government support, and make them a part of the real economic world we call the private enterprise system. . . .

"While it is easy to agree that this is desirable, it should also be clear that government can never provide the leadership needed to bring it about. In the first place, many men in government have themselves never been a part of the productive side of our free system, and therefore do not understand or trust it. . . .

Senator Bennett stressed, moreover, that the responsibility falls upon the men "whose faith in our free system, and understanding of its processes, have made them leaders in it."

The latest action of President Johnson indicates an awareness of these very aspects of the unemployment problem. As the administration asks businessmen to mobilize their resources to help in job-training programs, it is apparent that the government's role cannot be merely one that furnishes subsidies. What is most needed is legislation that will recognize the importance of incentives to private enterprise so that job creation will be encouraged.

Unemployment is related also to geographical factors. For, as the President said in launching the new program, the need is "to create new jobs and new training opportunities for the seriously disadvantaged in plants which will be established in or near areas of concentrated unemployment."

There are, to be sure, parts of the country which can use more employees. But it is difficult to transport the unemployed from their cities of residence, because many persons dislike to move to other parts of the United States, away from relatives and friends.

The major experiment envisaged by the administration's new policy, while relatively small in amount, could initiate further experiments on an even larger scale. The fact that business and government are planning at last to work together to try to find a solution to the unemployment problem is a heartening sign.

Hooky-Playing Congressmen Killed October Fund

WASHINGTON—If it hadn't been for hooky-playing and junketing Congressmen, the administration would have passed its stopgap resolution continuing the budget through the month of October.

The resolution's defeat meant that ten government departments and a score of other agencies were without funds beginning the first of this week. Republicans and many Dixiecrats had taken House leaders by surprise and ganged up to ban the normally routine continuance of funds unless the administration agreed to slice $5 billion out of non-defense spending.

It was Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler who jeopardized his own funds by sending a group of Congressmen junketing to Brazil. This increased the absentee vote and helped kill the resolution continuing the flow of government money. The six Congressmen sent to attend the International Monetary Fund Conference in Rio de Janeiro were:

Henry Reuss, Wis., Lud Ashley, Ohio, William Moorhead, Pa., Thomas Rees, Calif., all Democrats, with Seymour Halpern of New York, a Republican moderate, and William Brock, Tenn., a Republican Conservative.

Most of the above are A-1 Congressmen, and the International Monetary Fund is an important organization. However, other delegates could have been found to attend it. Other Democratic Congressmen who played hooky during the crucial vote were: John Brademas, Ind., Hugh Carey, Brooklyn, Eligio de la Garza, Tex., Mike Feighan, Ohio, Edward Dervinski, Ill., James Corman, Calif., L. H. Fountain, N. C., Elliott Hagan, Ga., Edward Hebert, La., Sydney Herlong, Fla., Bob Jones, Ala., James Kee, W. Va., Thomas Morgan, Pa., John Moss, Calif., Mendel Rivers, S. C., John Bell Williams, Miss., Ed Willis, La.,

Lester Wolff, N. Y., Jim Wright, Tex.

Bill Green, D-Pa., an excellent Congressman, was in Philadelphia. His office could give no reason why he was not around to vote. Andy Jacobs, another good Congressman, was in Indiana on a speaking day. He didn't come back to vote.

Note—Most observers agree with the 28 GOP freshmen that Speaker McCormack allows too much goofing off, should hold session six days a week and crack down on absentees.

There were some interesting votes among those who stuck around Washington to vote on the stopgap finance resolution. One was Nick Galifianakis, the North Carolina Greek, a Democrat, who told friends when he was frantically running for election that he would never desert his humble origin as the son of a Greek immigrant; would vote for education, better housing, health and school lunches.

When the chips were down, however, Galifianakis voted to lop a big hunk of money from these projects. So did several moderate Republicans who usually vote for the underprivileged—Charles Mathias, Md., William Gude, Md., Ogden Reid, N. Y.

Significantly, one Mississippian, Jamie Whitten, put up a fight the other way. He pointed out that there was $5 billion of unexpended funds stashed away in the Defense Department and there was no reason why schools, the school lunch program, housing, health and impacted-area schools should suffer because of the GOP economy drive.

"Everyone, including the President is proceeding on the assumption that Defense spending should not be touched in any way by economy moves," said Whitten. "Why should it be so inviolate if we have to cut federal spending?"

"I know of $5 billion that the Defense Department now has in unexpended funds, which could be held up, without hurting Southeast Asia at all."

Most Democrats at the meeting agreed with Whitten that this $5 billion—some said it ran as high as $7 billion—could be "re-programmed" for other purposes, so that Secretary McNamara could reduce future supplementary requests by that amount.

When the votes were counted, however, every Mississippi Congressman voted the other way.

Most of the Dixiecrats who voted for the $5 billion cut are strong states rights. Yet curtailment for non-defense spending will seriously hit their states, for the Southern states are more dependent on federal grants than any in the nation.

Rep. George Mahon, the tall, gaunt Texan who heads the House Appropriations Committee, explained this very carefully at a closed-door session of committee Democrats. He used a blackboard to demonstrate.

"If we agreed to this $5 billion cut, it would mean that one-third of the $15 billion would have to be impounded, wiped out," said Mahon. "This would include spending by the Agriculture Department, aid to higher education, impacted-area school aid, the school lunch program and many other things."

"Obviously this is impossible. I've talked to Frank Bow," said Mahon, referring to the GOP Congressman from Ohio and a leader in the economy fight against LBJ, "and pointed out these figures to him. But he won't listen. He's thinking about the next Presidential campaign."

"If we approved this arbitrary $5 billion reduction in spending," continued Mahon, "it would completely disrupt state budgets, which depend a great deal on federal spending in the non-defense field. Many state legislatures are not even in session at the present time."

Problem of Strikes One of Power

The fed-up millions suffering the strike waves should read about in the papers nearly every day.

It is nonsense for government officials to pretend they are baffled by the strike problem. The government is neither ignorant nor innocent. And the government is not defenseless; the public is, but the government is not.

A remedy is at hand that is even more pressing than the public's demand for more Congressional legislation, including better antitrust laws to apply to unions as they do to companies. I refer to the National Labor Relations Board. This is the chief source of union superpower.

The many proposed amendments to labor relations laws would mean literally nothing if their administration remains with the NLRB.

No one in Washington seriously denies that memberships on the NLRB are considered and treated as part of the political patronage of the unions. By such patronage, which stacks the deck, the unions have become in effect, the judges of their own objectives and actions.

On the basis of the NLRB's own record, it is partisan—flagrantly partisan—and unfit to dispense justice. This is known to every judicious student of our labor problem and is documented ad infinitum.

The NLRB uses a double standard—one for management, one for unions. It arms one side and disarms the other. It also uses a double standard for the unions' members.

The NLRB fails to protect employees from union coercion. It fails even worse to protect them from union violence, a

The NLRB has made a shambles of the employees' stated right under the laws for their free choice of representatives. It does this in the so-called "union authorization card cases wherein the NLRB certifies as bargaining agent a union which has lost an employees' election.

Equally unfair to employees, it has repeatedly upheld "union fine" cases to coerce them to abandon their lawful rights to work during a strike, to throw out "featherbedding" even in their best interests or to seek a change of unions.

The NLRB has made a similar shambles of Congress's intent to plug the loopholes in the anti-boycott provisions in the labor laws. Its support of the loopholes is notorious.

Step by step, the NLRB has muscled in on the contents of contracts by prescribing a growing list of subjects it makes mandatory for bargaining. The result has vastly expanded the area of "bargaining," the dimensions of disputes and the size of the emergencies that hold the public at their mercy.

Beginning with the immediate revamping of the National Labor Relations Board, the one hope is that our fed-up country's protest in the face of the strike situation will convince the politicians who are beholden to the unions' support that it's good politics to protect the average man and woman for a change. Let the paying public speak its outrage loud enough and they'll act—worried about the election next year.

Deal Firmly With Buddhist Dissidents Is U. S. Advice

By PETER LISAGOR
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 — U. S. officials here and in Saigon have urged the South Vietnamese government to deal firmly with the Buddhist dissidents and their allies to avoid a return to the chaos and instability of the post-Diem period.

Washington admits its worry that Thich Tri Quang, the shrewd and calculating Buddhist politician, may be able to form a "dangerous coalition" with the disgruntled losers in the recent elections and the volatile Vietnamese students. "We've got too big an investment out there now to tolerate the fun and games of the earlier days," one official said as he recalled the chaotic situation after president Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown and killed in 1963 and the turmoil in the northern cities of Hue and Da Nang in the spring of 1966.

experience. But he has now emerged to agitate again in a loose alliance with the defeated presidential candidates.

Officials say that in a country as fragile politically as South Vietnam, Tri Quang's machinations can have a crucial impact on the conduct of the war if he manages to put together a coalition with the malcontents and the students.

Just what the crafty Monk's aims are remains a puzzle to officials here. His demand for recognition of his militant group instead of the more moderate Buddhists led by Thich (venerable) Tam Chau a former accomplice turned rival, is regarded here as a first step in an anti-government campaign that will escalate with each concession made.

Tri Quang apparently believes that the political ferment created by the elections enables him to ventilate his long-standing enmity toward Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, the vice-president elect, and chief of state Nguyen Van Thieu, the president-elect.

He would also appear to be seeking a measure of vengeance for rebuff he suffered in 1966 when he sided with Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, the commander of I army corps, who was ousted by Ky and exiled to the United States. This has been in this vicinity ever since.

U. S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker is understood to be fully aware of Tri Quang's cleverness and capacity to stir up unrest among the "outs," many of whom were members of the constituent assembly and ran in the senate elections earlier this month.

Bunker's concern is compounded here because, as one official put it, "all we need is a few riots in Saigon streets to really give the antiwar crowd fresh ammunition."

Across the H-Bomb Border:

Where Red Faces Red

During his recent trip along the Sino-Soviet border, journalist Hugo Portisch uncovered the story of Mao Tse-tung's Moscow trial and his dismissal from the Communist Party. This is the ninth in a series of ten articles by the editor of Austria's largest newspaper, the Vienna Kurier.

BY HUGO PORTISCH
CHAPTER IX

Having learned at first hand of the tense and potentially dangerous Sino-Soviet border situation, I wanted to know if the Soviet Union regards China as a genuine military threat. I asked a high-echelon Soviet authority, whose identity I cannot reveal.

I was told: "Presently Peking is absolutely irrational. We have seen that the Mao group has attempted to blame external events for their internal difficulties. So far—remember the Indonesia debacle—they have not succeeded. But this doesn't mean that if internal troubles become intolerable that they will not be ready for new and bigger foreign policy adventures. Anything can happen and we are ready and prepared. Nothing coming from China, now or in the future, will surprise us."

"The Soviet Union then would be ready for an eventual war with China?" "We don't believe it will happen. This idea is just sheer madness. China must know what our military strength is. We surpass the Chinese potential so manifoldly, it just cannot be put in words."

In higher echelons these problems are regarded with cool, calm judgment, but certainly with concern. "China today is no longer governed by the party, but by the army. Mao Tse-tung and his group are military dictators. What they preach is not Marxism or Leninism, but socialist fascism with a heavy military accent. The frame of personal veneration has been broken too, in China; Mao lets himself be regarded as God."

On the disputes between the Mao group and the other Chinese leaders, the Russians expressed the following opinion:

"Under cover of the 'cultural Revolution' Mao eliminates all his opponents. But these are not real opponents, only potential opponents. We know this very well from Stalin's time. He, too, seldom destroyed his true enemies, but only those whom he suspected or who might have become his enemies. This is nothing new; too weak to beat the real enemy, Mao eliminates his own people."

To another question I received a rather surprising answer. I asked: "Who are Russia's friends among the Chinese leadership, or who have they been?" "We don't know and we never knew. At times they all were more or less friendly, and even then there were moments when they closed ranks against us. Today we can only guess."

Probably some of those who were the most vehemently attacked by Mao are those who disagreed with the anti-Soviet policy of the Mao group. But we are not sure about that, as before they were attacked — they participated in that anti-Soviet policy. President Liu Shao-chi, for instance is today the main target of the Mao group. Does that mean that he is our friend? Previously he probably heaped even more insults on the Soviet Union than Mao himself!"

Later I learned that the Soviets supposedly had some true friends in the Chinese army, high officers who had received their training in the Soviet Union. These, however, became the first victims of Mao's anti-Soviet policy.

It is well known that Mao never was a particular friend of Russia. Therefore, I inquired if the Soviet Union had succeeded improving its bad relations with Mao after 1949. "We don't believe so, not Stalin, not when Khrushchev succeeded, and even after Khrushchev, when we wanted to put the whole matter aside, Mao still continued his attacks against us."

At this point I was told about one part of Mao's record which, as far as I know, is completely missing in his published biography. According to this report Mao was brought from Kiangsi mountain fortress to Moscow in 1929 by a Comintern for having fomented an adventurer's policy of inciting peasant revolts in armed conflict with Chiang Kai-shek, at a moment when the party was quiescent. Mao, at that time, was only a minor cog in party wheels, a party secretary with the Chinese Communist troops in China's Kiangsi (province). He lost his post as secretary and was expelled from the party. Five years later, during the Long March, he joined the party again and only then did his actual political career start.

Mao apparently never forgot this humiliation and blamed the Comintern, the Soviet Union and — last but not least the strong man of the Central Committee at the time, Liu Shao-chi. Therefore, it is believed that, as long as Mao is in power, he will continue to settle past accounts with the Soviet Union and with the Chinese Communist Party's Central Committee. "This is the basis for our conflict with Peking and for the 'Cultural Revolution.'"

These Russians know what they are saying: "The Chinese have now made their own atomic experiments. They have learned something from them. For instance, that there is no survival in atomic war. Nobody will come through. The earth will be boiling. The Chinese earth, too, must have boiled when they made their experiments. Maybe Mao learned something from it, and it's therefore good they made their own experiments. We don't believe in the possibility of a war, but, as we said, we are prepared, prepared for everything!"

I had one more question: "Given the hypothetical case that Chiang Kai-shek's troops might land on the Chinese mainland and fight Mao, what would the Soviet Union do?"

Even here, surprisingly, I got an answer: "Per se such case would not touch our still existing military commitments toward China. The battle between the Nationalist and the People's Liberation Army is China's domestic affair, a continuation of their civil war. We are only committed in case of an attack by a foreign power. But should Peking in such appeal for our help, we would have to carefully check the situation. It is hardly thinkable that we would assist a Chinese leadership that has not altered its policy."

These opinions are the result of three separate talks with high echelon Russians, whose identity, as I have said, I am not permitted to divulge. The Sino-Soviet conflict has given rise within the Soviet Union to a most serious debate about leadership within the Communist system. If Mao can arise after a Stalin, could not another Stalin be possible? This is the very crux of the question in the Soviet Union today. There are continuous debates on this subject, of which little permeates to the public.

In the concluding article Dr. Hugo Portisch discusses Soviet and Red Chinese attitudes toward each other and the possibilities of either making war generally.

Start Clean-Up Job

BY WILLIAM PORTERFIELD
Chicago Daily News Service

HARLINGTON, Tex., Sept. 30—Wayne Pipes' house has been as full of water as a fishbowl.

Now he and his wife, Amy, stood in the kitchen, a foot deep in silt, dumping mud from cabinet drawers and salvaging what they could. It was hardly worth the effort. The slimy water mark was almost six feet up on the walls. Outside, on their soggy lawn, was dumped the accumulation of 10 years of married life: rooms of furniture, clothing, books, toys, a huge color TV.

"What are you going to do with it, Wayne?" a friend asked.

Pipes laughed. "Have someone haul it off," he said. Amy grinned. "Durn right, gonna start all over again. Never liked the living room suite anyway," she said.

"How can you laugh at a time like this?" the friend asked.

"You should have seen us three days ago," Wayne said. "We're all cried out now."

That's the story in Harlingen. Its all over, the hurricane, the rains, the flood and the weeping. The people are wading back to their homes.

The pipes live in Treasure Hills, one of several subdivisions built around the Rio Grande river floodway. A jam in the floodway broke Sunday night, as policemen drove up and down the streets warning residents to evacuate. Wayne and Amy, thinking they were about to be engulfed in rampaging tide, grabbed some clothes and their daughter, Amy, who is 5, and drove to Amy's mother's home in nearby Weslaco.

Harlingen's mayor, George Young, was on television, telling everyone in the low areas at the time about leaving their homes, that water in the floodway was rising and would flood, but that it was rising slowly and that there was time to load up some possessions.

Unfortunately hundreds of people like the Pipes didn't get the message and bolted with only the clothes they could carry.

Beverly Anderson, a single girl who lives next door to the Pipes, left carrying pajamas and an overnight kit. The next day, Miss Anderson and some friends waded waist deep to their house and removed clothes and the television set.

"We had to float it out," Bob Wittenbach, one of the friends said. "Beverly cried." "It was eerie," Beverly said. "This beautiful white furniture came floating by in the yard. I recognized it as Tina Naimath's my neighbor. She had bought it, a bedroom suite, for $1,000 about a year ago. When I saw Tina, she and this 80-year-old man were swimming around, floating things out too."

School Activities

The Guidance Counselors at New Paltz Central High School have announced that the Guidance Office will be open Oct. 9, 10, 11, and 13 between 7 and 9 p. m. The counselors will administer the NYS Regents Literacy Test on these dates and also will be available for conference with parents.

Starting the week of Oct. 14, the guidance office will be open every Tuesday between 7:30 and 9 p. m. If possible, parents should call the Guidance Office for an appointment.

More than 200 people registered for first semester Adult Education classes that are being offered by the New Paltz Central School Adult Education Program. Classes in Beginning Italian, Group Piano Instruction, and Wood Shop are not completely filled and interested students may join.

Plans are being formulated to organize an art class in the near future. Interested people may contact Theodore Sirko.

Nazarenes Set Special Meet Saturday Night

A special service will be held Saturday night 7:30 p. m. in the New Paltz Church of the Nazarene with the Rev. William Fowler, missionary to Trinidad and Tobago, who is on furlough.

This is his fourth furlough since being assigned to Trinidad and Tobago in 1948. The Rev. Mr. Fowler will be holding services among Churches of the Nazarene.

He has served as pastor and field treasurer in El Caye, British Honduras, and Belize, British Honduras. He served as a pastor in New Amsterdam, Guyana, and Field Superintendent in Georgetown, Guyana. He is now serving as field superintendent in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad.

The missionary service will feature the work of the Church of the Nazarene in Trinidad. The Rev. Mr. Fowler will show 16 mm movies of the work in Trinidad to go along with the missionary message.

Drugs Essential

LEEDS, England (AP) — Controversy broke today over a doctor who told British university students that drug-taking is "an essential and not necessarily blameworthy activity."

Dr. Ronald Still, medical officer at Leeds University, said, "Besides considering the legality of their actions, students should assure themselves that whatever drugs they use would be a valuable addition to their total well-being, without entailing the risks of crippling addiction."

In London, a spokesman of the British Medical Association told newsmen, "This is a most extraordinary thing for a medical officer to say. It goes against medical advice and could be exceedingly dangerous."

Jewish People Begin Holy Season With New Year

The holiest season of the year for the Jewish people will begin tonight with the holiday of Rosh Hashonoh which means the beginning of the year.

This Jewish New Year starts a period of 10 days of penitence and atonement, ushered in by special religious services, and the blowing of the ram's horn, which in Hebrew is called the "Shofar."

This year, for the Jews over the world, an additional aura of sanctity will envelop these days, because for the first time in 20 years, Jews in Israel, and those making the pilgrimage to the Holy Land, will be able to pray at the Wailing Wall in Jerusalem.

Ram's Horn Symbol

The blowing of the Shofar on Rosh Hashonoh is an integral and most important part of the religious service. Its aim is first to be a reminder of the piety of the Patriarch Abraham, the first Jew, whose faith in the Almighty was tantamount to his love for his only son, Isaac, whom he was willing to offer as a sacrifice at the command of the One God.

The Biblical version of this narration, which is read at the Bible Reading on the holiday, tells that the Lord was testing Abraham's faith, and when He saw that Abraham was about to fulfill his command, he forbade him to shed his son's blood. It was the custom of the heathen idolaters in those days to sacrifice their children to their idols, but it was an abomination to the Lord. In the place of his son, Abraham found a ram which he offered instead.

The sounding of the ram's horn was used in ancient days to assemble the people, and it is now observed as a reminder of the Holy Convocation. The Bible refers to this day as a "Day of remembrance of the blowing of the horn, a Holy Convocation."

Judgement Day

Rosh Hashonoh is also called a Day of Judgement. According to Biblical History, on this day the world was created 5727 years ago.

This year begins the year 5728 on the Jewish Calendar. Rabbinic law teaches that on this day the Creator sits on His seat of Judgement and decrees the destiny of every human being for the coming year.

The entire month before the New Year, Psalm 27 is read each day and night, in which the Jew calls upon his God as "the Lord is my light and my salvation, whom shall I fear." During the holiday many prayers symbolize the spirit of the day, of which two are outstanding: One, while asking for mercy, calls the Lord, "The Lord who meters out judgement," and the other describes His court of justice and a place where the souls of all human beings pass before Him and He counts and inscribes in the Books of Life and Death, each one's respective destiny, as a shepherd who musters his flock. Therefore the Jewish people greet each other at this season with the words, "May you be inscribed for a good year." New Year cards are sent to friends with this wish as a New Year blessing.

Observances

Rosh Hashonoh is observed by the Conservative and Orthodox Jews for two days, and the Reform for one day. The season of Penitence begins with Rosh Hashonoh and ends the night of Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, which this year begins on Friday evening, Oct. 13.

At Congregation Ahavath Israel, at 100 Lucas Avenue, in Kingston, Rosh Hashonoh services will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 6:30 p.m. and Thursday and Friday at 8:30 a.m. Children's services will be held in the social hall at 11 a.m. College students away from home may attend the services. Rabbi Harry Z. Schechtman will conduct the services and deliver sermons both days of the holiday on themes of the Holy Season, and the liturgy will be chanted by Hillel Ribner and Cantor Charles Flusberg.

The Sabbath after Rosh Hashonoh is called Shabos Shuvah, the Sabbath of Repentance. Services will be held Friday evening at 6:30 instead of the usual 8 p.m. service.

Local Schedule

The schedule of High Holy Days at Temple Emanuel will start with Rosh Hashonoh services Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. Services will be held Thursday, 10 a.m., with children's services at 2 p.m.

The services will be conducted by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, assisted by Temple organist.

Upstate Seabee Loses Life in Viet Mishap

EAST OTTO, N.Y. (AP) — Dale R. Berg, 24, a Navy Seabee from this Cattaraugus County community, died in Vietnam last Friday in a motor vehicle accident during a night airfield operation, his parents say.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Berg said Navy authorities informed them Sunday their son was struck by a vehicle at Phu Bai Airfield in unit operations.

Berg was graduated from Cattaraugus Central High School and Williamsport Technical School, Williamsport, Pa. He had been in Vietnam since June, having entered the Navy August last year.

Cyclist Killed

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Thomas Morris, 30, of nearby Morrisville, was killed Tuesday when his bicycle and an automobile collided as he was emerging from a driveway, State Police said.

Dr. John Park and the Temple choir, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kuehn, Mrs. Margaret Roosa, Mrs. Elmore Nathan, Mrs. Leonard Zimet, Mrs. Charles Ronder, Mrs. Rose Zucker, LeRoy Davis and Arnold Weintraub.

Rabbi and Mrs. Eichhorn will hold a New Year's reception for the entire congregation Thursday 3 to 5 p.m. in the Temple social hall.

Baby sitting service will be provided during morning and children's services on Rosh Hashonoh and Yom Kippur. Those wishing to have names of loved ones read during Yom Kippur Yizkor services will return memorial cards to Edwin Wetterhahn prior to Yom Kippur services.

Shabbas Shuvah services will be held Friday, 7:30 p.m. Temple Sisterhood will sponsor the Oneg Shabbat after service. Dr. H. Z. Rappaport, rabbi of Congregation Agudas Achim has announced the following schedule of services:

Rosh Hashonoh—6:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday and 8 a.m. Thursday and Friday. Children's services will be at 11:30 a.m. Thursday and Friday.

Sabbath of Repentance—Friday 6:30 p.m.; Saturday 8:30 a.m.

with children attending the regular service and 6:30 p.m. Yom Kippur—Friday, Oct. 13. Kol Nidra 6 p.m. Saturday 8 a.m., children 11:30 a.m., and Yizkor memorial service 11:40 a.m.

Rabbi Rappaport will conduct all services assisted by Cantor Herman Slomovits who will chant the liturgy. Hymn Reher will chant the preliminary morning services and the NCYS will conduct children's services.

Sees Constitution Doubling Tax

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Republican state administration's top financial advisor said today the proposed State Constitution could result in doubling the state income tax in 10 years and add $3.3 billion a year to state spending in the same period.

Gov. Rockefeller reported the estimates based on a study of inherent costs in the revised Constitution made by Dr. T. Norman Hurd, state budget director.

The revised Constitution, approved by the Democratic-controlled Constitutional Convention last month, will go before the voters in the Nov. 7 election.

$1.2 Billion First Year

In his report, Hurd said the additional costs to the state in the first year of the new document's effectiveness could be $1.2 billion. After 10 years, Hurd said, the added expense could be $3.3 billion annually.

State spending this year is about $4.6 billion.

If the Constitution is approved, the spending increase in 10 years, Hurd said, could require tax boosts of:

— 80 per cent on all present state taxes, or;

— doubling present personal state income taxes, or;

— increasing the current state sales tax from 2 per cent to 10 per cent, or;

— increasing the sales tax from 2 per cent to 8 per cent and doubling the amount of present business taxes.

The total cost over the 10-year period, Hurd estimated, could be $23 billion.

Mandated Increases

Hurd said the major mandated increases called for in the proposed Constitution were:

— State assumption of all local welfare costs.

— Payment of school aid based on registration instead of attendance.

— State takeover — on a 10-year plan — of the entire costs of the court system.

— Increased costs of acquiring property by condemnation.

— Mandated increased spending in the first year would be $343 million and other probable additional expenditures would amount to $897 million, Hurd reported.

In 10 years, the mandated extra costs annually would be $1.7 billion and probable added spending would be $1.6 billion, he said.

Other Estimates

Other estimates by Hurd: The state assumption of local welfare costs would add $82 million in the first year and $1.1 billion in 10 years, Hurd said. He added the estimates make no provision for increased welfare caseloads or program changes.

School aid based on registration rather than the present average daily attendance would result in increased spending of $86 million in the first year and $104 million in 10 years.

A proposal that would require the state to pay for damages to property even if it was not actually taken during a public works project would add $160 million to state spending in the first year, he estimated. In one decade, the cost would increase by a total of $300 million.

The assumption of all costs of the court system would add $14 million to the state outgo in the first year and $165 million when it was completed in 10 years.

Other Possibilities

In addition, if repeal of the Blaine Amendment barring aid to parochial schools is approved, additional costs could reach $351 million in the first; $509 million in 10 years.

Tuition-free college educations for state residents would add $485 million in one year and result in $856 million added spending in 10 years.

Community development programs that would allow the state to grant its credit to private business for various projects would add $61 million in the first year and $186 million in the 10th year.

Hurd said no attempt was made to estimate the indirect costs of administering all of the new and expanded programs that would be authorized or mandated by the proposed Constitution. He said such costs could be significant but "no adequate basis exists for estimating them."

Begin U.N. Debate On Rhodesian Status

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Britain begins U.N. debate today on what to do about the white minority government of Rhodesia, which has survived 10 months of economic sanctions with few visible scars.

Discussions start in the General Assembly's Trusteeship Committee, where black African representatives are talking about using force against Prime Minister Ian Smith's government.

The Rhodesian rebellion was also expected to get an airing in the assembly itself from R.C. Kamanga, foreign minister of Zambia, Rhodesia's neighbor and one of the worst hit by the sanctions' backlash.

Most U.N. diplomats have written off the boycotts against Rhodesia as a failure that holds no hope of toppling Smith.

The sanctions were imposed with United Nations approval after Smith declared the colony of Rhodesia independent from Britain Nov. 11, 1965, to escape British pressure for guarantees of eventual rule for Rhodesia's black majority. The sanctions include a selective boycott of 12 major Rhodesian exports and a selective embargo against oil and military supplies to Rhodesia.

Britain had clung to the hope that economic pressure, particularly the cutoff of oil imports, would eventually force Smith out of office. But few Commonwealth partners shared this view.

"The sanctions are having no effect whatsoever on the Rhodesian situation," Zambian Ambassador Joseph Ben Mwemba said recently. "Zambia is the one that has no oil."

Faced with mounting demands for a reappraisal of the sanctions policy, the U.N. Security Council is expected to meet soon to consider possible enforcement measures.

It can either take action against the governments refusing to comply with the sanctions resolution or call for military force to throw out Smith's government. But both courses are unlikely to win approval.

A spokesman for the contractors said the old contract provided for wage and fringe benefits of $4.25 an hour to $5.63 an hour.

The state Mediation Board announced Tuesday the meeting today with representatives of the International Union of Operating Engineers and the Associated General Contractors of America.

The 8,000 union members halted work Monday after their three-year contract expired at midnight Saturday. The members operate heavy equipment.

Road and other construction was affected in 46 counties outside New York City. A spokesman for the State Transportation Department said 94 highway projects, valued at $260 million, were involved.

A spokesman for the contractors said the old contract provided for wage and fringe benefits of $4.25 an hour to $5.63 an hour.

Citation Given for Post 1298

Esopus Legion Post 1298 has been presented a national citation by the American Legion for its work in child welfare in the Third District for the fifth straight year.

The Third District comprises Ulster, Greene, Sullivan, Columbia and Albany counties.

There are some 90 American Legion Posts in District Three.

The award will be presented at the regular meeting of the Esopus Legion, Legion Court, Port Ewen, next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. On hand for the presentation will be Third District Child Welfare Chairman Leonard Hocking and Ninth District Chairman Frank Magurno.

The Child Welfare Committee of Post 1298 is headed by Edgar M. Maurer. Members include

Walter Sismlich, Milton Tisera and Chester Barth. All members of the Child Welfare Committee are past commanders of Post 1298.

This year's award came under the commandship of Warren Dunham. The present commander is William Prendergast.

Army Routine

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP) — Because the Army would not bend one of its bookkeeping rules, Phil Kaser, a druggist here, had to cash 96 checks to collect $1390. He had been filling prescriptions for a family filed, which, under the law, is provided medical care because the members are listed as "army dependents." But the Army computer programming system required sending a separate collection check for every prescription.

Citizens, Firemen Present Appeals to Village Board

A roily condition of water brought a group of residents to the Saugerties Village Board meeting Monday night to lodge formal complaint.

The group resides in the area of Second, Livingston, Finger and Market Streets.

Mayor Cornelius Cox advised that he would meet with the Water Board in an attempt to solve the problem.

Another group, with George Warringer, second assistant fire chief, Washington Hook and Ladder Company as spokesman, submitted written reports to the board explaining why they felt present fire fighting apparatus was inadequate. The group gave reasons as to need for a 75-foot aerial ladder and truck.

Mayor Cox said he would appoint a committee of village board members and the fire commissioner which is to investigate and report back to the fire truck committee.

In other business the board agreed to the removal of two parking meters on Partition Street in order that Santo Francello, new owner of the Rovengo building may extend a driveway.

Permission was granted the CYO for use of the Roger Don auditorium Saturday mornings.

Approval was given the membership of Allen Drescher in the C. A. Lynch Hose Company and announcement was made concerning fire inspection of commercial buildings and public places Oct. 16 to Oct. 31.

Talk on Drugs

Women's Guild for Christian Service of Saugerties Reformed Church will hold its meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the parish room.

An opening meeting, members and their friends are invited.

Thomas Mayone of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, will speak on drugs and narcotics.

45th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Dengler of Saugerties-Woodstock Road were honored at a surprise party Saturday night at VFW Hall, Saugerties on the occasion of their 45th wedding anniversary. Sixty-five guests attended.

Democrat Dinner On Oct. 21

Town of Saugerties Democratic Club held its monthly meeting at the Flamingo recently.

Among the many projects discussed was the rummage sale to be held Oct. 4, 5, 6, 7, in the old Delson's Building at 83 Partition Street.

The annual dinner dance to be held at the Flamingo, Oct. 21 will commence at 8, followed by an evening of dancing. Tickets may be obtained from any club member.

President Paul Brazier, advised that the Democratic Headquarters at 83 Partition Street, will open Oct. 10. Members will be on hand to answer questions and take requests. The public is invited to stop in at any time.

Amphitheater Is Subject of Talk at Lions

The dinner meeting of Saugerties Lions Club held at the Flamingo Monday featured an address by Kermit Goell on the proposed Rip Van Winkle Musical Fantasy, which is to be held at the Washington Irving Amphitheater in Catskill. Goell stated that we, in this area, have an ideal opportunity to create an educational amusement area in the Hudson Valley, second to none. He pointed to the successes other communities had had in taking such products as their native legends, and producing them as a stage show annually to attract tourists and visitors to the area. He pointed out that many areas with no natural folk lore have imported ideas and met with success, but that we have no such problem here because Rip Van Winkle is a local legend and of world-wide acclaim. It was pointed out that the land for the Amphitheater has been purchased and that construction will shortly begin in order that the project will be in operation for next summer. The musical program is a family musical fantasy with a cast of 75 and is to be presented by the Catskill Mountain Resort and Recreation Development Corporation.

College Night For Eight High Schools, Oct. 18

The ninth annual Ulster County College Night Program sponsored by the Ulster County Guidance Association will be held at Saugerties High School Wednesday, Oct. 18, at 7:30 p. m. About 60 college admissions officers will be present to provide information concerning their institutions.

Sophomores, juniors and seniors of Ellenville, Highland, Marlboro, New Paltz, Ontonagon, Rondout Valley, Saugerties and Walkkill High Schools and their parents are invited to attend. Advance registration is required. Registrations will be accepted during the week of Oct. 2, by the guidance counselors of each of the participating schools.

There will be three discussion periods of 35 minutes each beginning at 7:30 p. m. so that during the evening a person may hear three college representatives. A dinner for speakers and counselors will be held preceding the conference periods. The Ulster County College Night Program is under the supervision of James A. Chase, guidance counselor at Saugerties High School.

It was announced by Lion President Kenneth Harder that at next week's meeting, the speaker will be Paul Brazier of the Saugerties High School who will speak on the subject, Living and Education in a Correctional Institution.

GOP Lists Its Achievements

The platform committee of the Saugerties Republican party today released its program for the 1967 campaign.

GOP Chairman, Louis P. Francello, reviewed a few of the major accomplishments of the Republican administration.

Water District

In 1950 the Town Board established the Glasco Water District. This was the key to the development of the Barclay Heights area. Among other things, fire insurance rates were decreased, and the available residential area made Saugerties the largest and fastest growing town in Ulster County.

The tremendous growth of the town required additional facilities to transact town business. The Republican town government expanded the Town Office Building. The new facilities include offices for collector of taxes, and an office for the assessor and his staff. Also added was a modern justice court and judges chambers and conference room for attorneys and litigants.

In 1965, the present administration was the first town government in the county to realize that the growth and population required a special census. This enabled the town to increase its share of per capita state aid by having the new and greater population figure used by the state.

Realizing the lack of recreation facilities in the Barclay Heights area, the Republican administration cooperated with the Saugerties Jaycees for the creation of the Barclay Heights Park District. This project is now completed and ready to be turned over by the Saugerties Jaycees to the town.

Recently, the town government spearheaded by Supervisor Peter Williams, the first chairman of the Ulster County Planning Board, established one in Saugerties. This board is organized and is now already functioning.

Platform

The platform committee presents six major planks for the further growth and development of the town. Some of these programs have already been initiated and when completed will improve the comfort and well-being of the residents of the town.

Sewer project for Barclay Heights and Glasco area.

Improvement to present Glasco Water District to provide better flows and greater pressure.

Candidate

WILLIAM D. BRINNIER

William D. Brinnier, Republican candidate for county legislator, was born in the Village of Saugerties, attended Saugerties High School and graduated from Union College and Albany Law School. He enlisted in the Navy during World War II and is a member of the American Legion.

He was admitted to the practice of law in 1954 and also admitted to the U.S. Federal Court for the Southern District and the United States Supreme Court. He was appointed Justice of the Peace to fill a vacancy and has been re-elected twice to that position.

Brinnier has been active in Bar Association affairs having been president of the Ulster County Bar. He has also served as chairman of the Young Lawyers Section of the New York State Bar Association. He is also a past President of the Saugerties Lions Club and at present is chairman of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission.

He is married to the former Sally Russell, and has two children, Russell and William. The Brinniers are residents of the village.

Extremely active in civic affairs, he has also served as chairman of the highly successful Lions Club Glaucoma Clinic and has recently been appointed as the Lions Club representative in a project "Dollars for Scholars," which is being initiated by the Saugerties Jaycees.

A life-time Republican, he has served as committeeman in District 1 for over a decade and is now a committeeman for the newly designated district 14 in the village. With regard to his designation by the Republican party, he has stated "I am deeply honored to be one of the four Republican candidates for Ulster County Legislature representing District 1, Saugerties. My life-long association with the people of Saugerties and my interest in my community will, I hope, enable me to represent Saugerties on the county legislative level, and to assist and participate in the newly organized county legislature, which replaces the board of supervisors, and to remain there as long as the Republican party and the voters of Saugerties desire."

Gets Disaster Label

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal agency has designated Cataugus County, N.Y., as a disaster area as a result of last week's floods in the western part of New York State.

The Small Business Administration made the declaration of disaster Tuesday.

The designation permits owners of businesses, charitable institutions and homes to apply to the agency for repair loans.

Fatal Rope Trick

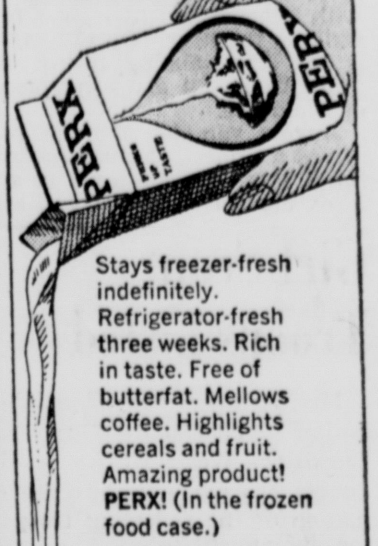

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Timothy Sweat, 11, of Rochester, was injured fatally when a rope stunt resulted in an accidental hanging Tuesday, police said.

The boy told companions he would "show them a few tricks" as he played with a rope on a tree behind his home, police said. He put his head in the rope's loop, and swinging back and forth, he became caught in the loop, they added.

Sweat's friends called for assistance, but he was dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital. The Sweat address is 751 Main St. W.

Guild Announces Annual Craft Exhibit Winners

At the opening recently of the eighth annual crafts exhibition in the Woodstock Guild Gallery, the winners of the $25 Awards donated by the Crafts Foundation of Woodstock were announced. Judges were Jane Jones, Arthur Zaidenberg and James Turnbull.

Jean Marie Moore received a Konrad Cramer Award for her well constructed branch vase in stoneware, its surface interestingly pitted and covered with a thin brown glaze. Two other pieces by Miss Moore are equally original and impressive.

Wilna Hervey was awarded a Konrad Cramer Award for her enamel flower piece in soft, lovely colors against a muted background. Her extraordinary skill with the merium is well demonstrated in this picture, and in two others in which lush flowers bloom in rich enamel reds, or glow whitely against intense depths of blue.

Stephen Robin was awarded a Richard Chambers Award for a most unusual clock, a free-standing abstract form of laminated and carved wood, terminating in a clock face at about eye level. Built in behind it is an antique clock works with a pendulum and gong for striking the hour. On view also is his free-standing mirror in zebra wood, an arresting piece of sculpture.

stripe of gold, a splendid example of her excellent craftsmanship. She recently wove a banquet cloth for the American Embassy in London.

William Seitz was awarded a Richard Chambers Award for a set of silver objects; three silver goblets of varied design (one a ceremonial vessel lined with gold) and a silver box embellished with a triangle of malachite. His silver punch bowl and ladle are also on exhibit.

White ribbons for honorable mention were awarded to five artists: Carolyn Haeblerlin for a set of eight silver spoons, two graceful little ladles, and six salt or demi-tasse spoons. Nan Mason for an abstract enamel picture, sparkling with strong, brilliant color and marked by her sure sense of design and form.

To John Pike for his hand-crafted "stutz pussycat" sports car, based on the styling of the famous Stutz Bearcat of the 1915 era, but with innumerable details that are sure "Pike."

To Jarl Hesselbarth for a delightful Saint Francis in terra cotta. Perched on his hands are little blue birds of the species "Hesselbarth", so well known to ceramic-bird watchers. To Bea Binger for an intriguing flat bowl of heavily grouted stoneware incised with circular lines between which appear hieroglyphic figures and signs.

The show will be open seven days a week from 1:30 to 5 p. m. through Oct. 29.

Girl Scout Troops Listed

Mrs. LeRoy Stoothoff, neighborhood chairman for the Woodstock-West Hurley Girl Scouts has announced the formation of the following troops for the current year.

In Woodstock, Brownies are meeting in two troops: Troop 82, with Mrs. Calvin Bruckner and Mrs. Sydney Smith; and Troop 184, with Mrs. Ted Beahm and Mrs. Edwin Balmer. Junior troops include Troop 96, Mrs. Eugene Marynowski and Troop 174, Mrs. Ronald Keppel.

In West Hurley, Brownies meet with Troop 89, Mrs. John Blatter; Troop 182, Mrs. Charles Ring; and Troop 183, Mrs. Peter Sammons. Juniors belong to Troop 176, Mrs. John Frangello; Troop 84, Mrs. Gunther Zoehfeld; Troop 141, Mrs. Paul Fusaro; and Troop 79, Mrs. Ernest Myers. Cadette Girl Scouts of Junior High age meet with Mrs. Gilbert Glass and Mrs. Richard Marquis in Troop 173.

New girls interested in scouting should contact troop organizers, Mrs. Noel France in Woodstock, and Mrs. Robert Ross in West Hurley. There is still a need for uniforms, and any that have been outgrown will be most welcome, as well as hats and ties. The uniform exchange is maintained by Mrs. Eduard Blatter of West Hurley.

A nature hike for Brownies was conducted by Mrs. David Fox Saturday in the vicinity of Morgan Hill Road. The girls were able to collect nature specimens and concluded their hike with a picnic lunch at Mrs. Fox's home.

The next meeting of the neighborhood, to include all leaders and assistant leaders will be held on Oct. 10 at 7:30 p. m. A workshop on service projects and Christmas gifts will be a feature of the meeting.

Postpone Meeting

Tuesday Club of Woodstock will postpone its regular meeting until Oct. 17 at the Lutheran Church Hall. In addition to the business meeting, a Halloween mask party will be held.

Hostesses include: Mrs. Inez Hall, Mrs. Amy Balty, Mrs. Marguerite VanDe Bogart and Mrs. Minnie Shultis.

Society Names New Directors

The Woodstock Association for the Conservation and Improvement of the Township, Inc., at its annual meeting held recently, elected three new directors for terms of three years each: Gordon Anderson, Ned W. Buoymaster, and Phyllis Wittner.

Other directors of the association are: chairman, Paul Doornville; Houston E. Landis, Jr., Alvin E. Moscovitz, Robert Sleight, J. Constant van Rijn, Leonard E. Waters, Benjamin L. Webster, Elbert Varney was re-elected treasurer.

Anyone interested in becoming a member can do so by contacting any of the directors.

Cub Scouts to Hike Overlook

Pack 34 Cub Scouts are invited to join a hike up Overlook Mountain on Saturday, Oct. 7. They will meet at the Woodstock Recreation Field at 10 a. m. Each scout should bring a snack.

Pack 34 had its first meeting of the new season recently at which awards were presented. A movie was shown and refreshments served.

Any parents in the Woodstock area, who have boys aged 8 through 11 interested in joining cub scouts, contact George Turner.

Square Dance

A fall square dance will be held by the Methodist Youth Fellowship of Shady Friday, Oct. 6 from 8 to midnight at the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club.

Music will be provided by Fred Russell and his band. Refreshments will be served. A game, shave the balloon will be played and awards will be made. The public is welcome, according to publicity chairman, Brenda Howland.

Bullets, Rocks Harass Pennsy Turnpike Trucks

Wappinger Gets $49,280 Waters Grant

Governor Rockefeller announced today that the state, under its Pure Waters program, will provide a grant of $49,280 for construction of an $88,000 sewer project for the town of Wappinger in Dutchess County.

The $49,280 includes a basic 30 per cent state grant of $26,400 and prefinancing in the amount of $22,880, or 26 per cent of the Federal share. Because of the inadequacy of Federal appropriations for water pollution control, the immediate Federal contribution will be only $3,520 or 4 per cent of the total. Federal grant application has been forwarded to the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration.

"This project," Governor Rockefeller noted, "is another step in our effort to rid the Hudson River of pollution. At present, sewage from this area discharges into Sprout Creek, which is a tributary of the Hudson."

Local Youth Trains for Marine Post

Joseph Fernandez, son of Mrs. Sadie Fernandez, Route 1, Box 345, Kingston, now is aboard the S. S. Australian Galaxy as an apprentice engineer under a program of the Calhoun MEBA Training School to teach young men to become licensed engineers in the United States Merchant Marine.

Located in Baltimore, Md., the school began its second year of operation on Oct. 1, 1967. Because of the extreme shortage of licensed engineers aboard American-flag merchant vessels, it was established a year ago by the National Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association (AFM-CIO) and is financed by the shipowners in an arrangement with the engineers' union.

Fernandez, is a graduate of Kingston High School. He was enrolled in the Calhoun MEBA Training school Nov. 17, 1966.

New classes are formed every two or three weeks. Each class consists of only 20 to 25 youths. The school is programmed to have about 500 students in the classroom and at sea at the same time.

Operation Shop Early Theme of Red Cross

The Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross is joining with other chapters around the country in "Operation Shop Early," a project designed to make the holidays brighter for U.S. servicemen stationed in Vietnam.

This year's national goal is to make and fill 525,000 "ditty" bags, the useful carryalls sent to servicemen and filled with a variety of small gifts. The Ulster County quota is 500. Even the ditty bag, an item Red Cross has used successfully since World War I, is now undergoing modernization. This year's bag will be made of red or green cotton material strong enough to stand up to the tropical climate of Vietnam and remain usable as a container for the owner's personal belongings after the original contents have been used.

Thousands of letters of thanks received in response to last year's "Shop Early" program prove the effectiveness of the project in cheering G.I.s. One such letter from a field hospital patient read in part: "The change in the mood of our ward was immediate. Thank you for bringing a little bit of home into our holiday." Cardinal Spellman of New York, in his capacity of Chaplain to the Armed Forces in Vietnam, received his ditty bag there last Christmas, was delighted with it, felt it was one of the best presents he had ever received, and promptly wrote a thank you note to the contributing chapter.

Each ditty bag contains a card identifying the chapter and cooperating agencies that readied it. Gift items include ball point pens, writing paper, pocket games, paperback books, and vacuum packed hard candies, together with toilet articles such as toothpaste, shaving cream, razors, combs, and soaps. One club, the New York Telephone Pioneers of Kingston, has completed readying 100 of these bags.

You can take part in "Operation Shop Early" by contacting the Ulster County Red Cross chapter and volunteering to help in supplying gifts or in packing them for shipment by Oct. 15, the Red Cross adds.

Unarmed Servicemen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Some young men near here are preparing to leave for Vietnam service. But, guns and flame-throwers won't occupy any space in their kit-bags.

The "servicemen" are volunteers with VISA (Voluntary International Service Assignments), founded in 1961 by the American Friends Service Committee and run for young men and women of all religions. VISA is similar to the Peace Corps and served as a model for the U.S. program of voluntary service abroad.

This year there will be about 160 VISA representatives serving two-year stints in six different regions—South Vietnam, India, West Germany, Tanzania, Guatemala, and Appalachia (in the southern U.S.). The Americans live like natives, pitch in with community projects, organize classes, assist in clinics, dig wells and latrines, and try to build communications and cooperation.

Asian Beriberi

Beriberi, a disease caused largely by a deficiency of vitamin B-1, has its highest incidence in Asia, where rice has been highly polished during the milling process ever since the 19th century, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Each ditty bag contains a card identifying the chapter and cooperating agencies that readied it. Gift items include ball point pens, writing paper, pocket games, paperback books, and vacuum packed hard candies, together with toilet articles such as toothpaste, shaving cream, razors, combs, and soaps. One club, the New York Telephone Pioneers of Kingston, has completed readying 100 of these bags.

Silver Star Recipient Returns to Duty in U.S.

JOHN WIEGERT JR.

Vietnam Silver Star recipient Sgt. John F. Wiegert Jr., whose parents reside at 132 Second Avenue, this city, has returned to stateside duty. Sgt. Wiegert is now serving at Fort Knox, Ky., as an infantry squad leader in the 54th Infantry (Mechanized) and expects to be discharged in February, 1968.

In addition to receiving the Silver Star for "distinguishing himself by exceptionally valorous action," Sgt. Wiegert holds the Combat Infantryman's Badge, the Army Air Medal, the Vietnamese Service Medal, the Vietnamese Campaign Medal and a Presidential Unit Citation Medal.

A graduate of Kingston High School, he served a year of duty in Vietnam before returning to this country in July of this year.

Award to Delaney

Captain William J. Delaney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Delaney of 204 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, has been recognized for helping his unit win the coveted U. S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Captain Delaney, a navigator at Forbes AFB, Kan., will wear the distinctive blue service ribbon as a permanent decoration as a member of the 1370th Photo Mapping Wing. The wing was cited for accomplishing an extensive aerial photo mapping survey and related geodetic missions well ahead of schedule and at cost savings.

A major subordinate unit of the Military Airlift Command, the 1370th provides mapping and survey missions in response to Air Force and other Defense Department needs. Its personnel are stationed at numerous locations in the United States and are often deployed throughout the world.

The captain was commissioned in 1962 upon completion of Officer Training School, Lackland AFB, Tex.

A graduate of Kingston High School, he received his BS degree in biology in 1961 from Siena College, Loudonville.

In the SERVICE

Ross Promoted, Serves in Viet

Second Lt. Robert J. Ross Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Ross of 159 Bruyn Avenue, was recently promoted to the rank of first lieutenant while serving in Vietnam.

Lt. Ross received his Army commission in June, 1966, upon graduation from Siena College, Loudonville. Prior to his departure for Vietnam he received extensive training at Artillery School, Fort Sill, Okla.

He has been in Vietnam since July, 1967 and is currently attached to the 1st Battalion, 18th Infantry, 11th Infantry Division.

Lt. Ross' wife, Janet, now resides in Connelly with his grandparents.

Mikesh Graduates

Seaman Recruit James F. Mikesh, USN, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mikesh of 100 Wurts Street, Kingston, has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

Marine Graduates

Marine Corporal Vincent J. Immediato, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmine Immediato of Route 2, Kingston, was graduated from basic Photographer's Mate School in Pensacola, Fla.

The school, which is the first step for all naval photographers, consists of 18 weeks of instruction in still, aerial and motion picture photography.

Zaccheo at Sea

Radarman Seaman John D. Zaccheo, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Zaccheo of 256 Albany Avenue, Kingston, is in the Mediterranean aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Rehmer in Action

Army Private First Class Bruce W. Rehmer, son of Mrs. Irene Bagley, 109 Yarmouth Street, Kingston, is participating in Operation Pershing in Vietnam, with other members of the 1st Air Cavalry Division. He and other members of the division have evacuated more than 19,000 refugees from coastal areas to numerous refugee centers in secured areas as well as inflicting heavy damage on the Viet Cong.

During the search and clear operation, he has been engaged in dragging the VC from their vast network of tunnels and bunkers. They had been driven underground by constant U.S. artillery and air strikes.

Pvt. Rehmer is a medic in Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion, of the division's 8th Cavalry.

His father, William B. Rehmer, lives on Route 144, Selkirk.

Polizzi Promoted

Dominick Polizzi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Polizzi, Plattkill Road, Marlboro, was promoted to staff sergeant Sept. 10 in Vietnam, where he is assigned to the 19th Engineer Battalion.

Sgt. Polizzi, a medical section sergeant in the battalions' Headquarters Company, entered the Army in August 1963 and was last stationed in Germany.

ABC Suing Union Head For $2 Million Damages

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co. has filed a $2 million damage suit against Mel Brandt, president of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA), which has ordered its members not to cross picket lines of striking ABC technicians.

The suit, filed Tuesday in the New York State Supreme Court, also sought an injunction restraining AFTRA from persuading ABC employees "to violate any employment contract" under threat of facing disciplinary action by the union.

About 1,500 technicians—members of the AFL-CIO National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians—have been on strike against the ABC television and radio networks since Sept. 22 in a contract dispute.

In Los Angeles, one of five cities where NABET is on strike and picketing, Superior Court Judge Ralph Nutter on Tuesday granted ABC a temporary restraining order prohibiting AFTRA from refusing to allow its members to cross the picket lines.

Papers in the suit said ABC has a written agreement in Los Angeles with AFTRA that its members will not strike, picket or boycott the company. Nutter scheduled a hearing for next Tuesday. At that time, AFTRA is to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

In the suit filed in New York, ABC said AFTRA's acts applied to members with individual contracts with the company and "constitute intentional and malicious interference."

No date for a hearing on the suit was set.

Members of AFTRA include performers, announcers, newscasters and disc jockeys.

Despite the order from AFTRA, an increasing number of its members have been returning to work at ABC here. A number of them have said that individual contracts required them to work.

Negotiations between ABC and NABET, with the help of federal mediators, were recessed Tuesday with no report of progress and no new talks scheduled. The technicians struck after rejecting an ABC offer of an increase in average weekly pay from $218 to $252. The union demanded $275.

His Work Stops

In Japan, it is customary for the laboratory of a Japanese research professor to be closed and research, no matter what stage it had reached, to be discontinued when he reaches the retirement age of 63.

International Yellow Pages Have World of Information

BY JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If you let your fingers do the walking through the pages of the International Yellow Pages, you'll travel through 150 countries listed on more than 1,000 pages of a five-pound tome.

The IYP is much the same in appearance as the yellow pages distributed by your telephone company and advertised with a fling that recommends that you dial for your purchase rather than walk from store to store.

The major differences are that IYP covers the world, is sold at $20 a copy, and tells you such esoteric fare as how to reach a veterinarian in Tasmania, where to buy a bicycle in Moscow, how to reach a broker in Rome.

As a vehicle of American capitalism it has received a mixed response. Some Communist nations such as Poland, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Romania run display advertisements in the directory. The Soviet Union, which has advertised in the directory before, is negotiating to return.

R. H. Donnelley Co., which purchased the directory from its originator, Robert Nelson of Rochester, N.Y., hopes to make the IYP a profitable venture as world trade develops.

The largest circulation so far in its three-year history was 45,258, but distribution of the 1968 edition is expected to exceed 50,000 and the 1970 edition 100,000. A goal of 500,000 is believed within reach.

To obtain a full-page ad such as was taken in the current edition by Romanian foreign trade companies, costs $1,200. A one line listing in bold type costs $50.

A good many of the line listings still are entered without charge, however, because they are not, as a Donnelley spokesman says, "ad potential." These include embassies and other numbers needed to give the book an appearance of completeness.

These nonpaying numbers are culled from hundreds of local telephone directories, from the U.S. Department of Commerce, from various guides and free agents in 50 countries.

These agents, some of whom work for advertising agencies in their countries, act as publisher's representatives. They sell space in the directory and then edit the section for their country.

After that they sell the directory, taking to the road to convince customers that someday they might need to know in a hurry the number for the Chase-Meinn Hotel in Botswana.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced in active trading early Wednesday.

Advances among individual issues exceeded declines by 250 issues.

The New York Stock Exchange ticker tape fell two minutes behind in reporting floor transactions within a few minutes after the opening.

Brokers said they expected the market to react favorably to action of the House Ways and Means Committee in ferring consideration of the income tax surcharge bill and the increase in new car sales in the last third of September.

Opening blocks included Pan American World Airways, up 1/4 at 26 on 6,200 shares; American Telephone, off 1/4 at 52 3/4 on 6,000 shares; Great Western Financial, off 1/4 at 16 1/2 on 27,000 shares; and International Paper, up 1/4 at 27 1/2 on 8,400 shares.

Quotations by Wood, Walker & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, 62 Wall Street, New York City; branch office, 52 Main Street, Lowell, S. Brooks, manager.

Chichester

CHICHESTER — Miss Helen Bennett and brother Earl spent Friday afternoon in Tarrytown.

Mrs. Bessie Quick of Phoenix and Mrs. Herman Quick and daughter Melanie visited Mrs. H. Lee Breithaupt at the Lake Hill Rest Home Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Bessie Quick baked a birthday cake for Mrs. Breithaupt who was 76 years old Monday, Sept. 25.

Rudolph Neu sold his home here to Mr. and Mrs. John A. Cooper Jr. of 517 East 87th Street, New York City. Neu is visiting in Connecticut.

Mrs. Raymond Conklin entertained the following at her home Wednesday evening: Mrs. Doris Hornbeck of Saugerties, Mrs. Charles Thomson, Mrs. Francis Teney, Mrs. Carl Harrington, Mrs. Roy Erickson, Mrs. Anthony Kirk, Mrs. Richard Carr, Mrs. Harvey Ostrander, Mrs. Douglas Osborne and Mrs. Mabel Conklin.

The Chichester Wesleyan Methodist Church will hold Rally Day services on Sunday 10 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Van Eiten and children Blanche and Clark of Bushnellville visited Mr. and Mrs. Herman Quick and family Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kirk gave a birthday party for their grandson Richard Carr II's first birthday. Those present besides his maternal grandparents and his mother were, his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Carr of Shandaken, his great-grandmother, Mrs. Addie Carr and daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carr and family of Shandaken, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Erickson and Holly and David Fallon.

Successful Investing....

Conservative Mortgage Should Be Retained

Q1 "We are a couple, aged 53 and 51. We have about $30,000 a year combined earnings. We have a new house worth $60,000 on which our mortgage is now $13,000. Our cash savings amount to $50,000 and we are paying $150 a month into the Wellington Fund where our holdings now total 650 shares. We are wondering if we should pay off the mortgage and invest part of our savings to build an estate for retirement in 10-15 years."

R.M. A) You seem very well situated financially but your program for retirement is lacking in growth potential which is very necessary to offset continued inflation. I see no reason for you to pay off your mortgage. It is easily sustainable and will probably be settled ultimately with cheaper dollars. Wellington is a good, conservative fund, but it is a balanced fund, its future rise in asset value per share seems likely to be insufficient for your particular purposes. I would retain present holdings but discontinue monthly payments. I believe you should undertake a program of stock investment, putting at least half of savings into growth issues which can enhance your capital over the next ten years. I suggest as initial purchases: Bristol-Myers; Del Monte; Becon; Dickinson; Litton Industries; Marshall Field.

Q) "We own Treasury 2 1/2 war.

due Sept. 1972, callable in 1967. We hoped these would be redeemable but this seems unlikely. Should we hold or take our loss? We are plain working people." M.R. A) Because of money conditions, Treasuries are selling at their lowest level in many years. You have a completely secure investment which affords a satisfactory yield at current prices. Abnormal credit conditions have affected all bond levels but they're not going to last forever. I advise you to hold your Treasuries until they are paid off in full or move higher. In either of these eventualities, I believe you should switch to savings bonds, which are completely stable.

State Housing Group Will Meet Today

The first meeting of the recently created Empire Housing Foundation was scheduled this afternoon at the offices of the New York State Division of Housing and Community Renewal, 393 Seventh Avenue, New York City. State Housing Commissioner James W. Gaynor, chairman of the Foundation, presided. The Foundation was created by Governor Rockefeller to encourage qualified non-profit organizations to undertake the sponsorship of senior citizens housing.

George E. Yerry Jr., chairman of Kingston Housing Authority and a member of the State Workmen's Compensation Board represents the Kingston area on the foundation.

"It will be the goal of the Foundation to provide advisory and educational services to organizations interested in sponsoring non-profit housing for the aging," Commissioner Gaynor said. "Members of the Foundation will advise and assist these organizations in utilizing existing state programs designed to stimulate the development of senior citizens housing."

"At the same time, the Division of Housing and Community Renewal will provide the foundation with the necessary technical resources and professional personnel to expedite the processing of plans and perform for the sponsors the steps necessary to initiate a project. In this way we will be able to shorten the time span between the submission of a proposed site and the start of construction."

Non-profit sponsors will be able to utilize existing state programs including low-cost, long-term mortgages for the entire cost of the project; rent assistance for up to 100 percent of the project's tenants; 100 percent tax abatement; and interest free, speed money advance loans from the Housing Development Fund to meet the initial planning and development costs incurred in the initiation of a project.

The Foundation is composed of representatives of communities throughout the state who have exhibited extensive knowledge and expertise in dealing with the problems of the aging, and who have indicated a desire to take action to effect improvements.

Ex-Nazis Here

PARIS (AP) — Simon Wiesenthal, the Nazi hunter who helped track down Adolf Eichmann, says two German women wanted on war crimes charges in Germany and Austria have married Americans and are living in the United States.

He said the matter has been brought to the attention of the Justice Department and Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Wiesenthal said both women are accused of involvement in the operation of Nazi death camps. One, he said, is living in Chicago and is married to a physician. He declined to say where the other lives. Wiesenthal, a former concentration camp inmate, runs the Jewish Documentation Center in Vienna.

Weathers Motion

OTTAWA (AP) — The Liberal government of Prime Minister Lester Pearson weathered a nonconfidence motion on its housing policies Tuesday night by a margin of 14 votes, 112-98. Had the Liberals failed to muster enough votes, they would have faced the prospect of a new general election.

A Touch of the Orient Visits Our Hudson Shores

By LYNN MULVANEY
A Chinese junk on Rondout Creek?
Members of Kingston Flotilla 10-12 could hardly believe their binoculars.
But it happened, just this past weekend when the three-masted Ding Hao, enroute from China to Monte Carlo (the long way around) put in for repairs.
Luxurious Living
Although "Made in Hong Kong" and referred to as "junk," the 60-foot craft is actually a floating teakwood showcase of luxurious living.
Traditional Chinese, with blood-red sails, the 1967-built beauty has intricately carved bulkheads and two-inch teak and modern-day appointments planking. "Properly cared for, it is a stereo, washing machine, should last a century," claims its owner, Cornel Lumiere, French-Canadian writer and world traveler.

Step aboard the Ding Hao, meaning the best of everything) and you step back 2,000 years in time and 7,000 miles in distance.
Step below deck and you enter a floating world of Oriental opulence. Thick wall-to-wall carpeting, king-size stateroom beds all softly illuminated by Chinese lanterns. The entire interior is a tactile paradise of rich lacquers and fabrics, colorful custom designed Tai Ping carpets and antique panelling.
Skillfully worked into the traditional motif are such practical bulkheads and two-inch teak and modern-day appointments planking. "Properly cared for, it is a stereo, washing machine, deep freeze and two 75 h.p. engines.

$80,000 Item
Built by the Hip Hing Cheung shipyard in Hong Kong at about $80,000, the Ding Hao has a top speed of nine and one-half knots (fast for a junk) and was brought to this country aboard the liner President McKinley and uncased in New York.
Lumiere, with his wife and a crew of two are heading south before a planned trip to the Mediterranean and Monte Carlo, which is to be their home port in the future.
The commissioning of the junk was conceived by Lumiere several years ago. He and his wife, Jewel, a beautiful and talented photographer-painter, detailed the design for the craft's construction. Together, they work aboard the ship as well as at their equally elegant establishment on the Island of Jamaica.

Lumiere writes—books, television plays and documentaries, magazine articles, movie scenarios.
Jewell assists with television filming and together they have produced programs in Australia.
Lumiere, who speaks English, Maylay, Japanese, French, Spanish, Dutch, Italian and German, worked for several years as a technical director (dialects) in Hollywood, Calif.
Lumiere, who admits to very little sailing experience other than "dugout canoes and catamarans," spent four months in Hong Kong Harbor before venturing on the high seas.

Many Distractions
Why did he choose a junk rather than a yacht? "Because it is the only boat in the world which has double the space for half the cost," he contends.
To date Lumiere has taken the Ding Hao through 70 locks on U. S. inland water routes and has yet to batter a wicker bumper.
In sailing conducive to producing manuscripts? No, not necessarily, Lumiere says. In fact he claims there are too many distractions, for on a boat, like in a woman's home, there is always something to be done. Anyway, he likes doing it.

Bechtold, Smith: Plan to Attract Developers, Private Homes

Declaring that "The City must take the initiative in developing unimproved properties within its borders," the Republican-Liberal Mayoral candidate C. John Bechtold revealed today that he and his running mate, Louis J. Smith, Republican-Conservative candidate for Alderman at Large, have "nearly completed a plan that will make Kingston more attractive to developers and individual builders of private homes."

"The City," said Bechtold, "has always waited until after private homes have been built, to construct sewers, water lines, streets, and sidewalks. Because of this, many large areas of Kingston which could easily accommodate hundreds of private homes, have remained undeveloped."

Agreeing with his running mate, Smith said, "We are facing a crisis. Until something is done, these areas will remain untapped, and present property owners will be forced to assume an increasing and, eventually, insupportable tax burden. The City loses great sums each year in potential tax revenues."

"We propose to solve this situation," said Bechtold, "by having the city take the initiative in developing these areas. The tax revenues they represent are needed too much for us to ignore them. We must attract a more people to Kingston to share the tax load."

"The cost of government is constantly increasing," said Smith, "and John and I know that even more services are

Liner Leaves Mothballs for Floating Dorm

NEW YORK (AP) — The older liner Exochorda leaves the mothball fleet at Jones Point, N.Y., today to embark on a new role as a floating dormitory for 200 college freshmen.

The 23-year-old passenger-cargo liner formerly of the American Export Lines, will be towed down the Hudson River to Hoboken, N.J., where it will be used by the Stevens Institute of Technology.

The school was awarded the ship earlier this week by the Maritime Administration for a high bid of $130,301.

A school spokesman explained that this year's class is larger than previous ones and consequently dormitory space is at a premium.

each individual owner of undeveloped property within the City, and obtain his permission, and possibly his assistance, to perform a complete survey and inspection of the property," Bechtold said.

"This will allow us to determine exactly what is needed on each tract to make it attractive to individuals and developers. Some properties may need only the extension of an existing long way in helping to provide the police protection, youth programs, and programs for the senior citizens that are lacking today."

Asked what "steps" the city should take to provide the development for these properties, Bechtold said "Many methods of finance come to mind. The most common of these, of course, is a bond issue. Other cities have been successful in developing their unimproved properties by establishing a non-profit municipal corporation for that purpose. Whatever method we eventually recommend to the people, it will provide for at least partial reimbursement by the developer."

6 REASONS FOR SAVING AT KINGSTON SAVINGS BANK

- Top Interest-Dividend Rate. At Kingston Savings Bank, your savings have "Grow-Power," earning the highest interest-dividend rate permitted in New York State on regular passbook savings . . . a full 5% per year, compounded and credited four times a year, on all savings of $1 or more.
- Extra Interest Days. Money deposited in the Kingston Savings Bank by October 10 earns interest-dividends from October 1.
- Convenience. You can save while you shop—free parking in Kingston Savings Bank's own lot (entrance from Crown Street) while you bank . . . extra banking hours at Walk-up Teller Window. You can bank from 9 to 5 Monday through Thursday, 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Fridays.
- Safety. Money in your Kingston Savings Bank savings account is insured to $15,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Your savings are free from speculative risks.
- Borrow Power. Your Kingston Savings Bank passbook entitles you to borrow money with your passbook as collateral for lowest-cost installment type loan, a Personal-Savings Loan. Your savings remain intact, earning generous interest-dividends.
- Community Growth. Money deposited with Kingston Savings Bank goes to work in the community. Even during the tight-money situation, Kingston Savings Bank continued to make home mortgage loans to qualified customers. K.S.B. is the leading single source of first mortgage money in the county.

JOHN M. ROBBINS

Attended State Meeting on TB

John M. Robbins, president, and representative delegate, and E. Robert Johnson, executive director, have returned from representing the Ulster County TB and Health Association at the joint annual three-day meeting of the New York State Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association and the New York State conference of TB-RD Workers at the Randolph House, Syracuse.

Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., the Association's President Emeritus, attended the State Association functions and was elected to the State Board of Directors on which he had previously served many years.

The Syracuse sessions were focused on people with Topics and including comprehensive Health Planning for New York State residents, clinic services for TB patients, and reports on State Christmas Seal Association operations.

Robbins, president of the Ulster County group said, "To keep pace with the changing health situation in diseases of the chest, we constantly re-vamp our program to meet the most pressing needs of the public. We now realize that long-term supervision of people who are at high risk of developing active tuberculosis or of reactivating previous disease is a vital mainstay of TB control programs. This long-term supervision is the job of the tuberculosis out-patient clinics. Many medical authorities feel that the clinic system in this country has not yet developed to a stage where it can meet this responsibility adequately."

The chief address at the meeting was given by Dr. Donald Ottenberg, director of the Eagleville Tuberculosis Sanatorium in Eagleville, Pa., and Associate Professor of Medicine at Temple University School of Medicine in Philadelphia who spoke on the New Role of the Tuberculosis Out-Patient Clinic.

Robbins officially represented the Board of the Ulster County TB-RD group at the Annual Meeting of the New York State TB-RD Workers Association which preceded the program sessions. Johnson, Secretary of the New York State Conference of TB-RD Workers, serves on its executive committee and took part in the Conference Executive and Membership sessions of the group.

X-ray Programming

The Ulster County TB and Health Association, a dedicated health force in Ulster County for over 50 years, conducts effective programs of public and professional education, services to school and youth groups, and annually supports qualified research in chest diseases all based on the Annual Christmas Seal Campaign. Added program emphasis has been extended this year to X-ray Programming and Air Pollution. In addition to completing the second consecutive year of school x-raying in September, the TB group also has established three X-ray projects that are "firsts."

Two weeks ago, the Association established two Community X-ray Programs, one in Marlboro-Milton area and at Saugerties; and also Industrial X-rays at Ferroxcube Corporation. The first Migrant X-ray Program in Ulster County also was organized by the TB Association in September. All these programs, also including support of some costs, were organized by Johnson, the Association's Executive Director.

Clean Air Work

The Association also has been developing its interest in Air Pollution out of its deep concern and dedication to all diseases of the Respiratory System. Initial work on the Action-for-Clean Air Committee has been developed, and basic program development for wide-range clean air activity is under way, and will be publicly announced during October.

Lomontville Dept. Fetes Van Wagenen

Benjamin Van Wagenen was the honored guest Saturday at a dinner given by the members of the Lomontville Fire Department in the Community Hall in Lomontville.

Van Wagenen was retiring from his voluntary post as treasurer of the fire district after 22 years of continuous service to the community.

A gold watch was presented to him from the members of the fire company in gratitude for his long and faithful service.

At the head table were five of the men who first organized the fire company in 1945. Edwin B. Shumate, the first chairman; Mark V. Bryant, first secretary and fire chief; Benjamin Van Wagenen, the original treasurer; Otto Kern, who was on the building committee of the firehouse, and William Berryman. The late William Fitzgerald also served on the founding committee.

Gebhard P. Wuest, present chairman of the commissioners, introduced Edwin B. Shumate as master of ceremonies. Shumate spoke of the necessity of getting younger members of the community to join the fire company and take an active part in it, if the Lomontville Volunteer Fire Department is to survive.

Vital Meeting

If there is no further interest shown, Shumate said, it will be necessary to hire professional firemen causing higher fire insurance and increased taxes. A letter is to be sent to district residents before the annual meeting Tuesday, Dec. 5 to stress the importance of fire protection.

Shumate urged that every member in the community attend this annual meeting, when this vital question will be discussed.

Mark Bryant stressed the importance of regular fire drill and instruction in fire fighting and protection. James R. Dunbar, the present secretary, gave a report on recent purchases that have modernized the fire equipment. George Stransky, who was thanked for accepting the post of treasurer in place of Van Wagenen.

A vote of thanks was given to the ladies of the Lomontville Auxiliary who have so splendidly supported the firemen through the years, and for organizing the dinner with the assistance of many community members.

Choppers to Know They're in Sights

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP) — A Roswell electronics firm is coming up with a black box to foil black-clad Viet Cong bringing down U.S. helicopters in Vietnam.

Bill Underhill, president of Electronics Industries, said the device would be placed in the helicopter cockpit to pick up sounds of enemy bullets fired within 50 yards of the helicopter.

The detector would indicate the sounds of fire on the helicopter's control panel and cause a beeping noise in the pilot's headset. He said now that noise level in the helicopters is so high that sometimes the aircraft is hit without the pilot knowing his craft is being fired upon.

There are more than 2,500 species of lizard. The only two known to be poisonous are the Gila monster of the United States and the culetepon of Mexico.

Competition Keen for Moon Flight Seats

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — U.S. astronauts are in keen if silent competition for the three seats aboard the first moon-bound Apollo spacecraft.

Of course, they all want the first lunar footprints to be made by an American, no matter who, and not by a Russian.

But they know that ahead of the first men on the moon is the chance to live forever in history books.

Who will go? Fairly soon, perhaps within a year, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will pick the three men for the first crew.

The veterans, whose names and exploits are already familiar, stand ready—Cooper, Schirra, Stafford, McDivitt. But there are new names, too — Eisele, Cunningham, Mattingly and others—who may be selected.

Some feel they're very much in the running. Others, either because of health, age or experience, know their chances are slim. In NASA's inner circle, the list has probably already been narrowed so that someone has a pretty good idea who will go.

NASA does not reveal completely how it picks men for space trips. Chief astronaut Donald K. "Deke" Slayton is charged with the initial responsibility for recommending crewmen for approval by higher headquarters.

"I could pick any two or three guys," said Slayton. "I think they've got that kind of capability. Naturally, there may be cases where two guys get along better together than with someone else, so it would be logical to make them a team."

Asked to elaborate on the criteria, Slayton added: "Well, you weigh a lot of things, and it's a difficult question to answer without getting into things I prefer not to discuss. Part of it is personal, confidential by my definition."

"It's sort of how do you assign anybody to anything. You know, it begins to influence people personally, pretty closely," he said. "It's obvious everybody can't be a commander, so you have to pick some people to be commanders and some for the other jobs."

On the first lunar mission, who has which job governs who actually sets foot on the moon's surface. Three make the trip but only the command pilot and lunar module pilot descend to the moon in the smaller spacecraft they take along. The third flies the mothership in orbit around the moon until they return.

1859-1967...108 YEARS YOUNG

WE STARTED IN 1859 BUT...
WE'RE NOT 108 YEARS OLD!

We're 108 years young.

We're old enough to understand the soundness of time-tested basic ideas, but young enough to keep trying to improve them.

Modernization and keeping abreast of new ideas and techniques is a must for today's successful business.

We wouldn't be the world's largest food retailer if we weren't constantly thinking modern, thinking young.

But some basic thinking never changes.

Take that of our founder for instance.

He was dedicated, as we are, to bringing the most good food, to the most people, for the least amount of money.

To being fair, honest and trustworthy.

To caring about the people he served.

No matter how progressive, how automated, how modern we become, we pledge to maintain these sound principles of our founder.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD HOFFMANN, 96 Lawrenceville Street, Kingston, were guests of honor at a dinner party at Leherb's Restaurant, Wednesday, Sept. 27, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. They were married September 27, 1942, at St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, by the Rev. John Simmons. Attending the couple were Mrs. Olive Hoffmann Reagan and George Finn. Maureen Holtsopple Bogdonowicz was flower girl. Mrs. Hoffmann, the former Lorraine Finn, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Finn, Wiltwyck Gardens. Mr. Hoffmann is the son of Mrs. William Hoffmann, Redondo, Beach, Calif., and the late William Hoffmann. The Hoffmanns have four daughters, Debra, Alice and twins Joyce and Janice, who is the wife of Kenneth Pillsworth. They have a grandchild, Kerry Ann Pillsworth. Mrs. Hoffmann is employed as an inspector at Hercules Inc. and Mr. Hoffmann does inspection work at Hucktrol. The couple received numerous congratulatory messages and gifts. Chairmen Appointed At Rosary Meeting

Mrs. Donald Sweeney, president of St. Joseph's Rosary Society, presided at the first meeting of the season Monday evening, Sept. 18, in the new school.

Newly appointed chairmen are: Mrs. Mary McCafferty, sunshine; Mrs. Charles Hoffay, refreshment; Mrs. Salvatore Aprea, program; Mrs. Frank Falatyn, Altar; Mrs. Bernard O'Malley, publicity.

Among the activities planned for fall are a rummage sale and cake sale. Mrs. Frank Ertz and Mrs. Mary McCafferty will be co-chairmen of the rummage sale which will be held in the old LeFever House, corner of Green Street and Maiden Lane. Dates for each event will be announced.

The Rev. James LeBar, new moderator for the society, was introduced at the meeting. Father LeBar replaced the Rev. John Mulligan who has recently been transferred to a new parish.

The Society will resume attendance at Mass on the first Saturday of each month beginning Saturday, Oct. 7 at 9 a. m. The Rosary will be recited after Mass. All members are urged to attend.

Mrs. Salvatore Aprea showed pictures and discussed her trip through the Mediterranean. Next month's program will be a Chinese auction. Members are asked to bring articles for the auction to the October 16 meeting.

Members and friends are invited to attend.

Marble Cake
When you are baking a chocolate marble cake, put large spoonfuls of the white and chocolate portions into your cake pan, then use a table knife to cut through the batter in zig-zag fashion to create the desired effect.

Kremple-Tyler Nuptials Told

Miss Katherine Kremple, daughter of Mrs. Elsie Kremple, DeWitt Lake Road, Kingston, was married Sunday, Sept. 3, to Ronald W. Tyler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tyler, Cottickill, at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Carl J. Goette, pastor, officiated at the service. Organist, Charles Brandt, provided traditional wedding selections. The altar was decorated with pink and white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Fred Trost, the bride wore a white taffeta gown styled with a sash and neckline, fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves. Her bell-sleeved skirt was attached to a chapel train. A veil of nylon illusion was shirred to a coronet of satin taffeta with seed pearl trim. She carried a cascade bouquet of daisies.

Miss Laura Houghtaling, Kingston, was maid of honor. She wore a maize floor-length sleeveless gown with a matching headpiece of yellow flowers fastened to a chapel veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow daisies.

Miss Maryann Krajewski, Kingston, was bridesmaid. She wore a maize colored gown fashioned identically to that of the matron of honor. She wore a Dior bow headpiece with a flirtation veil and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

Leon Slater, Tillsen, was best man. Robert Kremple, brother of the bride, was usher.

After the wedding a reception for 50 guests was held at 7 D's Restaurant, Lucas Avenue Extension.

For her wedding trip the bride selected a blue dress with white accessories.

The bride attended Kingston High School and is employed by Per Se of Rosendale.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyler will reside at Lucas Avenue Extension, Kingston.

Society Makes Plans For Annual Dinner

The Altar and Rosary Society of St. Joseph's Church, Glasco, held its annual meeting Tuesday, Sept. 26, in the Church basement. Members were informed that the annual dinner on Sunday, Oct. 22, will be held at Villa St. Dominick, Mass and Communion will be at 6:30 p.m. instead of 8 a. m. as was originally planned.

Judith Cacchillo, president, introduced the members to the Rev. Thomas E. McNamara, the new assistant pastor.

A bake sale is scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 15, in front of the Church. It will be held before and after the 8 a. m. Mass.

After the meeting refreshments were served by Theresa Fabiano, Thelma Verisek and Ann Burdick. Refreshment committee for October will be Susan Adello, Jackie Porto and Mary Bruno.

Members were reminded to come in costume to the next meeting.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY—Mr. and Mrs. Addison Jones, 334 Foxhall Avenue, Kingston, celebrated their golden anniversary Saturday at a dinner in Whalen's Restaurant, Wall Street. Mr. and Mrs. Jones have four children, Mrs. Harry Wilber, Mrs. Kenneth Heppner, Robert Jones and Ronald Jones. They have 13 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Mr. Jones, well known in both political and civic circles, formerly owned and operated Jones Dairy. (Freeman Photo by Haines)

Mrs. Irving Scher Heads Sisterhood

Formal installation of officers for Sisterhood Ahavath Israel took place Saturday, Sept. 30 with Mrs. Harry Z. Schectman as the installing officer.

Steering activities for the Sisterhood during 1967-68 will be Mrs. Irving Scher, president; Mrs. Harris Gally, Mrs. Henry Jacobs, Mrs. Ira Shaw, vice president; Mrs. Arthur Schiff, financial secretary; Mrs. Sidney Treinkman, treasurer; Mrs. Murray Weiss, recording secretary; and Mrs. Daniel Gikner, corresponding secretary.

For Decoration

A delightful decoration for a chocolate cake is made with blanched almonds (plain or toasted) and semi-sweet chocolate. Just dip one end of each almond in a little of the melted chocolate and insert the undipped ends of the nuts in the cake frosting. You'll need at least a dozen of the almonds for the top of the cake, but of course, more may be used for a lavish effect.

Ulster Girl Named Contest Finalist

Mary Beth Anne Smith, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Smith, 46 Mountain View Avenue, Hurley, has been named a finalist in the Junior Miss Division of the Singer World Stylemaker Contest. Junior Miss contestants are between 10 and 12 years of age.

Mary Beth and her mother will spend five days in New York as the guests of The Singer Company visiting famous landmarks, dining in world-famous restaurants, and going to the theatre. The five days will be climaxed by the finals at The Plaza Hotel on November 9. That day, one of the six finalists in the Junior Miss Division will be named "Queen of Sewing."

The Queen will be given an all-expense-paid trip for two to London, Paris or Rome and $400. She can choose to accept $1,800 in lieu of the trip. A cash prize of $400 will be given to each runner-up.

On her way to the top spot, each finalist has already been judged at three levels: local, regional and national semifinal. Prizes already awarded to the 18 finalists include a Singer portable phonograph, a "Touch & Sew" sewing machine by Singer, and the trip to New York for the finals. They were chosen from among the more than 68,000 entrants across the country.

On November 7, they will be guests of honor at a tea to be given by Mrs. John V. Lindsay, wife of New York's Mayor, at Gracie Mansion.

Mary Beth's winning entry is a topstitched, A-line, gold heather wool dress with matching coat. The coat has brushed gold buttons. To complete the ensemble, she made a brimmed hat from co-ordinated gold heather wool with black window-pane checks. She used McCall's Patterns 8589 and 8254. Total cost was $24.39.

Mary Beth is an 8th grade student at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School. She is a member of the YWCA, the school orchestra, and the ski club. She first learned to sew last summer, and she now sews curtains and room decorations in addition to her own clothes. She plans to save the prize money she receives for her education; she wants to be a veterinarian.

Judges for the semifinals of the Singer World Stylemaker Contest were Miss Jean Vizgirda, director of Talon Educational Service, Donahue Sales Corporation; Miss Beryl Tucker, president, Beryl Tucker Young Trends, Inc.; and Miss Margaret Hauser, editor, Co-ed Magazine.

Pamela Wood Weds Donald Crawford

Miss Pamela R. Wood, of Valley Stream, L. I., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor L. Wood, Malden-on-Hudson, became the bride of Donald Glenn Crawford, Westbury, L. I., in a double ring ceremony held at Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Uniondale, L. I., September 9th. Traditional wedding music was rendered prior to the service. The church was decorated with bronze chrysanthemums and straw flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white brocade, with a floor-length train. Her silk illusion veil was attached to a small pillbox hat made of the same material as the gown. She carried a cascade of white orchids and stephanotis intertwined with ivy.

Sister of the bride, Miss Shirley M. Wood, Malden-on-Hudson and Greenwich, Conn., served as maid of honor. She wore a gown of gold brocade. Her matching veil was attached to a stylized headpiece. She carried bronze mums and yellow roses.

Best man was Alexander Rada, Freeport, L. I. Kenneth Wood served as an usher for his sister.

The reception was held in the recreation room of the church for approximately 175 people.

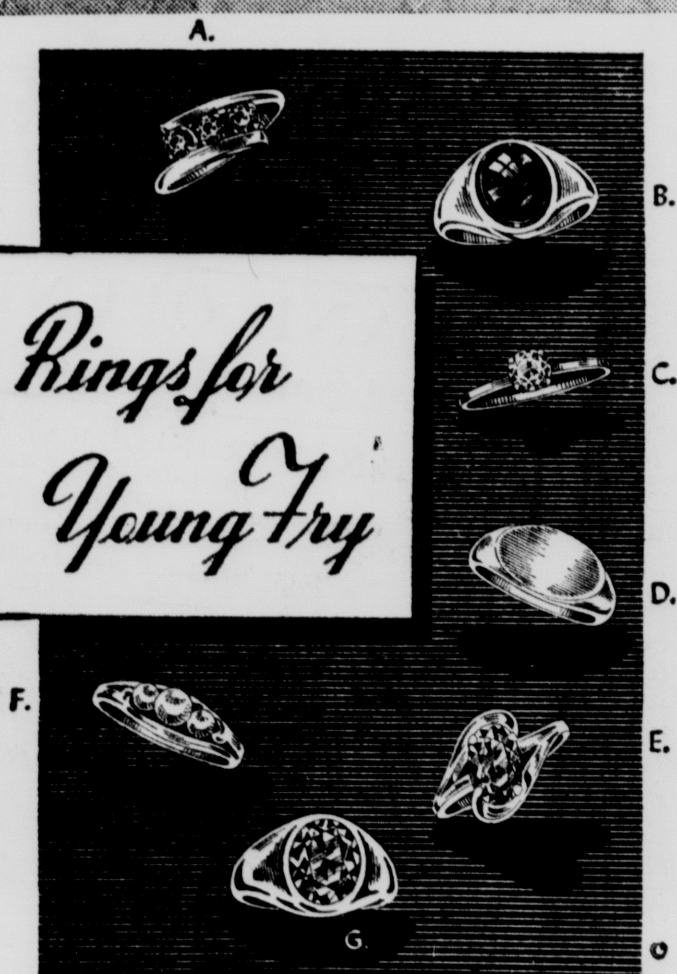

The couple left for a wedding journey to the Adirondack Mts., Expo '67, Thousand Islands and Niagara Falls. For her traveling ensemble the bride wore a two-piece olive green suit with an orchid corsage.

Upon the couple's returning to Malden, they were feted with a reception held September 23rd at the home of the bride's parents. The couple will reside at 175 Lewis Avenue, Westbury.

The bride is employed by Carle Place Florists, Carle Place, L. I., and the groom is employed by Tele-Signal Corp., Woodbury, L. I.

Women's Unit Focuses on State BPW Meeting

As issues requiring broad understanding by all citizens, the Transportation Bond issue and the proposed new State Constitution—both to be on the November 7th ballot—will get special emphasis from the Business and Professional Women's Clubs throughout the State, Miss Lorraine Rouget, newly elected president of the BPW State Federation said today.

Miss Rouget, in announcing a crash education study program, will bring personal greetings and commendations from Governor Nelson Rockefeller to the BPW's annual fall board meeting to be held October 8 to 9 in Plattsburgh.

Attending from the Ulster County BPW Club will be Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, president; Miss Beverly Reese, past president; Mrs. Vera Bishop, second vice president; Rosemarie Caulfield, BPW legislative chairman; and Mrs. Shirley Gippert.

The Governor and Miss Rouget met last week at the Governor's New York office to discuss the overall program plans. Miss Rouget is launching for the statewide women's organization of 140 individual clubs. She said Governor Rockefeller had asked her to convey to the board membership his particular gratification at the constructive civic-responsibility role BPW clubs have helped women to play in communities and the State for the nearly half century of their existence.

Miss Rouget said today the theme of the National BPW Federation, "Plan for Progress, All Systems Go" will be carried out in pertinent areas by individual New York State clubs whose membership concerns itself with community needs, an aim that requires studies of current legislation.

"In this context, of course, the two propositions on the ballot that deal with transportation plans for the state, and the proposed new Constitution will be emphasized through intensive study during the few weeks left before the election," Miss Rouget said.

In addition to program planning to cover highlights of the proposed new Constitution, BPW members attending the fall board meeting will review the non-partisan filmstrip, "Going Places" which presents the total transportation concept from a woman's point of view. The filmstrip is one of the special services provided through the newly created Women's Unit in the Office of the Secretary to the Governor.

Such educational programs on legislation affecting women have been mounted in the past among BPW clubs on other State programs which affect women in such areas as water pollution and beautification, as well for the State narcotics and help-for-the aging programs.

"The goals BPW clubs work for are those of importance and value to women in every area of their lives and communities," Miss Rouget told the Governor. "Therefore, in the truest sense, we are working for the good of all New York State."

Best Ulcer Treatment: Find Underlying Cause
By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—How long should a duodenal ulcer that was bleeding be treated? My doctor says I must stay on my ulcer diet indefinitely.

A—Because so many bleeding ulcers occur without previous symptoms anyone who has had one and has been cured is well-advised to use every caution to prevent a recurrence. Your doctor has set you on the right track. Don't disappoint him.

Q—My brother-in-law is taking aluminum for his ulcer and says his ulcer doesn't bother him any more. Is this drug a cure for ulcers? Could it cause any bad side effects?

A—Various aluminum hydroxide preparations are used in the treatment of ulcers. These antacids protect the ulcerated surface by coating it. They cause no harmful side effects but they represent only one phase of the treatment. Finding and eliminating the underlying cause is the most important part.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Entertain the Bunch at Sunday Brunch

What could be more festive and fun than a gala brunch on a Sunday morning after church. A combination of breakfast and lunch, it offers a convenient way to entertain, for you can set your table and do some preparation the night before. And, after your brunch, you still have most of the day for a leisurely clean-up and to enjoy with your family. Moreover, a brunch gives you a marvelous opportunity to serve recipes you wouldn't ordinarily include in a traditional dinner party menu, so your guests are sure to be even more appreciative.

Minted orange juice is a colorful first course. Why not serve it in the living room as your guests gather. Fill the stem of a hollow-stem champagne glass with a mint-flavored liqueur. Place a well-drained maraschino cherry firmly in the stem; fill the glass with orange juice and garnish with fresh mint leaves.

Sauteed whole mushrooms that come frozen in their own butter sauce add a pleasant surprise to Creamy scrambled Eggs. Garnish the platter with sizzling kabobs of tender chicken livers, cherry tomatoes and crisp bacon strips.

For a special treat, serve Petite Pois Cups. Perky little baby peas and artichoke hearts are combined in a smooth, creamy cheese sauce and served in small pastry tarts which you can either make the day before or purchase at a bakery. Garnish with cooked shrimp.

The tiny corn muffins are made from a mix, and for a special touch, add a can of tender golden whole kernel corn with sweet peppers.

Brunch Menu

Minted Orange Juice
Scrambled Eggs with Chicken Liver Kabobs
Petite Pois Cups
Bruncheon Corn Muffins
Chocolate Pots de Creme
Coffee

CREAMY SCRAMBLED EGGS

One 6-oz. package whole mushrooms frozen in butter sauce 16 large eggs
1 cup cream
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
4 teaspoons dehydrated chopped chives
¼ cup butter or margarine
Remove frozen mushrooms

thickened but still moist. Stir in mushrooms, reserving a few for garnish. Yield: 8 servings.

BRUNCH KABOBS

8 chicken livers, cut in half
16 cherry tomatoes
8 strips bacon
Starting with bacon, loosely thread 2 chicken liver halves and 2 tomatoes on eight 8-inch metal skewers, weaving bacon over and under pieces. Broil 5 to 6 inches from heat for 10 to 15 minutes, turning occasionally, until livers and bacon are done. Yield: 8 servings.

BRUNCHEON CORN MUFFINS

One 7½-oz. package corn muffin mix
One 7-oz. can golden whole kernel corn with red and green sweet peppers, drained
Prepare corn muffin mix as directed, stirring in corn with the water. Spoon into paper-lined or well-greased tiny muffin cups. Bake at 400 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes. Yield: About 18 tiny muffins.

Note: Or, use one half of a 14-oz. package corn muffin mix, adding corn to egg and milk.

PETITE POIS CUPS

One 10-oz. package little baby peas frozen in butter sauce in flavor-tight cooking pouch
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups half and half cream
¼ cup shredded American cheese
One 7-oz. can artichoke hearts, drained and cut into quarters
3 tablespoons cooking sherry
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
Pepper, to taste
Ten 3-inch baked pastry tarts

Slip pouch of little baby peas into boiling water. Bring water to a second boil; continue cooking 14 minutes. Do not cover pan.

Partially open pouch; drain butter sauce into medium saucepan. Stir in flour. Gradually add half and half cream. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add cheese, artichokes, sherry, salt and pepper. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until cheese melts and mixture is hot. Spoon into tart shells. If desired, garnish each with a cooked shrimp. Yield: 8 to 10 servings (3½ cups filling).

Doing the Right Thing

YOUNG EXECUTIVES

Whether he is married or not, a young executive faces a number of problems which are more concerned with etiquette than with the actual work he does. As he goes to a higher position or is transferred to another office, a whole new set of questions may arise. The following quiz will test your knowledge of the social side of business, and may give you some helpful hints about problems which have bothered you.

1. When you start out in a new job you (a) should (b) should not make friends with all other employees.
2. You (a) may (b) may not call your superior by his first name if other employees do.
3. A private secretary (a) may (b) may not be asked to do some personal chores.

4. In most cases, a man's wife (a) does (b) does not call her husband's secretary by the same name he uses.
5. An employer (a) should (b) should not take his secretary to lunch frequently.

6. When an executive is transferred to another office he (a) does (b) does not entertain his new boss immediately.
7. When an employer invites a junior executive to dinner, the younger man (a) need not (b) must entertain him in the same way.

8. An executive (a) does (b) does not rise when his secretary comes into his office.

If you made seven or eight correct choices, you will be a respected boss or a popular employee.

Stuffed Tomatoes

For stuffed tomatoes, cut each tomato into sixths from the top to the bottom — without actually cutting through the bottom. The tomato will have a star shape and will hold a salad filling. For the filling you might like to use chicken, turkey, tuna or salmon along with celery and mayonnaise. Serve the stuffed tomatoes on salad greens.

A Little Hint

Glycerine and vegetable shortening are sometimes added to an ornamental frosting that is to be forced through a pastry tube for decorating a cake. These additions help prevent the frosting's drying and crumbling during storage.

B'nai B'rith Women Open Fall Sessions At Ahavath Israel

Songs by the wayside Singers marked the opening session of B'nai B'rith Women's meetings Wednesday, Sept. 27 at 8:30 p. m. in the social hall of Congregation Ahavath Israel. The singers were Janice Savino, Tom Kiernan, Dick Burns and Will Daum.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Harvey Kronick who called upon the membership to aid in the expansion of the commercial calendar, the group's main fund raising project during the year. Chairman is Mrs. Sam Bailinson.

A report from Mrs. Wally Rosenblath, president of International B'nai B'rith, was given by Mrs. Kronick. Mrs. Rosenblath outlined her experiences on a recent visit to Israel. She also rescribed conditions at the B'nai B'rith Children's Home during the war and post-war periods.

Miss Deborah Kalish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kalish, Overlook Drive, is the recipient of Zephaniah Chapter's annual award for school service and character.

The chapter received a membership award from its district for having successfully maintained former membership quotas. Mrs. Irving Meyers is membership retention chairman and Mrs. Ronald Wolfeld is financial secretary.

Mrs. Seymour Semilof and

Mrs. Robert Ronder volunteered to represent the organization in the radio-television for Ulster County Community Chest on October 21. They will serve as telephone operators.

Mrs. Kronick announced that B'nai B'rith will participate in the show with a presentation of "Dolls for Democracy."

Jewish Youth Group Lists Activities

The NCSY, Agudas Achim Youth organization, has begun its new season of activities with more than 25 young boys and girls attending high school. A younger club, Junior NCSY, is now being formed for boys and girls in the 6, 7 and 8th grades. Activities include: service to the Synagogue; meeting NCSYers from other cities; Jewish studies and discussions; discussion of "problems of youth;" social functions and parties; bowling; publication of a Newsletter; holiday dramas; Israeli dancing; interesting speakers, lectures; trips to interesting places; conclaves, weekends in other cities; conventions, regional and national. While this group is intended for members and affiliates of Agudas Achim, all Jewish boys and girls will be accepted to the group, with their parent's permission.

Barry Kleinman is president of the club. Celia Barber is advisor and Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport, spiritual leader. Members meet every second Sunday.

Parents have been urged to encourage their children to join the club and benefit from positive Jewish activities.

Douglas S. Kerr Earns Doctorate

Douglas S. Kerr of New Paltz has received a Ph.D. degree in Computer Sciences at Purdue University.

Son of Dr. and Mrs. Albert S. Kerr, he is a graduate of The Taft School, Watertown, Conn., and of Yale University.

He is now serving as Assistant Professor of Computer Science in the Division of Information and Computer Science at Ohio State University.

BOB GIBSON

Gibson, Santiago Ready as '67 Series Opens

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Every baseball fan who was out of diapers at the time remembers the daring dash of Enos Slaughter that enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to beat the Boston Red Sox in the 1946 World Series.

That, however, isn't the first thing recalled by Red Schoendienst and Bobby Doerr, the opposing second basemen in that Series who again are on different sides for the latest clash between St. Louis and Boston.

"Losing it," was the answer from Doerr, Red Sox coach who had just finished hitting grounders to the Boston infielders in their final workout for today's start of the 1967 Series.

Schoendienst will send Bob Gibson, a fireballing right-hander against the Red Sox in the opener.

Jose Santiago, also a right-hander, opposed him, gaining the distinction of being the first Puerto Rican ever to start a Series opener.

Opposite Situations

The situation this year is the exact opposite of what it was in 1946 when the Cardinals edged Boston four games to three, winning the seventh game as Slaughter raced from first to the plate on Harry Walker's hit to left-center field.

That year the Cardinals, under freshman Manager Eddie Dyer, had to beat Brooklyn in a playoff to win the National League pennant while the Red Sox coasted to the American League crown by 12 games.

This season it was the Red Sox, under first-year manager Dick Williams, who had to win the last two games of the regular season to take the AL pennant while St. Louis breezed by 10½ games.

Schoendienst, however, doesn't see any significance in a team having an easy race or a tough one.

"I don't think either team has an advantage in that way," Schoendienst said. "I don't think the Red Sox are tired. They showed that against Minnesota. And now they've had two days rest. That's all you need."

"As for us, after we won it, we just played the same way we had been. We won our last three games so we weren't letting up."

Schoendienst, 44, sees at least one similarity between the Red Sox of 1946 and the Red Sox of 1967.

Doerr, now 49 with his curly hair turned gray, remembers how sad it was to lose that series.

"It was a terrific letdown," he recalled. "We thought we had the club to do it. Losing it was terribly disappointing. We just ran into a club that was red hot coming out of a playoff. Our club could be keyed up in the same way."

Rested Pitchers

"The only thing is their pitching staff is rested good, and it could be that our staff will be a little tired."

Following Santiago to the mound for Boston will be Jim Lonborg, 22-9, in Thursday's second game and Gary Bell, 13-13, in the Saturday contest at St. Louis.

Schoendienst says he will use Dick Hughes, 16-6, Thursday and either Nelson Briles, 14-5, or Steve Carlton, 14-9, Saturday, depending on whether he needs Briles for relief in the first two games.

MODENA, Italy (AP) — Chris Amon, of New Zealand, will drive a 4,200-cc Ferrari Prototype in auto races at Laguna Seca, Calif., on Oct. 15, Riverside, Calif., on Oct. 29 and Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 12, it was announced today.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Kevin Hardy, Notre Dame's 270-pound defensive end, will not play against Iowa Saturday because of a sprained ankle suffered against Purdue.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Ron Romans, tailback from Thousand Oaks, Calif., was cut from the University of New Mexico football team Tuesday for failing to show for practice Monday.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets acquired infielder Don Wallace from the California Angels Tuesday and placed him on the roster of their Jacksonville farm club in the International League.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints of the National League Tuesday traded split end Ray Odom to the Atlanta Falcons for fullback Ernie Wheelwright.

Hanratty 2nd In Total Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — Terry Hanratty's 420 total offense yards against Purdue has moved the Notre Dame quarterback back from 28th to second place in this department, only nine yards behind the leader, Paul Trosano of Wyoming.

Trosano has gained 683 yards in three college football games. Hanratty has 674 rushing-passing yards in two games. His 75 total offense plays in Saturday's 28-21 setback by Purdue was a record for a major collegian.

Terry Stone of New Mexico is in third place with 618 yards gained followed by Roy Winters of West Texas State with 586, statistics compiled by National Collegiate Sports Service disclosed today.

Pick USC, Houston In Top Grid Games

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Did you pick Notre Dame, Texas, Ohio State, Michigan and Duke to win their football games last weekend? So did this corner.

So let's all try again:

Southern California over Stanford: When you have a cold, you take orange juice. The Trojans had a void in their backfield and went out and got O. J. (Orange Juice) Simpson and now they are No. 1.

Houston over North Carolina State: A pair of unbeaten but that terrific offense of the Cougars, led by Warren McVea, gives them the edge.

UCLA over Penn State: Gary Beban of the Bruins will see to it that Penn State doesn't pull a surprise on successive weekends. Last time out the Lions spilled Miami, Fla.

Purdue over Northwestern: Preseason publicity said Mike Phipps, new quarterback at Purdue, was every bit as good as Bob Griese but bigger. Notre Dame already believes and Northwestern soon will.

Georgia over South Carolina: Another battle of unbeaten but tradition and the home field combine to give Georgia the edge.

Notre Dame over Iowa: Oh, those poor Hawkeyes.

Nebraska over Kansas State: Frank Patrick, the 6-7 quarterback for the Huskers, matured quickly and they are strong candidates to win their fifth straight Big Eight crown.

Colorado over Iowa State: Wilmer Cook, Colorado's ace back, is as good as they come.

Alabama over Mississippi: Coach Bear Bryant says he is going to spend the week looking for a running back to augment the passing of Kenny Stabler. Here's betting he found one.

Texas Tech over Mississippi State: There are seven sophomores in the Mississippi State starting line-up.

Army over Duke: Spirit and a trio of competent quarterbacks gives the Cadets an edge.

Georgia Tech over Clemson: Tech's football players aren't any better than those from Clemson, they are just bigger and stronger.

Series Notes

Four Managers' Jobs Are Still Available

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Four managers' jobs still are open in the major leagues as the second guessing and "it was learned" season opens with the gathering of the clan for the World Series.

Not only is the Kansas City job open but the franchise is floating. Charley Finley is expected to ask for permission to move—probably to Oakland or Seattle—at a special American League meeting later this month. He probably will get enough votes to make it stick. Only then will he have time to think about a successor to interim Manager Luke Appling.

Pittsburgh has given Danny Murtaugh a new job, thus eliminating the veteran from any thoughts of the job he didn't want. Dick Groat, retired shortstop, and Bill Virdon, a manager in the New York Mets' chain and former Pirate center fielder, are high in the rumor league, along with Mickey Vernon.

The Pirates probably would like to get Al Lopez out of retirement but Al has too much fun playing golf and making a few trips to Chicago in his advisory capacity with the White Sox.

Paul Richards' bombshell at Atlanta just might be Paul Richards to manager the Braves. Lum Harris still is the leader in the rumor league.

The New York Mets are due to pick the successor to Wes Westrum before too many days have passed. Yogi Berra has to be a possibility if he wants to give up a nice safe job as a coach for the perils of managing a 10th place team.

If Gil Hodges didn't have a year to go on his Washington contract he would be the favorite. Some people think the Mets still may lure Hodges to Shea.

Lefty Gomez was watching the St. Louis Cardinals attack the friendly left field wall at Fenway Park Tuesday afternoon when a sports writer asked him how the wall had affected him in his pitching days.

"The wall didn't bother me," quipped Lefty. "It was the hitters."

Tony C. on Bench

Tony Conigliaro will play the same role that Dick Williams played for Brooklyn in the 1952 World Series with the Yankees. Although Conigliaro, out of action with double vision due to a beaning, is not on the active list he will be permitted to sit on the Red Sox bench in uniform. Williams, a utility man with the Dodgers, also was given the same courtesy in '52 when he had a shoulder separation and was reduced to the role of a "yeller."

In the 1953 Series, Williams was a Dodger pinch hitter in three games against the Yanks. He singled off Eddie Lopat, walked and was struck out by Bob Kuzava in his three appearances.

Houston Leads With 1,466 Yards

NEW YORK (AP) — The 695 yards gained by Houston in its 50-6 football victory over Wake Forest has propelled the Cougars into a commanding lead in total offense among the nation's major colleges, the latest statistics disclosed Tuesday.

The Cougars, total offense champs last season, have piled up 1,466 yards in three games for a 456.1 average. Brigham Young is second with 457.0 yards followed by West Texas State 456.7 and Notre Dame 454.0, according to figures compiled by National Collegiate Sports Services.

Harvard's 51-0 triumph over Lafayette enabled the Crimson to take over first place in rushing offense with a 329.0 average and in scoring with a 51.0 average. Brigham Young is the race-setter in passing offense with a 296.5 average.

Syracuse is the total defense leader with an average yield of only 89.0 yards for two games. The Orange also is No. 1 in rushing defense with a 7.5 yard average. Princeton, having yielded only 12 yards in one game, is tops in forward pass defense.

Kansas State is the punting leader with a 46.7 yard average for 13 punts in two games.

Colts, Packers Lead in Statistics

NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Colts is the best offensive team in the National Football League and the champion Green Bay Packers the toughest on defense so far this season.

The weekly team statistics released today by the NFL show the Colts lead in total offense with an average of 445.7 yards and in passing offense with an average of 358.

The Detroit Lions prevented a sweep by the Colts in the three main offensive departments by leading in rushing offense with an average of 182 yards.

On defense, Green Bay has yielded only an average of 150 yards over-all and also is first in pass defense by giving up an average of 26.3 yards.

Pittsburgh is the stingiest on defense against rushing. The Steelers have yielded an average of only 70 yards on the ground.

Williams Predicts Victory For Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Dick Williams, the Boston Red Sox' rookie manager, played a cat-and-mouse game and, without actually saying so, predicted victory Tuesday on the eve of the World Series opener with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Like I said all year, I think we'll win more than we lose," Williams said with an impish grin when questioned during the Red Sox' workout under a hot sun at Fenway Park.

The 38-year-old Williams first made the statement, "We'll win more than we lose," when he took over the Red Sox last spring. The team posted a 92-70 record en route to the American League pennant—after finishing ninth with a 72-90 mark in 1966.

"This is a good ball club—it doesn't know the meaning of the word quit," Williams said. "I think the entire club was downgraded at the start of the year, and with some good reason. Basically, it is the same club as in 1966."

"However, our pitching came through better than most people expected. And the front office helped plenty in getting Jerry Adair and Gary Bell in trades."

Before taking the field, the Red Sox spent nearly an hour getting a rundown on the Cardinals. Frank Malzone, Eddie Kasko, Tommy Thomas and Don Lenhardt provided scouting reports on the National League champions.

"They come off the bench swinging," Williams said in summing up the scouting reports. "They don't look for a walk. They got up there ripping."

After the clubhouse session, the Red Sox took the field for hitting and running drills before the Cardinals worked out.

Russ Gibson, a 28-year-old catcher who kicked around the minor leagues for 10 years before getting a shot with the Red Sox, summed up the general feeling on the team.

"Nervous? I don't think anyone is very nervous," Gibson said. "After those last two games with Minnesota during the weekend, how can we be nervous? No pressure can be that tough. We had to win both those games and we did."

Gibson, who spent a brief period at Pittsfield of the Eastern League as the Red Sox juggled their roster in late August, finds himself in a starting role.

"Things are happening so fast I can't believe it," Gibson, a resident of Fall River, Mass., said. "This is terrific — really great. Imagine it. Playing at home in the World Series after all those years in the minors."

Red Sox Flag At State House

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. John A. Volpe proclaimed "Red Sox Appreciation Days" for the duration of the World Series that opens today with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Volpe said a flag will be hoisted in front of the State House, emblazoned with "Go Red Sox."

Young Sets Mark In Pass Catching

WEST POINT, N. Y. — End Terry Young from Reading, Pa., wrote a new line in the Army football record book Saturday against Boston College when he caught six passes. That brought his career total to 67, two better than the 65 made by "Lonely End" Bill Carpenter in 1959.

Young is well on his way to being the greatest offensive end in Army grid history. He needs 144 yards to top another Carpenter mark, career yardage from pass receptions.

Four field goals in two games puts Nick Kurliko, senior kicker from Wilson Borough, Pa., within one of the season field goal record of five.

Overbacht-Bostic Win at Wiltwyck

Mrs. Gerald Overbacht and Harvey Bostic shot 41-38-79 and had a nine handicap for a net total of 70 to win top honors in the Wiltwyck Country Club mixed scotch foursomes.

The teams of Mrs. Kenneth Lowe and Gerald Overbacht and Mrs. Clifford Spiesman and Donald Distel tied for second with 71s.

In a third place tie with net scores of 75 were Mrs. Harvey Bostic and Kenneth Lowe and Mrs. Wilson Brooks and Robert Merritt. Finishing with 76 were the teams of Mrs. Donald Distel and Lincoln Christensen; Mrs. Werner Kolin and Robert Daley and Mrs. Bernard Carpinelli and Charles Turck. Others were Mrs. Gerald Gruberg and Jerome Mills, 77; Mrs. Robert Daley and Gerald Gruberg, 78; Mrs. Jerome Mills and Thomas Plunket, 79; Mrs. Robert Merritt and Wilson Brooks, 81; Mrs. Thomas Plunket and Werner Kolin, 81 and Mrs. Lincoln Christensen and Clifford Spiesman, 84.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Fresh Yankee, a 4-year-old mare, set a world record of 1:57.1 for the mile trotting in a time trial at the Lexington trotting track Tuesday.

Driven by Sanders Russell, the Hickory Pride product out of Pert Yankee beat Spicy Song's old mark of 1:57.5.

Rod 'N Gun Report By Old Rip

The year of the high waters and long grass ended for area trout fishermen last Saturday, and the anglers by now have completed the annual ritual of preparing their equipment for winter storage.

Reports from the Ashokan Reservoir, however, indicate some fine bass and pike are still in the news. The arrival of cooler weather will afford continuing action for both the boat and shore fishermen.

The bass season runs until Nov. 30, while walleye pike may be taken through March 1. Some excellent pike have been taken by trolling. Bass have responded well to minnows and crawfish off the reservoir's rock shoals.

MUCH OF THE SUCCESS of the trout season is attributable to stream conditions which have been the best in many years. Plenty of rainy weather has kept local streams at normal levels and the fine stocking programs of the Conservation Department, the Phoenicia Fish and Game Club and the Saugerties Fish and Game Club have given trout fishermen plenty of action.

In our opinion, a fall stocking program of legal size fish would lend tremendously to spring fishing success. Bigger, more colorful fish would be available and the fall-stocked fish would provide a lot more action than the hatchery trout, which are liberated just during the open season.

IN EARLY SPRING, we had the pleasure of seeing trout planted in Adirondack streams and ponds by use of helicopters. The fish were loaded in the choppers and distributed at low flying level over entire stretches of streams.

Observers have told us that the fish are dropped over wide areas and not just by easy access bridges, so predominant in the Phoenicia area.

Incidentally, ice fishermen may be interested to know that trout may be taken from Nov. 15 through April 1 in Ashtota and Walton Lake in Orange County and White Lake in Sullivan County and Queechy Lake in Columbia County.

OUR TRIP TO THE NORTHLAND — We had the pleasure of spending a week at Bob and Dorothy Geandrea's lakeside cabins in Indian Lake and got in some fine year-end fishing, thanks to our friend, Adirondack guide Richard (Bun) Arndt. Found that his tip on Headquarters Flow paid off.

Excellent catches of rainbows and speckled trout were being made there by trolling and just lazy man shore fishing. Although we ran into some real warm days, the nights and mornings provided a brisk 28. . . Met Bob Saehloff and Charlie Goble, also Frank and Billy Hornbeck.

Headquarters Flow at the head of the Cedar River has been transplanted from a grim, run down logger camp into a state-owned campsite. At its entrance are two finely constructed Conservation Department offices which in years to come will provide entrance to the Moose River Plains section.

A trail road that is hardly accessible at present will wind its way to Inlet, 17 miles from the Flow.

Saw some fine deer, all in good condition and with Mrs. P. spent an evening at the familiar Indian Lake dump viewing black bear. This is a real thrill for youngsters and oldsters alike. . . Also had a hello with Harold Crawley, well known local, who is reading a home in Sabel. . . A good day's fish and our favorite pizza from Mary Harr's Cobblestone rounded out a full day in the outdoors. . . A real good blistering sunburn was a memento for the long winter ahead.

TIP OF THE HAT TO: New Paltz Rod and Gun Club No. 1 team and the Saugerties Fish and Game Club squad for their fine performance in the Ulster County Trap Shoot.

Also to all individual winners and all the participating teams. With many local clubs now making trap shooting available, a number of records just may be made in years to come.

Up and coming gunners to watch are Bob Sperl of Saugerties and a couple of real youngsters—Jimmy Grossi of Walker Valley and William Brocker of Saugerties.

OPENING DAY FOR THE SMALL GAME season on Monday found 274 hunters using the Putnam County Cooperative area and 159 hunters using the Dutchess County Cooperative area. These totals represent an increase over last year. The heavy amounts of cover and warmer than normal weather probably contributed to lower game bags. There were a few violations of the Conservation Law, but these were handled without serious difficulties. A heavy concentration of hunters was noted in the Ellenville area of Ulster County.

THINGS WE WISH FOR: Cooperation of hunters and fishermen in helping provide us with information about their activities. All gun clubs are urged to submit material concerning their area and plans for the coming year. . . A safe, sane hunting season to all.

Favor Casper to Capture St. Andrew's Golf Tourney

By JOHN FARROW
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland
(AP) — A little bit of history comes back to this home of golf today — with bagpipes skirling, drums beating, flutes playing and clarinets piping.

The march through the ancient streets of St. Andrews — mentioned in history way back in the 12th century — will mark the formal opening of the $129,000 Alcan Golfer of the Year Tournament. The 72-hole competition starts Thursday and ends Sunday.

Billy Casper of San Diego, Calif., a former U.S. Open champion, is favored in the field of 10 other Americans, seven British players and New Zealanders Bob Charles.

Those 19 players will receive something that St. Andrews — that place that gave Bobby Jones the freedom of the city in 1958 — has not seen for years.

Originally St. Andrews started a big golfing day with "golfers walking through the city to the links in procession, preceded by a musical band with drums, flutes, and clarinets and usually accompanied by an immense number of the inhabitants."

That's what author W.W. Tulloch wrote about the religion of golf in St. Andrews. He said it all happened in 1849.

The winners of the Alcan Golfer of the Year will receive the biggest first prize ever in the history of golf — $55,000.

But before they aim at that prize the golfers will march through the town with their caddies today and then have a long driving contest.

Gay Brewer, U.S. Masters champion, survived a slight auto accident on his way to St. Andrews and was rated 8-1 second choice behind Casper, the 5-1 favorite.

Bobby Nichols, Louisville, Ky., and Doug Sanders, Cedar-ton, Ga., were next in the betting list at 10-1 with Bob Charles, New Zealand, and Gardner Dickinson, Dothan, Ala., at 16-1.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Charlie Boswell of Birmingham, Ala., shot a final round 51-50—101 on the par 70 course Tuesday and won the International Blind Golfers' Tournament by one stroke over Claude Pattermore of Hamilton, Ont., with a two-day score of 209.

Donnie Van's, Tony's Triumph

Donnie Van's nipped Charlie's Rocket Car Wash, 88-81, and Tony's Pizzeria overpowered Ferroxcube, 99-62, in Tuesday's YMCA A division basketball games at the Broadway gym.

Ken Gilligan, Andy Murphy, Bruce Gilligan and Ray Lindhorst were in double figures for Donnie Van's. Bill Zilliox topped the losers with 23 markers.

The winners had a 41-28 margin at the interim and held off a belated rally in the second half.

Ron Thomas, former Wagner College player, rimmed 33 points to lead Tony's over Ferroxcube. He had 14 buckets and five foul shots. Joe Klonowski added 26 and Billy Huber hit for 21.

After a close first half, the winners outscored their opponents, 58-28, the rest of the way.

Commercial Banks Honor 4-H Leaders

The Commercial Banks of Ulster County paid tribute to the 4-H Leaders of Ulster County by providing the Annual 4-H Leaders' Recognition Banquet. The event was held at the Hurley Reformed Church Saturday with over 100 leaders and guests attending. The Commercial Banks conduct the dinner in recognition of the excellent service performed by 4-H leaders in directing and guiding 4-H youth.

Banks sponsoring the dinner with Ellenville National Bank; First National Bank of Highland; Kerhonkson National Bank; Kingston Trust Co.; Kingston Trust Co. of Marlboro; Valley National Bank, Modena Office; Rondout National Bank; Saugerties National Bank and Trust Co.; State of New York National Bank of Kingston; Huguenot Branch of the State of New York National Bank, New Paltz; The National Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties, Rosendale and the Valley National Bank, Wallkill.

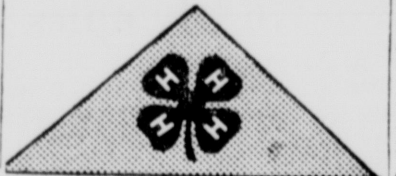

Plug Communication Gap
Charles Dvorak, program leader for the 4-H Division of New York State's Cooperative Extension at Cornell, was guest speaker. In his tribute to leaders, Dvorak pointed out the vital role 4-H Leaders play in bridging the communications gap between youth and parents. "Youth need the help and respect provided by leaders to bolster their self esteem, confidence and competence. 4-H leaders serve as models to youth and are important in molding them into responsible citizens of the future. The speaker discussed four attributes that leaders need in working with youth: be worthy of emulation, a sympathetic tolerance toward youth; basic awareness of the values of subject matter which will meet the needs and interests of youth and be skilled in one activity or area which he can teach effectively. With these characteristics the 4-H Leader provides a very important influence for youth," he said.

Leaders Receive Certificates
Ivan Warren, key banker for the Commercial Banks of Ulster County assisted by Mrs. Gerald DuBois, member of the Ulster County 4-H Executive Committee, presented certificates indicating the number of years served in leadership to each 4-H Local Leader present. In making the presentation, Warren expressed the "Banks' appreciation to the Leaders for their guidance. Several guests were present including the following banker representatives: Mrs. Harrison Brown of the Kerhonkson National Bank; Walter Foster, Kingston Trust Co.; Kenneth Osterhoudt, Rondout National Bank of Kingston; and Ivan Warren of the Valley National Bank. Other guests included Harry Beatty, treasurer of Ulster Co. Cooperative Extension and Mrs. Harry Beatty; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reynolds, Kingston; Mrs. Charles Dvorak, Ithaca; and Mr. Brown, Kerhonkson; Mrs. Foster, Kingston; and Mrs. Ivan Warren.

Bernard McCabe, chairman of the 4-H Executive Committee and master of ceremonies, introduced other members of the executive committee present: Mrs. James Dunbar, Lomontville; Mrs. Gerald DuBois, New Paltz; Mrs. William Larson, Stone Ridge; Alex Embree, Stone Ridge; Phyllis Milliken, Hurley; Robert Kelder, Stone Ridge; Charles DeVoe, president of the 4-H Local Leaders Association; and the Commercial Banks for their support and interest in 4-H work and also presided over a short business meeting at which time the following were elected to offices of the Leaders Association: President, Mrs. Edward Muller, Lake Katrine; John Cosh, Gardiner; Mrs. Sam Kates, Kerhonkson. Other highlights of the program included a songfest led by Miss Anna Mary Portz, Hurley and Miss Jayne Lyke, Lomontville. The Rev. Harold F. Schadevall, minister of the Hurley Reformed Church led the group in the invocation.

Robbery Foiled
KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Three holdup men, one of them masked, stopped William F. Lynch by ramming his car with their car at night after he closed his grocery store.

The gunmen had planned to take Lynch's money and make a fast getaway, but the car's bumpers were locked together. Spectators began gathering, and the excited bandits finally broke their car loose and fled—without the money.

Prepares for Role
LONDON (AP) — American pop singer Lou Rawls says he is taking trumpet lessons so he can play the title role in a film based on the life of jazz musician Louis Armstrong.

"Louis Armstrong himself is to give me lessons," Rawls told newsmen. "He chose me for the part."

Penthouse Release Gets Mixed Notices

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How brutal can a film be? The test of man's inhumanity to the moviegoer will soon be made with a new Paramount release called "Penthouse."

The British-made film has been raising the hackles of previewers in Europe and America. Some claim it to be a masterpiece, some call it an atrocity. No one seems neutral. All this delights Peter Collinson, who wrote "Penthouse" and directed it at a cost of $100,000. He has attended previews of the film in various parts of the world and was in Hollywood for a two-day visit, his first to America.

In Berlin the audience was with the picture all the way," he reported, "and when I came on the stage, they rose in a body and cheered me. In Paris and New York it was a different story. At about one-third of the way through the picture, we start getting walkouts. People leave the theater muttering that the film is black, sick and obscene. In an audience of a thousand, usually 20 or 30 leave."

"Penthouse" concerns a married man having an adulterous affair in a London apartment. Posing as meter readers, two thugs enter and commit all kinds of indignities against the illicit pair.

Britain's censor John Trevelyan read the original play and decreed that a film version could not be approved.

"But I went ahead and made it anyway," said Collinson, a quiet-spoken, tallish man of 28 with a mod shock of blond hair. "After Trevelyan saw it, he did a remarkable thing. He said he would approve the film—if I could get a major company to release it. He didn't want it shown in cheap exploitation theaters."

"That was fine with me. I would rather that the picture not be seen, rather than have it flung around in backstreet theaters."

Collinson had no trouble finding a backer. After one showing at Cannes, the major companies bid eagerly for "Penthouse." He chose Paramount.

"Actually the film isn't violent at all," he remarked. "The only piece of violence comes when one of the boys stamps on the hand of one of his victims."

Does "Penthouse" really have a purpose?

"Certainly," Collinson insisted. "It is a statement about society today. The man is doing wrong by having an affair. The two invaders argue that they have just as much right to have the girl as he does. In the end he has the opportunity to turn them into the authorities. But he doesn't because it would be a disgrace to him before his family and associates."

Political Women

SAYREVILLE, N.J. (AP) — If four women who scored a stunning primary election upset by defeating incumbent male councilman in this community win in November, they will make New Jersey political history.

No council in this state has ever had a distaff majority. But the gals say they are out to establish political history.

In achieving their win, the women and their supporters say they rang nearly 4,000 doorbells. They claim to have spent $726 and have $200 remaining in their treasury.

Dirksen Supports LBJ

Reaffirms Stand on Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — A slashing attack by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, on critics of President Johnson's war course threatens to splinter any Republican unity on the Vietnam issue for the 1968 elections.

The Senate GOP leader, who expects to have a guiding hand in drafting the party's platform next year, fired at Republicans and Democrats alike in a desk-pounding, fist-shaking indictment Tuesday of those willing to settle for something less than a Communist defeat in Vietnam.

Sharp Exchange

In a bristling exchange with Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee over whether American security is at stake in the conflict, Dirksen trained his guns on recent dovish proposals by Sens. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., and his Illinois colleague, Sen. Charles H. Percy.

This contrasted sharply to his fulsome praise for Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, his leadership assistant, who said the United States must not abandon its Asian commitments. Kuchel told the Senate this country must not accept some "nameless settlement" just to end the war.

Dirksen lectured his colleagues for trying, he said, to run the war from the Senate floor. He counseled Johnson's critics not to demean the presidency.

"You do not demean him in the eyes of the people abroad because when you do, you demean the prestige of this republic," he roared. "I cannot denigrate or demean him in the eyes of the world in anything I say."

Without naming his colleague, Dirksen challenged Percy's Monday statement that more than half of the American people disapprove of the manner in which the President is conducting the war and that Johnson has not persuaded U.S. allies to bear their full share of the conflict.

30 Assisting

Dirksen said more than 30 other countries are lending assistance in one form or another in Vietnam. He said domestic criticism of the war course might make American servicemen "begin to wonder whether they are forgotten men, forgotten at home."

"I am not going to forget them," he said.

The GOP leader criticized Morton, without naming him.

Valley Area Escapes Truck Strike Effects

Widespread violence by striking truckers has apparently bypassed the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Officials for the State Highway Department District Engineer's office in Poughkeepsie report that highway projects in Ulster and Dutchess County are going ahead as per schedule.

The largest of these is the new approach for the Mid-Hudson Bridge on the west shore of the Hudson River in Highland. A spokesman for the Poughkeepsie office of the State Highway Department said structural steel for the roadbed is provided by a Westchester local of the striking truckers. The Westchester local is not now on strike.

The Rt. 28 road project near Poughkeepsie is also reported on schedule. A spokesman said work is proceeding with no trouble anticipated.

The truckers are striking for more money and so far have affected work on 94 highway construction projects valued at $260 million.

The striking independent haulers are members of the National Steel Haulers Protection Committee.

Too Many Cooks

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Leon H. Keyserling, economist and lawyer, says present welfare programs won't help many poor people because "too many cooks are spoiling the soup."

Keyserling, an economic adviser to the president during Harry S. Truman's administration, told the Missouri Association for Social Work:

for advocating an end to search-and-destroy missions and calling for U.S. concentration on defending the population centers and ports of South Vietnam.

Search-and-destroy, Dirksen said, "is the only real technique we have that is effective."

Dirksen also challenged those who advocate turning the Vietnam matter over to the United Nations. He held such a move

Utica Newspaper Contract Talks Are Stalemated

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Negotiations in the 2½ - month - old newspaper strike in this city of 100,000 have broken off and no further date has been set for resumption of talks, the newspaper's publisher says.

Herman Moecker, publisher of the morning Press and afternoon Sunday Observer-Dispatch, said Tuesday there had been no progress following two days of discussions over economic issues with the printers union.

The papers are published by the Utica Observer - Dispatch Inc. They are members of the Gannett Group.

The strike began July 15 when pressmen walked off the job. They later were joined by members of the guild, photoengravers and stereotypers unions.

Non - economic issues have been resolved. The printers are not on strike but members have been observing the picket lines. By agreement, the printers are representing the other unions in the discussions on wages.

Goldwater In Dutchess Talk Thursday

Former Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater is scheduled to appear at Falcon Hall of Dutchess County Community College in Poughkeepsie Thursday at 1 p. m.

The 1964 Republican candidate for President will address the faculty and students of the college.

Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon was scheduled to appear last month but was unable to attend.

would be vetoed by the Soviet Union in the Security Council.

Republican senators backing U.N. intervention have included Morton, Percy, John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, George D. Aiken of Vermont and Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon.

In defending Johnson, Dirksen made several references to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who also has backed Johnson on Vietnam.

Of Morton's assertion that Johnson had been brainwashed by a military-industrial complex, Dirksen said, "I would hate to have heard that said of President Eisenhower."

Terming the Republican party an umbrella with room for all shades of opinion, Dirksen said criticism should not go so far as to invade the constitutional powers of the President.

Morton has said he will support Dirksen for chairman of the 1968 GOP convention platform committee despite their differences over Vietnam. But whether other Republicans who have criticized the President will be happy to have a Johnson defender in that position remains to be demonstrated.

Hits Jackpot

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — The stamp-vending machine in the post office lobby is no gambling device—but it recently gave up a fat jackpot.

David Russell, professor of education at Pennsylvania State University, inserted a dime for a two four-centers. He got the stamps but no change. A second dime produced the same results so he gave the machine a sharp rap—and 40 pennies tumbled out.

So the professor took the four cents due him, and mailed the rest to Postmaster Edgar Benner.

Russell didn't put any stamp on the envelope. It came to Benner with 25 cents postage due.

STATE OF NEW YORK
WATER RESOURCES COMMISSION
DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION
In the Matter of the Application of Hurley Sand and Gravel Co., Inc. Application No. 63-647
PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to Section 429 of the Conservation Law, the Water Resources Commission will cause a public hearing to be held in the Conference Room of the Conservation Department's New Paltz Office of Fish and Game at 21 South Pult Corners Road, New Paltz, New York on the 18th day of October, 1967, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon of that day for the purpose of:

(a) hearing all persons, corporations or civil divisions of the State of New York that may be affected by the execution of the plans of Hurley Sand and Gravel Co., Inc., High Falls, New York, to dredge and remove approximately 400,000 cubic yards of gravel from Rondout Creek, Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, plans for which have been filed with the Conservation Department and are now in its office (Division of Water Resources) in Albany, N. Y., where the same are open for public inspection and;

(b) determining whether said plans provide for the proper and safe construction of all work connected therewith, and whether execution of the proposal would adversely affect the health, safety and welfare of the people of the State or the natural resources of the State.

All persons, corporations or civil divisions of the State of New York, other than the applicant and parties in interest who have filed in accordance with the prior "Notice of Application" published in this matter who have objections to the execution of said plans or wish to be heard either in favor of or opposed to such plans, in order to be heard thereon, must file a notice of such desire to be heard in writing and in duplicate in the office of the Conservation Department in the city of Albany, New York on or before the 18th day of October, 1967. Any objection so filed must particularly specify the grounds thereof.

Dear Abby

So Everyone Had Good Time

DEAR ABBY: Here's the situation. A woman, her daughter and her daughter's boy friend went to Expo 67. They traveled and lived together in a one bedroom trailer for the entire week that they were at the fair.

The woman is separated from her husband. The daughter and her boyfriend are both 21, but they are not officially engaged. They are just going together.

No marriage plans have been mentioned. What do you think?

EAST LAKE, O.

DEAR EAST LAKE: I think they probably had a wonderful time. Now what's YOUR problem?

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it's all right for a little boy, say around four or five years old, to see his mother unaddressed? I have a friend who thinks it's perfectly all right to let her little boy hang around and watch her dress, from the skin out. And she thinks nothing of letting him come into the bathroom while she is in the tub. He comes in to ask her questions, or to just sit and visit while he gets his eyes full.

Maybe I am wrong, but I don't approve of this. My friend says it is better to let the boy know than to have him curious. What is your opinion?

DAILY READER

DEAR READER: Maybe I'm old-fashioned, but I still believe in modesty. A mother shouldn't make a federal case out of it if her four-year-old son were to accidentally catch a glimpse of her in the altogether but the bathroom door should be LOCKED while Mother is bathing.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for seven years, and altho we love each other very much, I have one big problem. My husband does not want any children. He told me before we were married that he didn't want a family, but I was sure I could change his mind after we were married.

What is wrong with him, Abby, to think this way? He says in his opinion it is a sin to bring children into the kind of world we now have. What can I do?

CHILDLESS

DEAR CHILDLESS: Your husband is entitled to his opinion. And since he expressed the same views before you married, you don't have a legitimate complaint. Unless you can change his mind, you will have to remain childless.

DEAR ABBY: About that girl who thought her boy friend should get a job as a policeman because he was "good with guns." What we need more than people who are "good with guns," are people who are good with people.

M. M. ATLANTA

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Unconventional Play Is Winner

By OSWALD & James Jacoby

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The late Philip Hal Sims was unquestionably the greatest player in the world in the first days of contract. Like most top-notch players Hal had a fondness for no-trump contracts. He played lots of them and he played them as well as possible.

defense against a five diamond contract and plenty of defense against three no-trump. So much defense that in a 1932 tournament no-trump declarers except Hal went down.

The play at all tables except Hal's started with South winning the spade lead with the queen and knocking out the ace of diamonds. The queen of spades play told West where the king was but each West decided that South would have falsecarded with the king if he really held a guard for the second honor. Therefore each West laid down his ace of spades and collected four quick spade tricks.

When Hal was declarer he won the jack of spades with the king; led a club to dummy's ace and played out the king of diamonds.

West was in with the ace and tried to figure out what Hal was up to. He might just be playing around without the queen of spades or he might have the queen of spades, a small spade and no ace of hearts.

Then West considered Hal's reputation for awhile. He knew that Hal was considered to be the best dummy player in the world and a specialist in no-trump play.

Finally West led a heart and Hal had justified his reputation.

inane (in-AYN)
silly; foolish

His inane remarks about the governor annoyed some of the guests present for the dedication ceremony.

The young man's mother, a woman of good breeding, advised her son not to appear inane in front of his girl friend's mother.

The mailman, a fellow who never regarded his job with any seriousness, was warned by the Post Office that they would not tolerate his inane behavior.

Horoscope

By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1967

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19): You learn secrets. How you respond is of utmost importance. Be discreet. Don't cast first stone. Emotions are touched. But remember you must face yourself in morning.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Arguments with mate, partner, close associates accomplish nothing. Best to study various points of view. Remember need for public relations. Do more listening than asserting.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Communicate with associates, fellow workers. There is much to say and do. Take first step. Extend hand of help, friendship. Some feel you have been grabbing limelight. Be gracious.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Where romance is concerned, avoid deception. Speak the truth, especially where it affects home. If frank, there is understanding. Otherwise there could be chaos.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Friends who have suggestions may feel you are too stubborn to listen. Correct this impression. Disparaging flexibility. Debate is fine, but foolish argument only creates emotional turmoil.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Journey indicated, perhaps in connection with message from relative. Study LEO message. Be versatile. Realize value of sense of humor. Accept added responsibility. Position is strong.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Some factors appear to creep up on you. Means you must face facts as they actually exist. Being ostrich-like will not help matters. Look beyond immediate indications.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Lunar position accents personality, ability to present views in dynamic manner. Stress originality, independence. Be aware of personal appearance. Many observe, look to you as example.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Some who have argued with you now take undercurrent role. Play it safe. Don't stick out your chin. Means avoid inviting trouble. Neutral role serves your best interest.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Dialogue between yourself and associates is essential. Avoid climbing into emotional shell. Express yourself. If you let others know what you think, gain and pleasure are indicated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Elevate prestige, standing in community. Work toward long-range goals. Realize that short cuts could leave you short of satisfaction. Highly placed individual confides views.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): News, information accented today. Gain shown through written word. Study your paper. Check specialized features. You could obtain hint which sets you going in right direction.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you possess intellectual curiosity, are fond of travel and keep up with current events. In a short time your social life will improve—you will meet people, go places.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for SCORPIO, SAGITTARIUS. Special word to GEMINI: set example by doing your share. Some who are resentful may change their opinions.

Wyeth 'Explaining' Fails

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The

Whitney Museum in New York, which normally attracts about 500 visitors a day, drew crowds of 5,000 during an exhibition of paintings by Andrew Wyeth.

Wyeth, son of a famous illustrator, paints realistic portraits of rugged, grizzled men, pensive women and is particularly fond of sweeping, lonesome landscapes. That he has become a rage at a time when the avant garde of American painting is interested in the abstract, the architectural and the unemotional is the basis of an interesting mystry.

A Happy Service . . . But

CBS News, in a half hour program Tuesday night, sought to shed a little light on what it called "The Wyeth Phenomenon."

But beyond performing the happy service of showing a number of Wyeth paintings on the small screen, it was rather unsuccessful in "explaining"

the artist, his work or his popularity.

Two old vaudevillians—a magician and a song and dance man—met in an Atlanta bar.

Over a drink or two they spent several hours quietly reminiscing and catching up on the years that had passed since they had last played on the same bill.

Hank (the hooper) — Say, whatever happened to that pretzy assistant of yours; the one you used to saw in half?

Frank (the magician)—She's doing very well. She's living in New York and San Francisco.

A student, getting back to school late, had difficulty in obtaining a suitable place of lodging.

One landlady, showing him a dingy bedroom, remarked persuasively,

Mrs. Jones — As a whole, this is quite a nice room, isn't

John — Yes, madam, but as a bedroom it's no good.

Under the usual television circumstances, a program about an artist would include some of his work and feature the moments when the artist would sit down comfortably with the reporter and talk about himself and his work. But Wyeth, a middle-aged man with a sensitive face, is an intensely shy man who was of practically no use at all to the program. He does not like to talk about his paintings—and did not. There was no interview at all—only some film of him making an acceptance speech at an award dinner—and he sat down after stopping in the middle of a sentence.

Harry Reasoner, narrating

the show, was left rather high and dry. He quoted the critics, pro and con. He talked with Wyeth's son, Jamie, 20, a painter of promise, whose main contribution was to state he was proud of his father and his work.

Reasoner even had to fall back on the use of anonymous voices reacting to Wyeth's work—"I think it means more than those futuristic paintings."

"I love him—he's so realistic."

"They—the paintings—are all alike. I just don't think he's a 20th century artist."

Why We Say--

GETTING INTO A SCRAPE

This expression has an odd origin

—it actually means falling into a pit.

The saying started in England, where holes that deer dig at certain seasons of the year (about one foot deep) are called scrapes. Pedestrians who frequently fell into these pits were referred to as "getting into a scrape."

Canadian Man, Girl Jailed After Check

Canadian man and a Lake Katrine girl are in Ulster County Jail today following a routine check of the car in which they were riding on Rt. 212 at 4:30 this morning.

Sheriff's deputies charged Anthony Norman Serra, 23, of Kingston, Ontario, Canada, with possession of a narcotic. Serra also gave a Riverside Drive, New York City, address as his place of residence.

Bonita Haslam, 18, Box 254, Lake Katrine, was charged with being an unlicensed operator and was sentenced to five days in jail or a $20 fine.

Serra is awaiting arraignment after Oct. 11.

Deputies Robert Jordan and Michael Giordano investigated.

40th YEAR IN BANKING

The Sterley Years Called Proud and Progressive Ones

Directors of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 235 Fair Street, Tuesday night honored John B. Sterley, chairman of the board at a cocktail party and dinner at Kirkland Hotel in observance of his 40th anniversary in banking.

In brief ceremonies at the association offices, Dewese W. DeWitt, president of the association, presented an inscribed gavel and plaque to Judge Sterley, and outlined the "Sterley" years as "proud, progressive ones."

Credited With Growth
DeWitt recalled the early days when assets totaled only one million dollars and he credited the growth to over $30 million today to "the honoree's devotion and dedication to FFS&LA." DeWitt attributed the climb of the bank to a forefront position in the Ulster financial picture to "the guidance and capable counseling of the judge through the years."

Attending the cocktail hour and dinner were Harry Halverson, first vice-chairman; George C. Swart, second vice-chairman; Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon, secretary and associate counsel; Joseph J. Kelly, Clair S. Sheaffer, Wilmer S. Nickerson, and Dewese DeWitt. Others attending were George Swirsky, George W. Tamke, Alexander J. McKittrick, executive vice president; William F. Paulus, assistant vice president and William D. Costello, auditor.

Toasts during the evening acclaimed the "pacing of the association by the judge."

President in 1957
In 1952 Sterley was selected as vice president of First Federal Savings and Loan, becoming president in 1957. In 1966 he was voted chairman of the board. Ever active in the political and judicial arena he has, through the last 40 years, served as chairman of the City Republican Committee, Ulster County Surrogate Judge from 1944 to 1956 and is the current Republican County Chairman.

Friends said that devotion to FFS&LA duties led to his resignation as City Republican Chairman in 1961 on the occasion of the opening of the Association's Hyde Park Branch. At that time he felt his assistance in the expansion of the association required his undivided attention.

Other affiliations of Judge Sterley include the American Legion, the Kiwanis Club and his church. He resides at 189 Manor Avenue with his wife, the former Helen A. Stephan, whom he married June 30, 1923.

On the night of Oct. 3, 1927, a dozen Ford so-called "divers" parked at the Masonic building at Broadway and Strand, and 12 directors of the Homeowner's Cooperative Savings and Loan Association assembled for their monthly meeting. The directors considered Jack Sterley for a new seat on the Board. He was associated with his father-in-law, Judge Frederick Stephan Jr., who was responsible for drafting the original Constitution and by-laws of the Association.

Sterley was a graduate of Syracuse University and the Albany Law School, and had proved himself an able barrister. He attended the Presbyterian Church and had begun activities in politics and civic areas. Sterley was elected to the Board.

Eventful Year
At that October, 1927 Board meeting some talked of the climbing market, others spoke of the short skirts, but most of the directors devoted their interest to the selection of Sterley as the new director.

It was recalled that the year 1927 was an eventful one. Lindbergh flew across the Atlantic. HRH Edward Albert and Queen Marie visited the United States. Rudy Valentino died. Gertrude Ederle swam the English Channel and Dempsey and Tunney battled as did Peaches and Daddy Browning.

Greta Garbo and Billie Burke frolicked across front pages in 1927. Fred and Adele Astaire were back from London in Funny Face and Al Smith was in Albany for the fourth trip.

Fern's Tides Main Threat

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Pocket-sized Hurricane Fern surged into northeastern Mexico above Tampico today still potent although fast dwindling.

Massive tides appeared to pose the gravest threat. There already was extensive flooding in the vicinity of Tampico. Mexico's second largest port. That city experienced similar hardship in Hurricane Inez nearly a year ago and saw 200 die in a 1955 flood.

Top winds in Hurricane Fern shrank to minimum hurricane force of 75 miles per hour in

Retirement Plan Faces Veto

PRIMARY WINNER—Negro State Rep. Carl B. Stokes, along with his wife, Shirley, waves to his campaign workers and supporters as they celebrate his victory over incumbent Mayor Ralph Locher in Cleveland's hotly contested Democratic Mayoralty primary election. Stokes, who was defeated by Locher in the general election of 1965, won over Locher to take his first step toward becoming the first popularly elected Negro Mayor of a major American city. He will face Republican Seth Taft in the November general election. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Siege Broken; Enemy Retreats

SAIGON (AP)—Massive American firepower has broken the back of the Communist month-long artillery siege of Con Thien and sent groups of North Vietnamese soldiers into retreat from abandoned gun pits, U.S. military authorities said today.

"We made it a Dien Bien Phu in reverse," Gen. William C. Westmoreland told a Washington Star reporter.

Severe Setback

The U.S. commander said the North Vietnamese had suffered a severe setback with heavy casualties in their attempts to knock out Con Thien and other Marine outposts below the demilitarized zone.

The break in the allies' favor on the war's one semistabilized front followed up American aerial attacks on North Vietnam Tuesday as close as 10 miles to Red China. The raiders hit two bridges that the Pentagon had previously held off-limits. In all, U.S. Air Force and Navy squadrons flew 106 missions over the North. Spokesmen announced one plane was shot down.

The North Vietnamese, who had claimed they downed seven planes Tuesday, broadcast a declaration that they felled five more Wednesday. There was no immediate American comment.

Although the Communist fire on Con Thien slackened appreciably and aerial reconnaissance showed some groups pulling back, U.S. authorities said there was no sign of a general withdrawal of the 35,000 North Vietnamese troops estimated to be massed in and near the DMZ.

Westmoreland cautioned in an interview with The Associated Press that he expects renewed assaults against the Marine positions.

"I don't think the enemy has given up his aggressive campaign," the general said.

Dien Bien Phu, in the hills 180 miles west of Hanoi, was the site of France's final defeat in the Indochina war in 1954. Big guns manhandled to the heights by Ho Chi Minh's Communist-led troops battered the remnants of a French army into submission.

The Communists' attack on Con Thien, at times surpassing 1,000 rounds a day, was their most massive artillery operation since Dien Bien Phu.

Westmoreland has described the American response — aerial bombs and shells from both land-based and naval guns — as the greatest concentration of conventional firepower in history.

The U.S. Marine outposts are intended to block what some observers believe could be a large-scale attempt by North Vietnamese regulars to take over South Vietnam's northern provinces.

U.S. spokesmen said aerial spotters have seen groups of retreating North Vietnamese soldiers. They said aerial photographs have shown abandoned enemy gunpits in the DMZ.

"There are all kinds of indications that we did one helluva lot of damage to them," said one ranking officer. "There is every indication that they are pulling back and that we broke their back this time."

Westmoreland indicated that he expected any lull along the DMZ to be temporary.

"It appears the enemy had planned to eliminate Con Thien," the general said as he arrived in Da Nang, the Marines' northern headquarters, to confer with Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman Jr., U.S. Marine commander in Vietnam.

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan said this morning he will veto the 25-year retirement plan for police and firemen passed unanimously by the Common Council last night.

Hits Cost Angle

In his statement to The Freeman Garrahan declared, "The aldermen had no business passing that new retirement plan without knowing what it would cost the city."

Under the old 30-year retirement plan, 16 per cent was taken out of the workers' wages. It was originally split eight and eight but in recent years the city paid 13 per cent and the employees three per cent. Under the 25-year plan a 25 per cent deduction would be taken out. It has not yet been ascertained whether the city would pay the extra nine per cent, the employees pay the nine per cent or if some kind of split would be worked out.

The mayor's point this morning was if no one knew how much the retirement plan would cost then how could the aldermen approve it.

Pretty Large Figures

The retirement fund runs into some pretty large figures. The city is currently paying a deficiency fund to the state to cover persons who retired in the past. That total was $104,799 this year for police and firemen and will increase by three per cent each year until 1980.

The city's share under the 30-year retirement plan for firemen and policemen for 1967 totaled $31,560.

Speaking against the retirement plan approved by the council, Garrahan said, "I want city employees treated fairly, however, there are taxpayers that must have the same fair treatment and real estate taxes cannot stand an additional burden."

"If the Common Council is going to add more yearly costs to the city, they will have to come up with revenues other than real estate taxes," Garrahan said.

Election Rates Second

The mayor was questioned on his chances for election if he vetoed the 25-year retirement plan. Said Garrahan, "If I have to sell the city short, I don't care if I ever get elected."

A report from the State Department of Audit and Control, which controls retirement funds, is expected within a week. According to Garrahan, the Department of Audit and Control could not tell him just how much the new retirement plan would cost when he (Garrahan) called them this morning.

No Residency Action

In other action, the aldermen received a resolution calling for the dropping of the residency law for city policemen. This was not acted on as it has to be in the possession of the aldermen for at least 10 days.

Robert Gollnick, representing Uniformed Fire Fighter's Association Local 461, said his organization felt firemen and policemen should be residents of the city. He added that his organization felt that firemen now living outside the city should not be forced to move into the city.

Salary Stumbling Block

Gollnick said the problem was not one of lack of applicants but rather the past lack of effort in providing attractive salaries both at the starting level and in future increments. "Pay a decent salary and you won't be at a lack for applicants," Gollnick said.

In other action, a protest letter was received from residents of the west side of Sharon Lane in the 12th Ward. The residents asked why the city is defraying the entire cost of the installation of a street on the easterly side of Main Street (Sharon Lane, according to the residents, is on the westerly side of Main Street) when on the westerly side of Main Street all the landowners were assessed by the city for the same type road.

The letter stated that the westerly side taxpayers were assessed for street improvement and should have their side improved.

Twelfth Ward Alderman John Machone said he requested an answer to this question at the September meeting of the council from Mayor Garrahan and City Engineer Thomas Wickham, which, he says, he has yet to receive.

The city sold a number of streets in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Project to Kingston Urban Renewal Agency for $1. They included

Murray Street, Newkirk Avenue, Water Street and Chambers Street.

Rezoning Approved

The council also approved the rezoning of the area in Broadway East where Rondot Gardens is under construction from commercial to multiple housing.

Alderman Edward Norton (D-Seventh Ward) moved that the meeting be adjourned in memory of Roland Lamoreaux, 57, superintendent of the city hall heating plant, who died yesterday afternoon. Mr. Lamoreaux had been a city employee since Jan. 6, 1962.

Next month's meeting will be delayed a week due to Election Day on the 7th. The Council will meet at 7:30 p. m., Nov. 14.

Kingston Hospital Official

Schnitzer Leaving Post

Robert M. Schnitzer, administrator of Kingston Hospital since 1954, has accepted an appointment as associate director of Hospital Affairs with the New York State Department of Health at Albany.

Schnitzer has resigned from the local hospital position effective October 25 in order to accept the appointment. The announcement was made to Kingston Hospital staff members Tuesday afternoon by Edward C. Byman, president of the hospital's board of trustees.

Received With 'Regret'

President Byman pointed out that Schnitzer served as administrator during a time when Kingston Hospital doubled its inpatient capacity, added greatly to its ancillary facilities, and completed three building fund campaigns. The latest was a $1.5 million project for the construction of a new wing which is now in service. The hospital today has an inpatient capacity of 200.

"We are sorry to see him leave, but we realize he is moving to advance his professional interests. We are confident his contributions on a state level will be of considerable importance. We wish him well," Byman said.

Miss Finger Takes Over

Miss Mary Finger, assistant administrator, will manage the hospital until a replacement candidate is selected to succeed Schnitzer.

During his tenure here, Schnitzer was active in committee work with the New York State Hospital Association, and is a past president of the Southeastern New York Hospital Association.

ton Hospital post in June 1954.

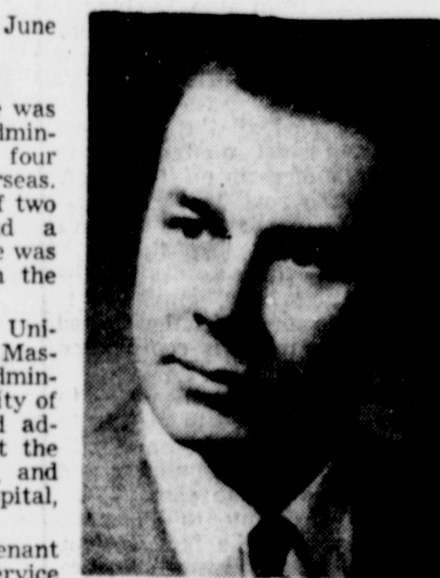

Discharged as Major

During World War 2, he was in the Army's medical administrative corps, serving four years, much of this overseas. He was executive officer of two evacuation hospitals and a medical depot company. He was honorably discharged with the rank of major.

A graduate of Rutgers University, he received his Master's Degree in hospital administration from the University of Chicago. He later served administrative internships at the Mercer Hospital, Trenton, and at Orange Memorial Hospital, Orange, N. J.

Schnitzer is a lieutenant colonel in the Medical Service Corps, U.S. Army Reserve and in 1963 graduated from the Command General Staff College. He also is a Fellow, American College of Hospital Administrators.

Active in community work, Schnitzer served four years as treasurer and a director of the Ulster County Community

By EDMOND Le BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, threatened by the House for weeks to cut spending or see his tax hike bill go down the drain, now has the ultimatum in black and white.

The tax-writing Ways and Means Committee voted 20 to 5 for a resolution putting aside the bill for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge "until such time as the President and the Congress reach an understanding" on spending cuts.

Given More Time

But the full House narrowly refused to order Johnson to slice spending $5 billion. It did give the Appropriations Committee more time to find ways of cutting the budget and acted to insure that departments whose appropriations haven't been finally voted yet will be able to meet their payrolls and other expenses at least through Oct. 10.

In last week's maneuverings, the House held up a vote on the temporary appropriations bill in a bid to force the Appropriations Committee to come up with a spending cut plan.

But the Ways and Means Committee's action Tuesday provided a clear enough message to the White House on congressional attitude about spending reductions.

But numerous questions of just where spending should be cut await congressional decisions.

On Tuesday alone, the Senate Appropriations Committee voted to add $95.5 million to the House-passed space money bill.

A Senate-House conference committee added $13.5 million to a bill to continue the Teacher Corps, after the House had voted nothing for the program.

And the House passed a compromise bill to authorize $2.3 billion in military construction projects after hearing it described as "the most austere" measure possible.

There was no immediate administration reaction to the Ways and Means Committee's action.

One spokesman said he looked for no action by the administration. "I don't see any movement at the moment," he said. "I wouldn't look for any fast reaction."

The Ways and Means Committee has been insisting on tangible evidence of a spending cut of about $5 billion before it sends a tax increase bill to a reluctant House. Johnson has insisted major spending cuts can be calculated only after Congress passes the appropriations bills.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., told newsmen after the Ways and Means action: "It's hopeless."

He said that at present no tax increase would be approved by the committee or passed by the House, adding: "This looks to me like a first step to get a change. Even then a tax bill might not pass and I don't know what my position would be."

Shanker Gets 15 Days

Teacher Head Guilty

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Federation of Teachers was fined $150,000 today and its president, Albert Shanker, sentenced to 15 days in jail and fined $250 for criminal contempt of court in conducting a strike against the city's public school system.

The sentencing, by Justice Emilio Nunez in State Supreme Court, was viewed by the union as the first application of the punitive provisions of the state's new Taylor law, which bars strikes by public employees.

Charges against two other union officials were dismissed by Nunez.

The city's board of education had obtained an injunction against the strike under the new law, but it did not halt the walkout of the 50,000-member union. The fine thus amounts to about $3 per union member.

Maximum penalties under the law are fines of $10,000 a day against the union and jail terms of up to 30 days and a $250 fine against leaders.

Law Assailed

The law has been assailed by the two-million State AFL-CIO. The other defendants with Shanker were UPT Vice President George Altomare and David Wittes, treasurer.

Covered 17 Days

The walkout virtually eliminated all formal classroom instruction for the city's 1.1 million public school pupils. It was in effect 14 school days over a 17-day period.

Mino Reserves Decision

County Judge Raymond J. Mino today reserved decision in the alleged entrapment case of two Woodstock residents charged with the sale of marijuana.

The action was in response to a request made by New York Civil Liberties Union lawyer, Burton Neuborne, that the grand jury be reconvened to dismiss indictments against Thomas L. Blackwell, an artist and Miss Giboney Whyte, a dress designer.

Air Force Maj. William J. Knight streaked almost seven times the speed of sound Tuesday in an eight-minute flight, skimming along the fringe of the atmosphere at 99,000 feet.

Carson McCullers Funeral

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 200 persons—including writers Tennessee Williams, Truman Capote and Janet Flanner—attended a funeral service here Tuesday for Carson McCullers, the author.

Mrs. McCullers, who was ill much of her life, died Friday at the age of 50 in a hospital in Nyack, N. Y., a suburban community where she lived for years.

Actresses Myrna Loy and Julie Harris were among those at the service at St. James' Episcopal Church. Miss Harris starred on the stage and screen in Mrs. McCullers' "The Member of the Wedding."

1967 Series Underway With Cards Favored 3-2

Fair weather with temperatures in the 60s greeted more than 35,000 fans at Boston's Fenway Park today as the 1967 World Series got underway.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who won the National League title more than two weeks ago, were 11-10 favorites to win the opener and 3-2 favorites to capture the Series over the Red Sox.

Bob Gibson, the outstanding pitcher in the '64 World Series, when St. Louis beat the New York Yankees, was the starter for the National League champions. He was opposed by Jose Santiago, holder of a 12-4 record and one of the top Red Sox hurlers in their stretch drive.

Foresee Repeat Of 1954

AN AP NEWS ANALYSIS
By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The military situation in the northern part of South Vietnam raises a possibility that the Communists are pushing stacks of blue chips into a gamble to produce a situation not entirely unlike that of 1954.

Communist strategists in North Vietnam may be tempted to think in terms of 13 years back, when France was in political uproar over the Vietnam conflict. It took one spectacular strategic defeat at Dien Bien Phu to shatter the morale of the French colonial power.

In Con Thien this week Peter Arnett of The Associated Press found a belief among U.S. Marine officers that Communists in that area had succeeded in one of their objectives: to draw U.S. forces away from the main thrust of the war. That thrust was toward destruction of the Viet Cong infrastructure and establishment of road and village security.

To do it, the Communists wheeled up enormous firepower to the Bien Hai River border. From that sanctuary they poured murderous fire on U.S. positions in the 1st Corps area.

Responding, the Americans had to move up reinforcements.

The strategic thinking of Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap is discernible. Giap, who masterminded the French debacle at Dien Bien Phu, learned his "people's war" at Yenan from Mao Tse tung in the 1930s. The idea of the sudden, decisive, morale-shattering victory springs from China's Mao.

"To wound all the 10 fingers of a man is not so effective as to chop one of them off," Mao advised. "To rout 10 of the enemy's divisions is not so effective as to annihilate one of them."

When the time comes for the annihilating blow, emphasis is placed on conventional war and guerrilla warfare is coordinated with it, wrote Mao.

Mao's instructions were to "lure the enemy to penetrate deep," always "choose conditions favorable to ourselves and unfavorable to the enemy," induce the enemy to "commit mistakes when he is worn out physically and mentally" from protracted war. Among the enemy mistakes, Mao counseled, would be piecemeal reinforcement and dispersion of main forces. Then, at the proper moment, after long stalemate, "people's war" forces should pass over to the offensive.

To Giap's way of thinking, the reinforced Marines at Con Thien, despite their modern weapons and air power, could be a likely target for fashioning something in the nature of a new Dien Bien Phu.

Nature Tour Set Sunday By Museum

Members and friends of the Mid Hudson-Catskill Museum may participate in a nature walk along the Peekamoose Trail Sunday, Oct. 8 at 10 a.m.

Leading the walk will be Norman Kellar, a trustee of the Museum, and a member of the John Burroughs Natural History Society.

The West Shokan Firehouse will be the point of departure, and the group will proceed along the 20-mile Peekamoose Trail. The tour will include both riding in one's car, and stopping along the way to observe flora and fauna of the area.

A 100-foot waterfall will provide a background for the picnic lunch, which will mark the half-way point of the trip.

The group will then proceed through Sundown and Lows Corners, and around the Rondout Reservoir.

Hanging Rock Falls will be the last stop, with arrival there at approximately 3 p.m.

The trip is a "repeat" of one the Museum offered this past July.

Library Books

The following popular fiction and non-fiction books were received this week at Kingston Library:

Fiction

Koningsberger, H. The Revolutionary. Forcefully explores the mysterious and very modern phenomenon of revolution.

Rooney, F. Shadow of God. A deeply moving and terrifying war story about five captured nuns on a Far Eastern peninsula.

Roth, P. When She Was Good. A powerful and original novel about a morally obsessed woman who destroys herself and those around her.

Stewart, M. The Gabriel Hounds. A suspense story based on an English legend about a pack of ghostly hounds that hunt through the sky with death.

Non-Fiction

Baker, J. A. The Peregrine. One of the most savage and beautiful bird books ever written.

Churchill, S. A Thread in the Tapestry. The author evokes the essence of what it was to be Sir Winston Churchill's daughter.

Friedlander, A. Never Trust A God Over 30. A cogent discussion of the new, activist clergy and the desires of today's voting people.

Hutheising, K. We Nehrus. A personal and dramatic history of one of the world's most important political families.

months to come in hopes of increasing the amount which will go to county high schools which have had their former students killed in Vietnam.

Credit for drumming up at least 25 per cent of the pledges yesterday is given to a friend of the Santoroski family, Jack Turk of Dunham Rock and Tunnel Excavation Corp. Turk knew the Santoroski's 20-year-old son, Michael, well; knew him before the young Army private lost both legs in Vietnam Sept. 6 when he encountered a booby trap. Michael, who in a letter to his mother Sept. 10 expressed no bitterness, saying, "It is God's Will," died Sept. 26 in an Army hospital in the Philippines.

The radio station's news director, Jim Thompson reported that many parents of other county servicemen killed in Vietnam, phoned in and expressed gratitude that the fund honored all 13 local youth who gave their lives for their country during the past two years.

More than 500 calls were received from residents and contributions were received in person at the station and at banks scattered throughout the county.

TB Hospital Action Another Step Closer

All that remains to convert the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital on Golden Hill to county infirmary purposes is the final consent from the State Health Department. This consent, it was disclosed today, is expected at any time.

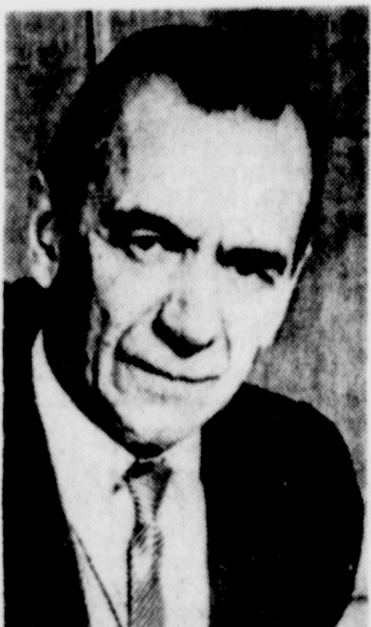

Consent from the State Board of Social Welfare was granted on September 19, and consent from several other agencies involved in the matter has already been received.

With the permission of the State Department of Public Health the TB Hospital facilities will be then available for use as an infirmary under the jurisdiction of the local Department of Social Services.

The Ulster County Board of Supervisors has filed a letter of intent with the state, indicating that the county intends in the future to construct a new permanent infirmary facility.

Registration Is 'Fairly Good'

Registration in the Ulster County went "fairly good" Tuesday, the first of eight final registration days in the 127 districts.

Official figures were not available today as results are being mailed to the Board of Elections by the various districts. First day results will be tabulated later this week.

Other registration dates will be Oct. 7, 10, 11, 12 and 13. Weekday hours will be 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. with Saturday hours 7 a. m. to 10 p. m.

The slow registration to date makes election officials apprehensive of a last minute rush causing long waiting lines and added work loads.

Scattered reports from the townships indicate a slow but steady response. Prior to the present PPR system voters in the towns were not required to register annually.

A number of election districts have been added this year to accommodate population increases in several towns. New districts include: Esopus, two; Hurley, two; Lloyd, three; Rosendale, two; Saugerties, three; Shawangunk, Ulster, one and Wawarsing, one.

Community Chest

A good community, one in which we would choose to live and one in which it is a pleasure to bring up children, requires general community cooperation. It must be a balanced community, one in which the needs of the people are met in the most efficient manner. The Community Chest provides an agency through which many activities and services can be coordinated and plans made to meet these needs.

The annual Ulster County Community Chest campaign is underway and will continue through October 21. The goal of $320,000 is for the 13 participating agencies to provide essential services for the next year. This year's higher campaign goal reflects a growing community and a bigger demand for services of the agencies, and therefore deserves greater support.

There should be no need to urge people to support these agencies for they have proved their worth in their respective fields over many years. Without them we would not have a balanced community, one which is meeting its obligations.

Success of the Community Chest depends upon the general public giving their fair share in a single contribution what the total amount otherwise would be given in separate contributions to the various organizations.

Only you can determine what should be your fair share of the required amount for the successful administration of these agencies.

A Chest contribution actually is an investment in the community served, an investment which returns dividends to all residents as well as those served by the agencies.

Let's give generously because we want to do our part for our community.

Let's show our appreciation for the work of many by a simple but most necessary single act of contributing generously.

Budget Out of Control?

President Johnson's budgetary troubles are multiplying both in and out of Congress.

House Republicans, joined by rebellious Democrats, sought to pressure Johnson to cut nondefense spending by $5 billion by sending a routine appropriation bill back to the Appropriation Committee with instructions to find the cutbacks. In another attempt, they sought to put a ceiling of $131.5 billion on government spending for this year as the price of their support for the proposed 10 per cent surtax.

What must have been galling to the White House was the fact that among the Democrats who joined in the pressure tactic was Wilbur D. Mills, the chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee. It was his notice to the President that he stood pat on his demand for a meaningful spending cut before he would move the bill for the surtax out of his committee.

However, George H. Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriation Committee, refused to pressure the President, saying it would be an admission the House cannot discharge its responsibility and would make Congress appear hopelessly bogged down and incompetent.

Just such an impression was hinted at outside of Congress as the American Bankers Association stated that estimates of a federal budget deficit of $30 billion despite record levels of income and output indicate the budget is out of control.

The bankers urged government to take the budget under control by junking programs that have outlived their usefulness, and to postpone or stretch out others. For abandonment, they cited the federal agricultural program and some aspects of foreign aid; for postponement, the nation's adventure in space.

By this time, the President should realize that his business as usual way of fighting a war is disturbing the economy, and the time has come to demand sacrifices at home matching those our fighting men are making in battle.

Behind Price Rises

The obvious things to say about the creeping consumer price index—up 0.3 per cent in August, which normally marks a decline—is that costs have been increasing, productivity declining and profit margins squeezed, producing offsetting rises in prices. This is especially true, since the wholesale index is expected to rise 0.2 in September, for the second month in a row. That is usually a key indicator of inflation.

One thing that is notable in these price changes is that the government seems to be complacent about them, once it opposed them vigorously. Has Washington given up and accepted a fresh round of inflation as inevitable? It has given up on its wage guideline and seems to be doing the same about prices. We are moving into a war economy without the protections usual to keep wages and prices within limit in wartime.

"Don't Worry, I'll Get You Down!"

David Lawrence Says Government Joins Private Industry

WASHINGTON.—The federal government thirty years ago tried by means of "made work" projects to diminish unemployment, but the effort failed. Today, in the midst of a period of economic expansion, unemployment persists. But this time a new approach is being tried. President Johnson has just directed five cabinet officers, along with the administrators of three federal agencies, to launch a major test program whereby the government would join private industry to help find jobs and provide training for the "hard core" unemployed.

This decision—to co-operate with private industry and give it a major part in dealing with unemployment—is a step that has long been advocated by businessmen. It may not succeed even now unless private enterprise is given the fullest responsibility, without the interference of governmental bureaucracy.

The situation was emphasized a few days ago in a significant speech in New York City by Senator Wallace F. Bennett, Republican of Utah, at the convention of the American Bankers Association. He is a former president of the National Association of Manufacturers and has an intimate knowledge of business operations. He said:

"The basic problems of the depressed '30's have survived and even flourished in the shadow-world of government welfare. Although the number of individuals and families with incomes below the poverty level has dropped steadily as prosperity has increased throughout the last three decades, the number of public relief welfare rolls has continued to increase at what is to many an alarming rate. Three decades ago, there were just over 3 million persons receiving government welfare payments. Today, that number has increased to over 12 million. The dollar outlay for welfare payments has increased over eight-fold during the period until today it is over 5 billion dollars annually . . .

"It is hopeful that many in Congress have finally come to realize what has always been obvious to some, that government paternalistic control and handouts, instead of encouraging people to get off relief, actually tend to attract more to welfare as a way of life, and once in this pattern to cling to it . . .

"It is clear to me that we will never solve the problem of the poor of 1967 until we can move them out of the half-world of government support, and make them a part of the real economic world we call the private enterprise system . . .

"While it is easy to agree that this is desirable, it should also be clear that government can never provide the leadership needed to bring it about. In the first place, many men in government have themselves never been a part of the productive side of our free system, and therefore do not understand or trust it."

Senator Bennett stressed, moreover, that the responsibility falls upon the men "whose faith in our free system, and understanding of its processes, have made them leaders in it."

The latest action of President Johnson indicates an awareness of these very aspects of the unemployment problem. As the administration asks businessmen to mobilize their resources to help in job-training programs, it is apparent that the government's role cannot be merely one that furnishes subsidies. What is most needed is legislation that will recognize the importance of incentives to private enterprise so that job creation will be encouraged.

Unemployment is related also to geographical factors. For, as the President said in launching the new program, the need is "to create new jobs and new training opportunities for the seriously disadvantaged in plants which will be established in or near areas of concentrated unemployment."

There are, to be sure, parts of the country which can use more employees. But it is difficult to transport the unemployed from their cities of residence, because many persons dislike to move to other parts of the United States, away from relatives and friends.

The major experiment envisaged by the administration's new policy, while relatively small in amount, could initiate further experiments on an even larger scale. The fact that business and government are planning at last to work together to try to find a solution to the unemployment problem is a heartening sign.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

LONDON, ENGLAND — Entertainment is a serious subject with the British. Like Americans, they cannot bear to sit at home and look at each other. They court diversions, ranging all the way from the local pub to the telly, the movies, legitimate theatre, supper clubs, and cozy inns a half hour out of town.

The telly, of course, is television. The stay-at-homes, mostly middle-aged couples, sit numbly after supper watching the boob tube, or biding from each other behind the Daily Express, or the Telegraph. They are concerned with rent, insurance, and socialized medicine. It seems that almost all Britons bet a shilling or two on football matches or dog races. Small business offices with signs marked "Betting Commissioner" are the places where the Englishman goes to parlay a string of lucky selections into a fortune.

The motion pictures are mostly American. The hits showing now, from Piccadilly Circus to Manchester, are The Dirty Dozen, The Sound of Music, and Divorce American Style. On the other hand, the British write and produce more plays than we do. Between Drury Lane and St. James Street there are 44 theatres, from Her Majesty's to Old Vic.

The choice is broad, and good seats average about $4.90 apiece. One of the comedies is Duddy's Here Again. Another is a slight slam at my type of book, and is called A Day in the Death of Joe Egg. There a Girl in My Soup may be the title of the year. The Mousetrap, a mystery, has been running fifteen years.

The pub, of course, is the corner saloon. These are small, beamed places with old casks and jolly barmaids in miniskirts. The customers sip their porter and cultivate a mood. At the Coal Hole, I watched one couple sit for an hour over their glasses, staring ahead at a wall without exchanging a word. Some men play darts for drinks. Others lean on a bar, puffing pipes and trading opinions about the Labor government.

The supper clubs are expensive and wild. La Carretta, on Carnaby Street, features topless waitresses. Les Ambassadeurs charged me 3/5/0 ($9.10) to become a "temporary" member, showed me around the old Rothschild mansion with its rare wood inlays, charged me $14 for a good dinner, and an extra pound to go upstairs and play roulette and lose a little money.

If your excitement requires an "s" in front of the word, then a lonely woman can phone and have a male escort pick her up and take her out, providing she pays the bills and whatever shows on his meter at the end of the evening. Men can phone for young and attractive girls—the agency prefers a description of your ideal in pulchritude—and pay to play. Boys will be boys, but the toys become more expensive. At the Paint Box Club, on Foley St., you may sit at a table and sketch nude models, who pose from 7 p. m. onward. You don't have to be a real artist. The management promises not to grade or de-grade your work. The Crazy Horse Saloon features a voluptuous girl with the description: "At the flick of a switch this girl begins to move."

Then there is the Cock and Lion, which proclaims "Interesting clientele and even more interesting landlord." If you have trouble saying "Yes," there is a consulting psychologist who will treat "nervous conditions and negative habits." This is putting the proposition before the proposition.

Belmont Laboratories features a "Confidential Pregnancy Testing Service" for women whose nervous conditions resist the soothing psychologist. Mr. Yang offers an Oriental massage by appointment only. Then too, there are co-educational sauna baths. London, it appears, is reader for you than you are for London.

Drew Pearson Says Hooky-Playing Congressmen Killed October Fund

WASHINGTON.—If it hadn't been for hooky-playing and junketing Congressmen, the administration would have passed its stopgap resolution continuing the budget through the month of October.

The resolution's defeat meant that ten government departments and a score of other agencies were without funds beginning the first of this week. Republicans and many Dixiecrats had taken House leaders by surprise and ganged up to ban the normally routine continuance of funds unless the administration agreed to slice $5 billion out of non-defense spending.

It was Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler who jeopardized his own funds by sending a group of Congressmen junketing to Brazil. This increased the absentee vote and helped kill the resolution continuing the flow of government money. The six Congressmen sent to attend the International Monetary Fund Conference in Rio de Janeiro were:

Henry Reuss, Wis., Lud Ashley, Ohio, William Moorhead, Pa., Thomas Rees, Calif., all Democrats, with Seymour Halpern of New York, a Republican moderate, and William Brock, Tenn., a Republican Conservative.

Most of the above are A-1 Congressmen, and the International Monetary Fund is an important organization. However, other delegates could have been found to attend it.

Other Democratic Congressmen who played hooky during the crucial vote were: John Brademas, Ind., Hugh Carey, Brooklyn, Eligio de la Garza, Tex., Mike Feighan, Ohio, Edward Derwinski, Ill., James Corman, Calif., L. H. Fountain, N. C., Elliott Hagan, Ga., Edward Hebert, La., Sydney Herlong, Fla., Bob Jones, Ala., James Kee, W. Va., Thomas Morgan, Pa., John Moss, Calif., Mendel Rivers, S. C., John Bell Williams, Miss., Ed Willis, La.,

Lester Wolff, N. Y., Jim Wright, Tex.

Bill Green, D-Pa., an excellent Congressman, was in Philadelphia. His office could give no reason why he was not around to vote. Andy Jacobs, another good Congressman, was in Indiana on a speaking date. He didn't come back to vote.

Note—Most observers agree with the 28 GOP freshmen that Speaker McCormack allows too much goofing off, should hold session six days a week and crack down on absentees.

There were some interesting votes among those who stuck around Washington to vote on the stopgap finance resolution. One was Nick Galifianakis, the North Carolina Greek, a Democrat, who told friends when he was frantically running for election that he would never desert his humble origin as the son of a Greek immigrant; would vote for education, better housing, health and school lunches.

When the chips were down, however, Galifianakis voted to lop a big hunk of money from these projects. So did several moderate Republicans who usually vote for the underprivileged—Charles Mathias, Md., William Gude, Md., Ogden Reid, N. Y.

Significantly, one Mississippian, Jamie Whitten, put up a fight the other way. He pointed out that there was $5 billion of unexpended funds stashed away in the Defense Department and there was no reason why schools, the school lunch program, housing, health and impacted-area schools should suffer because of the GOP economy drive.

"Everyone, including the President is proceeding on the assumption that Defense spending should not be touched in any way by economy moves," said Whitten. "Why should it be so inviolate if we have to cut federal spending?"

which could be held up, without hurting Southeast Asia at all."

Most Democrats at the meeting agreed with Whitten that this $5 billion—some said it ran as high as $7 billion—could be "re-programmed" for other purposes, so that Secretary McNamara could reduce future supplementary requests by that amount.

When the votes were counted, however, every Mississippi Congressman voted the other way.

Most of the Dixiecrats who voted for the $5 billion cut are strong states' righters. Yet curtailment for non-defense spending will seriously hit their states, for the Southern states are more dependent on federal grants than any in the nation.

Rep. George Mahon, the tall, gaunt Texan who heads the House Appropriations Committee, explained this very carefully at a closed-door session of committee Democrats. He used a blackboard to demonstrate.

"If we agreed to this $5 billion cut, it would mean that one-third of the $15 billion would have to be impounded, wiped out," said Mahon. "This would include spending by the Agriculture Department, aid to higher education, impacted-area school aid, the school lunch program and many other things."

"Obviously this is impossible, I've talked to Frank Boy," said Mahon, referring to the GOP Congressman from Ohio and a leader in the economy fight against LBJ, "and pointed out these figures to him. But he won't listen. He's thinking about the next Presidential campaign."

"If we approved this arbitrary $5 billion reduction in spending now," continued Mahon, "it would completely disrupt state budgets, which depend a great deal on federal spending in the non-defense field. Many state legislatures are not even in session at the present time."

Henry J. Taylor Says Problem of Strikes One of Power

The fed-up millions suffering the strike waves should read about in the papers nearly every day.

The basic cause isn't the rivalries of union leaders who so often seem to ignore the public interest. There are good and bad union leaders, as in any other business.

Generally, the problem is not even a matter of good wages. Most sweatshops, blessings be, have long since disappeared from the labor scene.

When Walter Reuther called the Ford strike the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated that the average hourly wage rate for the Big Three's 700,000 production workers was $3.41 ($2.4 million an hour). Fringe benefits on top of this brought the hourly rate to $4.68 ($3.2 million an hour).

When the newspaper strike killed off the New York World Journal Tribune the printers were being paid $4.34 hourly plus a Matterhorn of fringe benefits and a four-week paid vacation. And so it goes.

The problem is one of power—the unique license to unions to pursue self-interest largely without limit or restraint.

One way or another the public pays the bill for every surge wage hike, for "featherbedding" and every wasteful practice perpetuated or increased by strikes; or bad settlements made in the face of strike threats.

Moreover, when wages and prices leapfrog each other as they are doing today, no one winds up ahead.

heartbreaking technique we read about in the papers nearly every day.

It is nonsense for government officials to pretend they are baffled by the strike problem. The government is neither ignorant nor innocent. And the government is not defenseless; the public is, but the government is not.

A remedy is at hand that is even more pressing than the public's demand for more Congressional legislation, including better antitrust laws to apply to unions as they do to companies. I refer to the National Labor Relations Board. This is the chief source of union superpower.

The many proposed amendments to labor relations laws would mean literally nothing if their administration remains with the NLRB.

No one in Washington seriously denies that memberships on the NLRB are considered and treated as part of the political patronage of the unions. By such patronage, which stacks the deck, the unions have become in effect, the judges of their own objectives and actions.

On the basis of the NLRB's own record, it is partisan—flagrantly partisan and unfit to dispense justice. This is known to every judicious student of our labor problem and is documented ad infinitum.

The NLRB uses a double standard—one for management, one for unions. It arms one side and disarms the other. It also uses a double standard for the unions' members.

The NLRB fails to protect employees from union coercion. It fails even worse to protect them from union violence. A

The NLRB has made a shambles of the employees' stated right under the laws for their free choice of representatives. It does this in the so-called "union authorization card cases wherein the NLRB certifies as bargaining agent a union which has lost an employees' election.

Equally unfair to employees, it has repeatedly upheld "union fine" cases to coerce them to abandon their lawful rights to abandon their lawful rights to work during a strike, to throw out "featherbedding" even in their best interests or to seek a change of unions.

The NLRB has made a similar shambles of Congress's intent to plug the loopholes in the labor laws. Its support of the loopholes is notorious.

Step by step, the NLRB has muscled in on the contents of contracts by prescribing a growing list of subjects it makes mandatory for bargaining. The result has vastly expanded the area of "bargaining," the dimensions of disputes and the size of the emergencies that hold the public at their mercy.

Beginning with the immediate revamping of the National Labor Relations Board, the one hope is that our fed-up country's protest in the face of the strike situation will convince the politicians who are beholden to the unions' support that it's good politics to protect the average man and woman for a change. Let the paying public speak its outrage loud enough and they'll act—worried about the election next year.

Deal Firmly With Buddhist Dissidents Is U. S. Advice

By PETER LISAGOR Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 — U. S. officials here and in Saigon have urged the South Vietnamese government to deal firmly with the Buddhist dissidents and their allies to avoid a return to the chaos and instability of the post-Diem period.

Washington admits its worry that Thich Tri Quang, the shrewd and calculating Buddhist politician, may be able to form a "dangerous coalition" with the disgruntled losers in the recent elections and the volatile Vietnamese students. "We've got too big an investment out there now to tolerate the fun and games of the earlier days," one official said as he recalled the chaotic situation after president Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown and killed in 1963 and the turmoil in the northern cities of Hue and Da Nang in the spring of 1966.

Tri Quang almost fasted himself to death after the 1966

experience. But he has now emerged to agitate again in a loose alliance with the defeated presidential candidates.

Officials say that in a country as fragile politically as South Vietnam, Tri Quang's machinations can have a crucial impact on the conduct of the war if he manages to put together a coalition with the malcontents and the students.

Just what the crafty Monk's aims are remains a puzzle to officials here. His demand for recognition of his militant group instead of the more moderate Buddhists led by Thich (venerable) Tam Chau a former accomplice turned rival, is regarded here as a first step in an anti-government campaign that will escalate with each concession made.

Tri Quang apparently believes that the political ferment created by the elections enables him to ventilate his long-standing enemy toward Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, the vice-president elect, and chief of state Nguyen Van Thieu, the president-elect.

He would also appear to be seeking a measure of vengeance for rebuff he suffered in 1966 when he sided with Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, the commander of I army corps, who was ousted by Ky and exiled to the United States. This has been in this vicinity ever since.

U. S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker is understood to be fully aware of Tri Quang's cleverness and capacity to stir up unrest among the "outs," many of whom were members of the constituent assembly and ran in the senate elections earlier this month.

Bunker's concern is compounded here because, as one official put it, "all we need is a few riots in Saigon streets to really give the antiwar crowd fresh ammunition."

Across the H-Bomb Border:

Where Red Faces Red

During his recent trip along the Sino-Soviet border, journalist Hugo Portisch uncovered the story of Mao Tse-tung's Moscow trial and his dismissal from the Communist Party. This is the ninth in a series of articles by the editor of Austria's largest newspaper, the Vienna Kurier.

BY HUGO PORTISCH CHAPTER IX

Having learned at first hand of the tense and potentially dangerous Sino-Soviet border situation, I wanted to know if the Soviet Union regards China as a genuine military threat. I asked a high-echelon Soviet authority, whose identity I cannot reveal.

I was told: "Presently Peking is absolutely irrational. We have seen that the Mao group has attempted to blame external events for their internal difficulties. So far—remember the Indonesia debacle—they have not succeeded. But this doesn't mean that if internal troubles become intolerable that they will not be ready for new and bigger foreign policy adventures. Anything can happen and we are ready and prepared. Nothing coming from China, now or in the future, will surprise us."

"The Soviet Union then would be ready for an eventual war with China?" "We don't believe it will happen. This idea is just sheer madness. China must know what our military strength is. We surpass the Chinese potential so manifoldly, it just cannot be put in words."

In higher echelons these problems are regarded with cool, calm judgment, but certainly with concern. "China today is no longer governed by the party, but by the army. Mao Tse-tung and his group are military dictators. What they preach is not Marxism or Leninism, but socialist fascism with a heavy military accent. The frame of personal veneration has been broken too, in China; Mao lets himself be regarded as God."

On the disputes between the Mao group and the other Chinese leaders, the Russians expressed the following opinion: "Under cover of the 'cultural revolution' Mao eliminates all his opponents. But these are not real opponents, only potential opponents. We know this very well from Stalin's time. He, too, seldom destroyed his true enemies, but only those whom he suspected or who might have become his enemies. This is nothing new: too weak to beat the real enemy, Mao eliminates his own people."

To another question I received a rather surprising answer. I asked: "Who are Russia's friends among the Chinese leadership, or who have they been?" "We don't know and we never knew. At times they all were more or less friendly, and even then there were moments when they closed ranks against us. Today we can only guess. Probably some of those who were the most vehemently attacked by Mao are those who disagreed with the anti-Soviet policy of the Mao group. But we are not sure about that, as—before they were attacked—they participated in that anti-Soviet policy. President Liu Shao-chi, for instance, is today the main target of the Mao group. Does that mean that he is our friend? Previously he probably heaped even more insults on the Soviet Union than Mao himself!"

Later I learned that the Soviets supposedly had some true friends in the Chinese army, high officers who had received their training in the Soviet Union. These, however, became the first victims of Mao's anti-Soviet policy.

It is well known that Mao never was a particular friend of Russia. Therefore, I inquired if the Soviet Union had succeeded in improving its bad relations with Mao after 1949. "We don't believe so, not Stalin, not when Khrushchev succeeded, and even after Khrushchev, when we wanted to put the whole matter aside, Mao still continued his attacks against us."

At this point I was told about one part of Mao's record which, as far as I know, is completely missing in his published biography. According to this report Mao was brought from Kiangsi mountain fortress to Moscow in 1929 by a Comintern for having fomented an adventurer's policy of inciting peasant revolts in armed conflict with Chiang Kai-shek, at a moment when the party was quiescent. Mao, at that time, was only a minor cog in party wheels, a party secretary with the Chinese Communist troops in China's Kiangsi (province). He lost his post as secretary and was expelled from the party. Five years later, during the Long March, he joined the party again and only then did his actual political career start.

Mao apparently never forgot this humiliation and blamed the Comintern, the Soviet Union and—last but not least—the strong man of the Central Committee at the time, Liu Shao-chi. Therefore, it is believed that, as long as Mao is in power, he will continue to settle past accounts with the Soviet Union and with the Chinese Communist Party's Central Committee. "This is the basis for our conflict with Peking and for the 'Cultural Revolution.'"

These Russians know what they are saying: "The Chinese have now made their own atomic experiments. They have learned something from them. For instance, that there is no survival in atomic war. Nobody will come through. The earth will be boiling. The Chinese earth, too, must have boiled when they made their experiments. Maybe Mao learned some thing from it, and it's therefore good they made their own experiments. We don't believe in the possibility of a war, but, as we said, we are prepared, prepared for everything!"

I had one more question: "Given the hypothetical case that Chiang Kai-shek's troops might land on the Chinese mainland and fight Mao, what would the Soviet Union do?"

Even here, surprisingly, I got an answer: "Per se such case would not touch our still existing military commitments toward China. The battle between the Nationalist Army and the People's Liberation Army is China's domestic affair, a continuation of their civil war. We are only committed in case of an attack by a foreign power. But should Peking in such appeal for our help, we would have to carefully check the situation. It is hardly thinkable that we would assist a Chinese leadership that has not altered its policy."

These opinions are the result of three separate talks with high echelon Russians, whose identity, as I have said, I am not permitted to divulge. The Sino-Soviet conflict has given rise within the Soviet Union to a most serious debate about leadership within the Communist system. If Mao can arise after a Stalin, could not another Stalin be possible? This is the very crux of the question in the Soviet Union today. There are continuous debates on this subject, of which little permeates to the public.

(In the concluding article Dr. Hugo Portisch discusses Soviet and Red Chinese attitudes toward each other and the possibilities of either making war generally.

Start Clean-Up Job

Chicago Daily News Service

HARLINGTON, Tex., Sept. 30—Wayne Pipes' house has been as full of water as a fishbowl.

Now he and his wife, Amy, stood in the kitchen, a foot deep in silt, dumping mud from cabinet drawers and salvaging what they could. It was hardly worth the effort. The slimy water mark was almost six feet up on the walls. Outside, on their soggy lawn, was dumped the accumulation of 10 years of married life; rooms of furniture, clothing, books, toys, a huge color TV.

"What are you going to do with it, Wayne?" a friend asked.

Pipes laughed. "Have someone haul it off," he said, Amy grinned. "Durn right, gonna start all over again. Never liked the living room suite anyway," she said.

"How can you laugh at a time like this?" the friend asked.

"You should have seen us three days ago," Wayne said. "We're all cried out now."

That's the story in Harlingen. Its all over, the hurricane, the rains, the flood and the weeping. The people are wading back to their homes.

The pipes live in Treasure Hills, one of several subdivisions built around the Rio Grande river floodway. A lam in the floodway broke Sunday night, as policemen drove up and down the streets warning residents to evacuate. Wayne and Amy, thinking they were about to be engulfed in rampaging tide, grabbed some clothes and their daughter, Amy, who is 5, and drove to Amy's mother's home in nearby Wes-lace.

Harlingen's mayor, George Young, was on television, telling everyone in the low areas at the time about leaving their homes, that water in the floodway was rising and would flood, but that it was rising slowly and that there was time to load up some possessions.

Unfortunately hundreds of people like the Pipes didn't get the message and bolted with only the clothes they could carry.

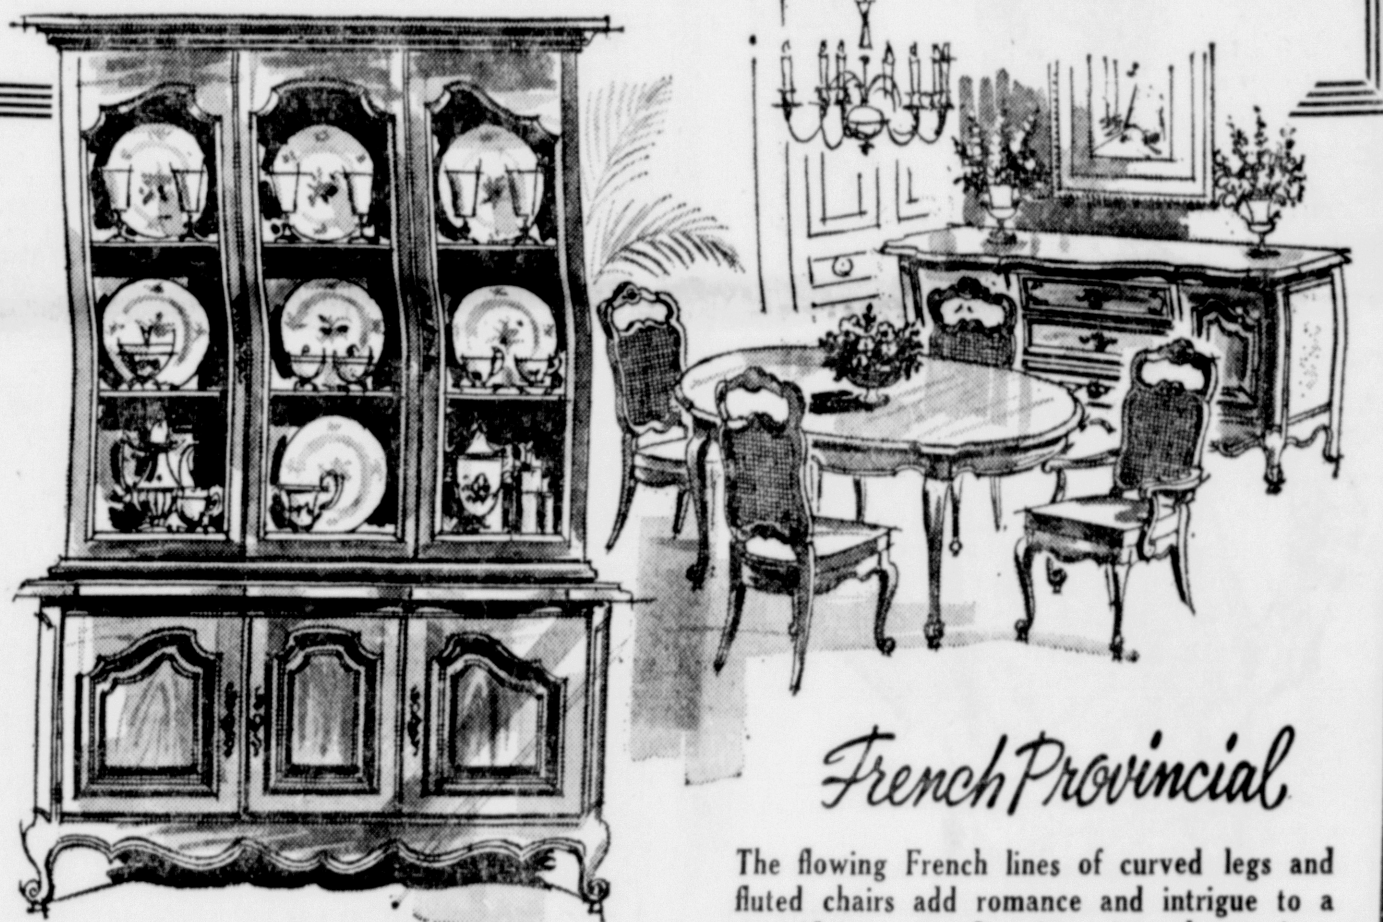

Beverly Anderson, a single girl who lives next door to the Pipes, left carrying pajamas and an overnight kit. The next day, Miss Anderson and some friends waded waist deep to their house and removed clothes and the television set.

"We had to float it out," Bob Wittenbach, one of the friends said. "Beverly cried."

"It was eerie," Beverly said. "This beautiful white furniture came floating by in the yard. I recognized it as Tina Naimath's my neighbor. She had bought it, a bedroom suite, for $1,000 about a year ago. When I saw Tina, she and this 80-year-old man were swimming around, floating things out too."

School Activities

The Guidance Counselors at New Paltz Central High School have announced that the Guidance Office will be open Oct. 9, 10, 11, and 13 between 7 and 9 p. m. The counselors will administer the NYS Regents Literacy Test on these dates and also will be available for conference with parents.

Starting the week of Oct. 14, the guidance office will be open every Tuesday between 7:30 and 9 p. m. If possible, parents should call the Guidance Office for an appointment.

More than 200 people registered for first semester Adult Education classes that are being offered by the New Paltz Central School Adult Education Program. Classes in Beginning Italian, Group Piano Instruction and Wood Shop are not completely filled and interested students may join.

Plans are being formulated to organize an art class in the near future. Interested people may contact Theodore Sirko.

Nazarenes Set Special Meet Saturday Night

A special service will be held Saturday night 7:30 p. m. in the New Paltz Church of the Nazarene with the Rev. William Fowler, missionary to Trinidad and Tobago, who is on furlough.

This is his fourth furlough since being assigned to Trinidad and Tobago in 1948. The Rev. Mr. Fowler will be holding services among Churches of the Nazarene.

He has served as pastor and field treasurer in El Caya, British Honduras, and Belize, British Honduras. He served as a pastor in New Amsterdam, Guyana, and Field Superintendent in Georgetown, Guyana. He is now serving as field superintendent in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad.

The missionary service will feature the work of the Church of the Nazarene in Trinidad. The Rev. Mr. Fowler will show 16 mm movies of the work in Trinidad to go along with the missionary message.

Drugs Essential

LEEDS, England (AP) — Controversy broke today over a doctor who told British university students that drug-taking is "an essential and not necessarily blameworthy activity."

Dr. Ronald Still, medical officer at Leeds University, said, "Besides considering the legality of their actions, students should assure themselves that whatever drugs they use would be a valuable addition to their total well-being, without entailing the risks of crippling addiction."

In London, a spokesman of the British Medical Association told newsmen, "This is a most extraordinary thing for a medical officer to say. It goes against medical advice and could be exceedingly dangerous."

Santoroski Funeral Held At Pennsylvania Church

The funeral of Pfc. Michael P. Santoroski, 20, who lost both legs on Sept. 6 in Vietnam as the result of hostile action, and died Sept. 26 in an Army hospital in the Philippines, was held Tuesday from the Bonin and Son Funeral Home, Hazleton, Pa.

Pfc. Santoroski was the 13th Ulster County serviceman killed in Vietnam, and the eighth this year. A high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul at 9 a. m. by the Rev. Bernard Toloczko at St. Stanislaus Church, Hazleton, Pa. The Rev. Anthony Drogowski gave the blessing at the funeral home and at St. Stanislaus Church Cemetery.

The firing squad and bearers were furnished by the Indian-town Gap Military Reservation with Sgt. Furman Schrufer in charge of arrangements. The flag was presented to the family by SSG William F. Daignault, military escort. John J. Cicero, Lucerne County Division of Veteran Affairs, and Capt. Frank A. Taylor, Lankalis Army Reserve Training Center, attended the services.

Hundreds Call
During the repose in the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith Avenue, Kingston, on Sunday, many relatives and hundreds of friends called to pay their respects. Numerous floral tributes and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were received. Among the religious who called were: the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph J. Sieczek, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. O'Reilly, the Rev. John Russell, and many priests from Albany and Catskill; Sisters of St. Joseph's from St. Patrick's School, Catskill; Felician Sisters; Sisters of St. Ursula.

Veteran organizations that called at the funeral home were: Kingston Veterans Association, comprised of members of VFW, American Legion, Catholic War Veterans, Marine Corps League, World War I Barracks, Company M; Ladies Auxiliaries of American Legion and VFW.

City Court Cases
Five area residents paid a total of $65 upon pleading guilty to a variety of traffic violations this morning in city court before Judge Hubert A. Richter. Fined $10 for speeding were Kenneth Knapp of Birch Street and Laura Davitt of 38 Brewster Street. Douglas Noble of 20 Wrentham Street was fined $20 on a speeding charge. Ethel Brown of Modena paid $10 for going the wrong way on a one-way street and John Brush of Accord was fined $15 for an inadequate muffler.

Jewish People Begin Holy Season With New Year

The holiest season of the year for the Jewish people will begin tonight with the holiday of Rosh Hashonoh which means the beginning of the year.

This Jewish New Year's Day starts a period of 10 days of penitence and atonement, ushered in by special religious services, and the blowing of the ram's horn, which in Hebrew is called the "Shofar."

This year, for the Jews over the world, an additional aura of sanctity will envelop these days, because for the first time in 20 years, Jews in Israel, and those making the pilgrimage to the Holy Land, will be able to pray at the Wailing Wall in Jerusalem.

Ram's Horn Symbol

The blowing of the Shofar on Rosh Hashonoh is an integral and most important part of the religious service. Its aim is first to be a reminder of the piety of the Patriarch Abraham, the first Jew, whose faith in the Almighty was tantamount to his love for his only son, Isaac, whom he was willing to offer as a sacrifice at the command of the One God.

The Biblical version of this narration, which is read at the Bible Reading on the holiday, tells that the Lord was testing Abraham's faith, and when He saw that Abraham was about to fulfill his command, he forbade him to shed his son's blood. It was the custom of the heathen idolaters in those days to sacrifice their children to their idols, but it was an abomination to the Lord. In the place of his son, Abraham found a ram which he offered instead.

The sounding of the ram's horn was used in ancient days to assemble the people, and it is now observed as a reminder of the Holy Convocation. The Bible refers to this day as a "Day of remembrance of the blowing of the horn, a holy Convocation."

Judgement Day

Rosh Hashonoh is also called a Day of Judgement. According to Biblical History, on this day the world was created 5727 years ago.

This year begins the year 5728 on the Jewish Calendar. Rabbinic law teaches that on this day the Creator sits on His seat of Judgement and decrees the destiny of every human being for the coming year.

The entire month before the New Year, Psalm 27 is read each day and night, in which the Jew calls upon his God as "the Lord is my light and my salvation, whom shall I fear." During the holiday many prayers symbolize the spirit of the day, of which two are outstanding: One, while asking for mercy, calls the Lord, "The Lord who meets out judgement," and the other describes His court of justice and a place where the souls of all human beings pass before Him and He counts and inscribes in the Books of Life and Death, each one's respective destiny, as a shepherd who musters his flock. Therefore the Jewish people greet each other at this season with the words, "May you be inscribed for a good year." New Year cards are sent to friends with this wish as a New Year blessing.

Observances

Rosh Hashonoh is observed by the Conservative and Orthodox Jews for two days, and the Reform for one day. The season of Penitence begins with Rosh Hashonoh and ends the night of Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, which this year begins on Friday evening, Oct. 13.

At Congregation Ahavath Israel, at 100 Lucas Avenue, in Kingston, Rosh Hashonoh services will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 6:30 p.m. and Thursday and Friday at 8:30 a.m. Children's services will be held in the social hall at 11 a.m. College students away from home may attend the services. Rabbi Harry Z. Schectman will conduct the services and deliver sermons both days of the holiday on themes of the Holy Season, and the liturgy will be chanted by Hillel Ribner and Cantor Charles Flusberg.

The Sabbath after Rosh Hashonoh is called Shabbos Shuvah, the Sabbath of Repentance. Services will be held Friday evening at 6:30 instead of the usual 8 p.m. service.

Local Schedule

The schedule of High Holy Days at Temple Emanuel will start with Rosh Hashonoh services Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. Services will be held Thursday, 10 a.m., with children's services at 2 p.m.

The services will be conducted by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, assisted by Temple organist,

Dr. John Park and the Temple choir. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kuehn, Mrs. Margaret Roosa, Mrs. Elmore Nathan, Mrs. Leonard Zimet, Mrs. Charles Ronder, Mrs. Rose Zucker, Leroy Davis and Arnold Weintraub.

Rabbi and Mrs. Eichhorn will hold a New Year's reception for the entire congregation Thursday 3 to 5 p.m. in the Temple social hall.

Baby sitting service will be provided during morning and children's services on Rosh Hashonoh and Yom Kippur. Those wishing to have names of loved ones read during Yom Kippur Yizkor services will return memorial cards to Edwin Wetterhahn prior to Yom Kippur services.

Shabbos Shuvah services will be held Friday, 7:30 p.m. Temple Sisterhood will sponsor the Oneg Shabbat after service. Dr. H. Z. Rappaport, rabbi of Congregation Agudas Achim has announced the following schedule of services:

Rosh Hashonoh—6:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday and 8 a.m. Thursday and Friday. Children's services will be at 11:30 a.m. Thursday and Friday.

Sabbath of Repentance—Friday 6:30 p.m.; Saturday 8:30 a.m. with children attending the regular service and 6:30 p.m. Yom Kippur—Friday, Oct. 13, Kol Nidra 6 p.m. Saturday 8 a.m., children 11:30 a.m. and Yizkor memorial service 11:40 a.m.

Rabbi Rappaport will conduct all services assisted by Cantor Herman Slomovits who will chant the Liturgy. Hyman Reher will chant the preliminary morning services and the NCYS will conduct children's services.

Upstate Seabee Loses Life in Viet Mishap

EAST OTTO, N.Y. (AP) — Dale R. Berg, 24, a Navy Seabee from this Cattaraugus County community, died in Vietnam last Friday in a motor vehicle accident during a night airfield operation, his parents say.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Berg said Navy authorities informed them Sunday their son was struck by a vehicle at Phu Bai Airfield in unit operations.

Berg was graduated from Cattaraugus Central High School and Williamsport Technical School, Williamsport, Pa. He had been in Vietnam since June, having entered the Navy August last year.

Cyclist Killed

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Thomas Morris, 10, of near-by Morrisville, was killed Tuesday when his bicycle and an automobile collided as he was emerging from a driveway, State Police said.

RONDOUT GIVES — Rondout Valley School Teachers Association members have exceeded their 1968 Community Chest campaign goal by 20 per cent. Presenting a check to Dr. Theodore Grenda, right, superintendent of schools is association president, Robert Kuster.

Sees Constitution Doubling Tax

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Republican state administration's top financial advisor said today the proposed State Constitution could result in doubling the state income tax in 10 years and add $3.3 billion a year to state spending in the same period.

Gov. Rockefeller reported the estimates based on a study of inherent costs in the revised Constitution made by Dr. T. Norman Hurd, state budget director.

The revised Constitution, approved by the Democratic-controlled Constitutional Convention last month, will go before the voters in the Nov. 7 election.

$1.2 Billion First Year

In his report, Hurd said the additional costs to the state in the first year of the new document's effectiveness could be $1.2 billion. After 10 years, Hurd said, the added expense could be $3.3 billion annually.

State spending this year is about $4.6 billion. If the Constitution is approved, the spending increase in 10 years, Hurd said, could require tax boosts of:

- 80 per cent on all present state taxes, or;
- doubling present personal state income taxes, or;
- increasing the current state sales tax from 2 per cent to 10 per cent, or;
- increasing the sales tax from 2 per cent to 8 per cent and doubling the amount of present business taxes.

The total cost over the 10-year period, Hurd estimated, could be $23 billion.

Mandated Increases

Hurd said the major mandated increases called for in the proposed Constitution were:

- State assumption on a gradual 10-year basis of all local welfare costs.
- Payment of school aid based on registration instead of attendance.
- State takeover — on a 10-year plan — of the entire costs of the court system.
- Increased costs of acquiring property by condemnation.

Mandated increased spending

in the first year would be $343 million and other probable additional expenditures would amount to $897 million, Hurd reported.

In 10 years, the mandated extra costs annually would be $1.7 billion and probable added spending would be $1.6 billion, he said.

Other Estimates

Other estimates by Hurd: The state assumption of local welfare costs would add $82 million in the first year and $1.1 billion in 10 years, Hurd said. He added the estimates make no provision for increased welfare caseloads or program changes.

School aid based on registration rather than the present average daily attendance would result in increased spending of $86 million in the first year and $104 million in 10 years.

A proposal that would require the state to pay for damages to property even if it was not actually taken during a public works project would add $160 million to state spending in the first year, he estimated. In one decade, the cost would increase by a total of $300 million.

The assumption of all costs of the court system would add $14 million to the state outgo in the first year and $165 million when it was completed in 10 years.

Other Possibilities

In addition, if repeal of the Blaine Amendment barring aid to parochial schools is approved, additional costs could reach $351 million in the first year; $509 million in 10 years.

Tuition-free college educations for state residents would add $485 million in one year and result in $856 million added spending in 10 years.

Community development programs that would allow the state to grant its credit to private business for various projects would add $61 million in the first year and $186 million in the 10th year.

Hurd said no attempt was made to estimate the indirect costs of administering all of the new and expanded programs that would be authorized or mandated by the proposed Constitution. He said such costs could be significant but "no adequate basis exists for estimating them."

Begin U.N. Debate On Rhodesian Status

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Britain begins U.N. debate today on what to do about the white minority government of Rhodesia, which has survived 10 months of economic sanctions with few visible scars.

Discussions start in the General

Assembly's Trusteeship Committee, where black African representatives are talking about using force against Prime Minister Ian Smith's government.

The Rhodesian rebellion was also expected to get an airing in the assembly itself from R.C. Kamanga, foreign minister of Zambia, Rhodesia's neighbor and one of the worst hit by the sanctions' backlash.

Most U.N. diplomats have written off the boycotts against Rhodesia as a failure that holds no hope of toppling Smith.

The sanctions were imposed with United Nations approval after Smith declared the colony of Rhodesia independent from Britain Nov. 11, 1965, to escape British pressure for guarantees of eventual rule for Rhodesia's black majority. The sanctions include a selective boycott of 12 major Rhodesian exports and a selective embargo against oil and military supplies to Rhodesia.

Britain had clung to the hope that economic pressure, particularly the cutoff of oil imports, would eventually force Smith out of office. But few Commonwealth partners shared this view.

"The sanctions are having no effect whatsoever on the Rhodesian situation," Zambian Ambassador Joseph Ben Mwemba said recently. "Zambia is the one that has no oil."

Faced with mounting demands for a reappraisal of the sanctions policy, the U.N. Security Council is expected to meet soon to consider possible enforcement measures.

It can either take action against the governments refusing to comply with the sanctions resolution or call for military force to throw out Smith's government. But both courses are unlikely to win approval.

Talks to Start On Engineers Strike Today

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mediators, contractors and union officials headed for a conference table here today in an effort to resolve a strike of operating engineers that has limited work on millions of dollars worth of highway and other construction projects in upstate New York.

The state Mediation Board announced Tuesday the meeting today with representatives of the International Union of Operating Engineers and the Associated General Contractors of America.

The 8,000 union members halted work Monday after their three-year contract expired at midnight Saturday. The members operate heavy equipment. Road and other construction was affected in 46 counties outside New York City. A spokesman for the State Transportation Department said 94 highway projects, valued at $260 million, were involved.

A spokesman for the contractors said the old contract provided for wage and fringe benefits of $4.25 an hour to $5.63 an hour.

Citizens, Firemen Present Appeals to Village Board

A roily condition of water brought a group of residents to the Saugerties Village Board meeting Monday night to lodge formal complaint.

The group resides in the area of Second, Livingston, Finger and Market Streets.

Mayor Cornelius Cox advised that he would meet with the Water Board in an attempt to solve the problem.

Another group, with George Warringer, second assistant fire chief, Washington Hook and Ladder Company as spokesman, submitted written reports to the board explaining why they felt present fire fighting apparatus was inadequate. The group gave reasons as to need for a 75-foot aerial ladder and truck.

Mayor Cox said he would appoint a committee of village board members and the fire commissioner which is to investigate and report back to the fire truck committee.

In other business the board agreed to the removal of two parking meters on Partition Street in order that Santo Francello, new owner of the Rovengo building may extend a driveway.

Permission was granted the CYO for use of the Roger Don auditorium Saturday mornings.

Approval was given the membership of Allen Drescher in the C. A. Lynch Hose Company and announcement was made concerning fire inspection of commercial buildings and public places Oct. 16 to Oct. 31.

Talk on Drugs

Women's Guild for Christian Service of Saugerties Reformed Church will hold its meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the parish room.

An opening meeting, members and their friends are invited.

Thomas Mayone of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, will speak on drugs and narcotics.

45th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Dengler of Saugerties-Woodstock Road were honored at a surprise party Saturday night at VFW Hall, Saugerties on the occasion of their 45th wedding anniversary. Sixty-five guests attended.

Amphitheater Is Subject of Talk at Lions

The dinner meeting of Saugerties Lions Club held at the Flamingo Monday featured an address by Kermit Goell on the proposed Rip Van Winkle Musical Fantasy, which is to be held at the Washington Irving Amphitheater in Catskill. Goell stated that we, in this area, have an ideal opportunity to create an educational amusement area in the Hudson Valley, second to none.

He pointed out to the successes other communities had had in taking such products as their native legends, and producing them as a stage show annually to attract tourists and visitors to the area. He pointed out that many areas with no natural folk lore have imported ideas and met with success, but that we have no such problem here because Rip Van Winkle is a local legend and of world-wide acclaim. It was pointed out that the land for the Amphitheater has been purchased and that construction will shortly begin in order that the project will be in operation for next summer. The musical program is a family musical fantasy with a cast of 75 and is to be presented by the Catskill Mountain Resort and Recreation Development Corporation.

If the public is interested in this project, more information may be obtained, according to Goell, by writing The Rip Van Winkle Company, Washington Irving Amphitheater, Catskill, N. Y.

It was announced by Lion President Kenneth Harder that at next week's meeting, the speaker will be Paul Brazier of the Saugerties High School who will speak on the subject, Living and Education in a Correctional Institution.

GOP Lists Its Achievements

The platform committee of the Saugerties Republican party today released its program for the 1967 campaign.

GOP Chairman, Louis P. Francello, reviewed a few of the major accomplishments of the Republican administration.

Water District

In 1950 the Town Board established the Glasco Water District. This was the key to the development of the Barclay Heights area. Among other things, fire insurance rates were decreased and the available residential area made Saugerties the largest and fastest growing town in Ulster County.

The tremendous growth of the town required additional facilities to transact town business. The Republican town government expanded the Town Office Building. The new facilities include offices for collection of taxes, and an office for the assessor and his staff. Also added was a modern justice court and judges chambers and conference room for attorneys and litigants.

In 1965, the present administration was the first town government in the county to realize that the growth and population required a special census. This enabled the town to increase its share of per capita state aid by having the new and greater population figure used by the state.

Realizing the lack of recreation facilities in the Barclay Heights area, the Republican administration cooperated with the Saugerties Jaycees for the creation of the Barclay Heights Park District. This project is now completed and ready to be turned over by the Saugerties Jaycees to the town.

Recently, the town government spearheaded by Supervisor Peter Williams, the first chairman of the Ulster County Planning Board, established one in Saugerties. This board is organized and is now already functioning.

Platform

The platform committee presents six major planks for the further growth and development of the town. Some of these programs have already been initiated and when completed will improve the comfort and well-being of the residents of the town.

Candidate

WILLIAM D. BRINNIER

William D. Brinnier, Republican candidate for county legislator, was born in the Village of Saugerties, attended Saugerties High School and graduated from Union College and Albany Law School. He enlisted in the Navy during World War II and is a member of the American Legion.

He was admitted to the practice of law in 1954 and also admitted to the U.S. Federal Court for the Southern District and the United States Supreme Court. He was appointed Justice of the Peace to fill a vacancy and has been re-elected twice to that position.

Brinnier has been active in Bar Association affairs having been president of the Ulster County Bar. He has also served as chairman of the Young Lawyers Section of the New York State Bar Association. He is also a past President of the Saugerties Lions Club and at present is chairman of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission.

He is married to the former Sally Russell, and has two children, Russell and William. The Brinniers are residents of the village.

Extremely active in civic affairs, he has also served as chairman of the highly successful Lions Club Glaucoma Clinic and has recently been appointed as the Lions Club representative in a project "Dollars for Scholars," which is being initiated by the Saugerties Jaycees.

A life-time Republican, he has served as committeeman in District 1 for over a decade and is now a committeeman for the newly designated district 14 in the village. With regard to his designation by the Republican party, he has stated "I am deeply honored to be one of the four Republican candidates for Ulster County Legislature representing District 1, Saugerties. My life-long association with the people of Saugerties and my interest in my community will, I hope, enable me to represent Saugerties on the county legislative level, and to assist and participate in the newly organized county legislature, which replaces the board of supervisors, and to remain there as long as the Republican party and the voters of Saugerties desire."

Gets Disaster Label

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal agency has designated Cataugus County, N.Y., as a disaster area as a result of last week's floods in the western part of New York State.

The Small Business Administration made the declaration of disaster Tuesday.

The designation permits owners of businesses, charitable institutions and homes to apply to the agency for repair loans.

Applications will be received at the Small Business Administration's office at 121 Ellicott St., Buffalo.

Fatal Rope Trick

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Timothy Sweat, 11, of Rochester, was injured fatally when a rope stunt resulted in an accidental hanging Tuesday, police said.

The boy told companions he would "show them a few tricks" as he played with a rope on a tree behind his home, police said. He put his head in the rope's loop, and swinging back and forth, he became caught in the loop, they added.

Sweat's friends called for assistance, but he was dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital. The sweat address is 751 Main St. W.

Guild Announces Annual Craft Exhibit Winners

At the opening recently of the eighth annual crafts exhibition in the Woodstock Guild Gallery, the winners of the $25 Awards donated by the Crafts Foundation of Woodstock were announced. Judges were Jane Jones, Arthur Zaidenberg and James Turnbull.

Jean Marie Moore received a Konrad Cramer Award for her well constructed branch vase in stoneware, its surface interestingly pitted and covered with a thin brown glaze. Two other pieces by Miss Moore are equally original and impressive.

Wilna Hervey was awarded a Konrad Cramer Award for her enamel flower piece in soft, lovely colors against a muted background. Her extraordinary skill with the merium is well demonstrated in this picture, and in two others in which lush flowers bloom in rich enamel reds, or glow whitely against intense depths of blue.

Stephen Robin was awarded a Richard Chambers Award for a most unusual clock, a free-standing abstract form of laminated and carved wood, terminating in a clock face at about eye level. Built in behind it is an antique clock works with a pendulum and gong for striking the hour. On view also is his free-standing mirror in zebra wood, an arresting piece of sculpture.

stripe of gold, a splendid example of her excellent craftsmanship. She recently wove a banquet cloth for the American Embassy in London.

William Seitz was awarded a Richard Chambers Award for a set of silver objects; three silver goblets of varied design (one a ceremonial vessel lined with gold) and a silver punch bowl and ladle are also on exhibit.

White ribbons for honorable mention were awarded to five artists: Carolyn Haeberlin for a set of eight silver spoons, two graceful little ladies, and six salt or demi-tasse spoons. Nan Mason for an abstract enamel picture, sparkling with strong, brilliant color and marked by her sure sense of design and form.

To John Pike for his hand-crafted "stutz Pussycat" sports car, based on the styling of the famous Stutz Bearcat of the 1915 era, but with innumerable details that are sure "Pike."

To Jarl Hesselbarth for a delightful Saint Francis in terra cotta. Perched on his hands are little blue birds of the species "Hesselbarth", so well known to ceramic-bird watchers. To Bea Binger for an intriguing flat bowl of heavily grooved stoneware incised with circular lines, between which appear hieroglyphic figures and signs.

The show will be open seven days a week from 1:30 to 5 p. m. through Oct. 29.

Girl Scout Troops Listed

Mrs. LeRoy Stoothoff, neighborhood chairman for the Woodstock-West Hurley Girl Scouts has announced the formation of the following troops for the current year.

In Woodstock, Brownies are meeting in two troops: Troop 82, with Mrs. Calvin Bruckner and Mrs. Sydney Smith; and Troop 184, with Mrs. Ted Beahm and Mrs. Edwin Balmer. Junior troops include Troop 96, Mrs. Eugene Marynowski, and Troop 174, Mrs. Ronald Keppel.

In West Hurley, Brownies meet with Troop 89, Mrs. John Blatter; Troop 182, Mrs. Charles Ring; and Troop 183, Mrs. Peter Sammons. Juniors belong to Troop 176, Mrs. John Frangello; Troop 84, Mrs. Gunther Zoehfeld; Troop 141, Mrs. Paul Fusaro; and Troop 79, Mrs. Ernest Myers. Cadette Girl Scouts of Junior High age meet with Mrs. Gilbert Glass and Mrs. Richard Marquis in Troop 173.

New girls interested in scouting should contact troop organizers, Mrs. Noel France in Woodstock, and Mrs. Robert Ross in West Hurley. There is still a need for uniforms, and any that have been outgrown will be most welcome, as well as hats and ties. The uniform exchange is maintained by Mrs. Eduard Blatter of West Hurley.

A nature hike for Brownies was conducted by Mrs. David Fox Saturday in the vicinity of Morgan Hill Road. The girls were able to collect nature specimens and concluded their hike with a picnic lunch at Mrs. Fox's home.

The next meeting of the neighborhood, to include all leaders and assistant leaders will be held on Oct. 10 at 7:30 p. m. A workshop on service projects and Christmas gifts will be a feature of the meeting.

Postpone Meeting

Tuesday Club of Woodstock will postpone its regular meeting until Oct. 17 at the Lutheran Church Hall. In addition to the business meeting, a Halloween mask party will be held. Hostesses include: Mrs. Inez Hall, Mrs. Amy Balty, Mrs. Marguerite VanDe Bogart and Mrs. Minnie Shultis.

Society Names New Directors

The Woodstock Association for the Conservation and Improvement of the Township, Inc., at its annual meeting held recently, elected three new directors for terms of three years each: Gordon Anderson, Ned W. Buoymaster, and Phyllis Wittner.

Other directors of the association are: chairman, Paul Domville; Houston E. Landis, Jr., Alvin E. Moscovitz, Robert Sleight, J. Constant van Rijn, Leonard E. Waters, Benjamin L. Webster. Elbert Varney was re-elected treasurer.

Anyone interested in becoming a member can do so by contacting any of the directors.

Cub Scouts to Hike Overlook

Pack 34 Cub Scouts are invited to join a hike up Overlook Mountain on Saturday, Oct. 7. They will meet at the Woodstock Recreation Field at 10 a. m. Each scout should bring a snack.

Pack 34 had its first meeting of the new season recently at which awards were presented. A movie was shown and refreshments served.

Any parents in the Woodstock area, who have boys aged 8 through 11 interested in joining cub scouts, contact George Turner.

Square Dance

A fall square dance will be held by the Methodist Youth Fellowship of Shady Friday, Oct. 6 from 8 to midnight at the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club.

Music will be provided by Fred Russell and his band. Refreshments will be served.

A game, shave the balloon will be played and awards will be made. The public is welcome, according to publicity chairman, Brenda Howland. WOODSTOCK—(8)

Sermon-Lesson

"Are sin, disease and death real" is the subject for next Sunday's Christian Science lesson-sermon to be read at the 11 a. m. service at the church on Tinker Street.

Bullets, Rocks Harass Pennsy Turnpike Trucks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Rocks and bullets harassed trucks moving along the Pennsylvania Turnpike during the night, despite Gov. Raymond P. Shafer's placement of the National Guard on standby and beefed up police patrols.

And in Ohio, Butler County sheriff's deputies said four

Wappinger Gets $49,280 Waters Grant

Governor Rockefeller announced today that the state, under its Pure Waters program, will provide a grant of $49,280 for construction of an $88,000 sewer project for the town of Wappinger in Dutchess County.

The $49,280 includes a basic 30 per cent state grant of $26,400 and prefinancing in the amount of $22,880, or 26 per cent of the Federal share. Because of the inadequacy of Federal appropriations for water pollution control, the immediate Federal contribution will be only $3,520 or 4 per cent of the total. Federal grant application has been forwarded to the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration.

"This project," Governor Rockefeller noted, "is another step in our effort to rid the Hudson River of pollution. At present sewage from this area discharges into Sprout Creek, which is a tributary of the Hudson."

Local Youth Trains for Marine Post

Joseph Fernandez, son of Mrs. Sadie Fernandez, Route 1, Box 345, Kingston, now is aboard the S. S. Australian Galaxy as an apprentice engineer under a program of the Calhoun MEBA Training School to teach young men to become licensed engineers in the United States Merchant Marine.

Located in Baltimore, Md., the school began its second year of operation on Oct. 1, 1967. Because of the extreme shortage of licensed engineers aboard American-flag merchant vessels, it was established a year ago by the National Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association (AFM-CIO) and is financed by the shipowners in an arrangement with the engineers' union.

Fernandez is a graduate of Kingston High School. He was enrolled in the Calhoun MEBA Training school Nov. 17, 1966.

New classes are formed every two or three weeks. Each class consists of only 20 to 25 youths. The school is programmed to have about 500 students in the classroom and at sea at the same time.

Operation Shop Early Theme of Red Cross

The Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross is joining with other chapters around the country in "Operation Shop Early," a project designed to make the holidays brighter for U.S. servicemen stationed in Vietnam.

This year's national goal is to make and fill 525,000 "ditty" bags, the useful carryalls sent to servicemen and filled with a variety of small gifts. The Ulster County quota is 500. Even the ditty bag, an item Red Cross has used successfully since World War I, is now undergoing modernization. This year's bag will be made of red or green cotton material strong enough to stand up to the tropical climate of Vietnam and remain usable as a container for the owner's personal belongings after the original contents have been used.

Thousands of letters of thanks received in response to last year's "Shop Early" program prove the effectiveness of the project in cheering G.I.'s. One such letter from a field hospital patient read in part: "The change in the mood of our ward was immediate. Thank you for bringing a little bit of home into our holiday."

Unarmed Servicemen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Some young men near here are preparing to leave for Vietnam service. But, guns and flame-throwers won't occupy any space in their kit-bags.

The "servicemen" are volunteers with VISA (Voluntary International Service Assignments), founded in 1961 by the American Friends Service Committee and run for young men and women of all religions. VISA is similar to the Peace Corps and served as a model for the U.S. program of voluntary service abroad.

This year there will be about 60 VISA representatives serving two-year stints in six different regions—South Vietnam, India, West Germany, Tanzania, Guatemala, and Appalachia (in the southern U.S.). The Americans live like natives, pitch in with community projects, organize classes, assist in clinics, dig wells and latrines, and try to build communications and cooperation.

Asian Beriberi

Beriberi, a disease caused largely by a deficiency of vitamin B-1, has its highest incidence in Asia, where rice has been highly polished during the milling process ever since the 19th century, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

dinal Spellman of New York, in his capacity of Chaplain to the Armed Forces in Vietnam, received his ditty bag there last Christmas, was delighted with it, felt it was one of the best presents he had ever received, and promptly wrote a thank you note to the contributing chapter.

Each ditty bag contains a card identifying the chapter and cooperating agencies that readied it. Gift items include ball point pens, writing paper, pocket games, paperback books, and vacuum packed hard candies, together with toilet articles such as toothpaste, shaving cream, razors, combs, and soaps. One club, the New York Telephone Pioneers of Kingston, has completed reading 100 of these bags.

You can take part in "Operation Shop Early" by contacting the Ulster County Red Cross chapter and volunteering to help in supplying gifts or in packing them for shipment by Oct. 15, the Red Cross adds.

Silver Star Recipient Returns to Duty in U.S.

JOHN WIEGERT JR.

Vietnam Silver Star recipient Sgt. John F. Wiegert Jr., whose parents reside at 132 Second Avenue, this city, has returned to stateside duty. Sgt. Wiegert is now serving at Fort Knox, Ky., as an infantry squad leader in the 54th Infantry (Mechanized) and expects to be discharged in February, 1968.

In addition to receiving the Silver Star for "distinguishing himself by exceptionally valorous action," Sgt. Wiegert holds the Combat Infantryman's Badge, the Army Air Medal, the Vietnamese Service Medal, the Vietnamese Campaign Medal and a Presidential Unit Citation Medal.

A graduate of Kingston High School, he served a year of duty in Vietnam before returning to this country in July of this year.

Award to Delaney

Captain William J. Delaney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Delaney of 204 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, has been recognized for helping his unit win the coveted U. S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Captain Delaney, a navigator at Forbes AFB, Kan., will wear the distinctive blue service ribbon as a member of the 1370th Photo Mapping Wing. The wing was cited for accomplishing an extensive aerial photo mapping survey and related geodetic missions well ahead of schedule and at cost savings.

A major subordinate unit of the Military Airlift Command, the 1370th provides mapping and survey missions in response to Air Force and other Defense Department needs. Its personnel are stationed at numerous locations in the United States and are often deployed throughout the world.

The captain was commissioned in 1962 upon completion of Officer Training School, Lackland AFB, Tex. A graduate of Kingston High School, he received his BS degree in biology in 1961 from Siena College, Loudonville.

In the SERVICE

Ross Promoted, Serves in Viet

Second Lt. Robert J. Ross Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Ross of 159 Bruyn Avenue, was recently promoted to the rank of first lieutenant while serving in Vietnam.

Lt. Ross received his Army commission in June, 1966, upon graduation from Siena College, Loudonville. Prior to his departure for Vietnam he received extensive training at Artillery School, Fort Sill, Okla. He has been in Vietnam since July, 1967 and is currently attached to the 1st Battalion, 18th Infantry, 11th Infantry Division.

Lt. Ross' wife, Janet, now resides in Connelly with his grandparents.

Wallace Lukaszewski, 177 Hoyt Street, Port Ewen, has just completed his basic training with the U. S. Air Force at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas. He is presently home on a 14-day leave before he will enroll in the Air Police School at Homestead AFB in Fla.

Mikesh Graduates

Seaman Recruit James F. Mikesh, USN, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mikesh of 100 Wurts Street, Kingston, has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

Marine Graduates

Marine Corporal Vincent J. Immediato, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmine Immediato of Route 2, Kingston, was graduated from basic Photographic's Mate School in Pensacola, Fla.

The school, which is the first step for all naval photographers, consists of 18 weeks of instruction in still, aerial and motion picture photography.

Zaccheo at Sea

Radarman Seaman John D. Zaccheo, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Zaccheo of 256 Albany Avenue, Kingston, is in the Mediterranean aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Rehmer in Action

Army Private First Class Bruce W. Rehmer, son of Mrs. Irene Bagley, 109 Yarmouth Street, Kingston, is participating in Operation Pershing in Vietnam, with other members of the 1st Air Cavalry Division. He and other members of the division have evacuated more than 19,000 refugees from coastal areas to numerous refugee centers in secured areas as well as inflicting heavy damage on the Viet Cong.

During the search and clear operation, he has been engaged in dragging the VC from their vast network of tunnels and bunkers. They had been driven underground by constant U.S. artillery and air strikes.

Pvt. Rehmer is a medic in Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion, of the division's 8th Cavalry.

His father, William B. Rehmer, lives on Route 144, Selkirk.

Polizzi Promoted

Dominick Polizzi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Polizzi, Plattkill Road, Marlboro, was promoted to staff sergeant Sept. 10 in Vietnam, where he is assigned to the 19th Engineer Battalion.

Sgt. Polizzi, a medical section sergeant in the battalions Headquarters Company, entered the Army in August 1963 and was last stationed in Germany.

ABC Suing Union Head For $2 Million Damages

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co. has filed a $2 million damage suit against Mel Brandt, president of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA), which has ordered its members not to cross picket lines of striking ABC technicians.

The suit, filed Tuesday in the New York State Supreme Court, also sought an injunction restraining AFTRA from persuading ABC employees "to violate any employment contract" under threat of facing disciplinary action by the union.

About 1,500 technicians—members of the AFL-CIO National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians—have been on strike against the ABC television and radio networks since Sept. 22 in a contract dispute.

In Los Angeles, one of five cities where NABET is on strike and picketing, Superior Court Judge Ralph Nutter on Tuesday granted ABC a temporary restraining order prohibiting AFTRA from refusing to allow its members to cross the picket lines.

Papers in the suit said ABC has a written agreement in Los Angeles with AFTRA that its members will not strike, picket or boycott the company. Nutter scheduled a hearing for next Tuesday. At that time, AFTRA is to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

In the suit filed in New York, ABC said AFTRA's acts applied to members with individual contracts with the company and "constitute intentional and malicious interference."

No date for a hearing on the suit was set.

Members of AFTRA include performers, announcers, newscasters and disc jockeys. Despite the order from AFTRA, an increasing number of its members have been returning to work at ABC here. A number of them have said that individual contracts required them to work.

Negotiations between ABC and NABET, with the help of federal mediators, were recessed Tuesday with no report of progress and no new talks scheduled. The technicians struck after rejecting an ABC offer of an increase in average weekly pay from $218 to $252. The union demanded $275.

His Work Stops

In Japan, it is customary for the laboratory of a Japanese research professor to be closed and research, no matter what stage it had reached, to be discontinued when he reaches the retirement age of 63.

International Yellow Pages Have World of Information

BY JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If you let your fingers do the walking through the pages of the International Yellow Pages, you'll travel through 150 countries listed on more than 1,000 pages of a five-pound tome.

The IYP is much the same in appearance as the yellow pages distributed by your telephone company and advertised with a jingle that recommends that you dial for your purchase rather than walk from store to store.

The major differences are that IYP covers the world, is sold at $20 a copy, and tells you such esoteric fare as how to reach a veterinarian in Tasmania, how to buy a bicycle in Moscow, where to reach a broker in Rome.

As a vehicle of American capitalism it has received a mixed response. Some Communist nations such as Poland, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Romania run display advertisements in the directory. The Soviet Union, which has advertised in the directory before, is negotiating to their countries, act as publisher's representatives. They sell space in the directory and then edit the section for their country.

After that they sell the directory, taking to the road to convince customers that someday they might need to know in a hurry the number for the Chase-Me Inn Hotel in Botswana.

R. H. Donnelly Co., which purchased the directory from its originator, Robert Nelson of Rochester, N.Y., hopes to make the IYP a profitable venture as world trade develops.

The largest circulation so far in its three-year history was 45,258, but distribution of the 1968 edition is expected to exceed 50,000 and the 1970 edition 100,000. A goal of 500,000 is believed within reach.

To obtain a full-page ad such as was taken in the current edition by Romanian foreign trade companies, costs $1,200. A one line listing in bold type costs $30.

A good many of the line listings still are entered without charge, however, because they are not, as a Donnelly spokesman says, "ad potential." These include embassies and other numbers needed to give the book an appearance of completeness.

These nonpaying numbers are culled from hundreds of local telephone directories, from the U.S. Department of Commerce, from various guides and free run display advertisements in the directory. The Soviet Union, which has advertised in the di-

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced in active trading early Wednesday.

Advances among individual issues exceeded declines by 250 issues.

The New York Stock Exchange ticker tape fell two minutes behind in reporting floor transactions within a few minutes after the opening.

Brokers said they expected the market to react favorably to action of the House Ways and Means Committee in ferring consideration of the income tax surcharge bill and the increase in new car sales in the last third of September.

Opening blocks included Pan American World Airways up 1/4 at 26 on 6,200 shares; American Telephone, off 1/4 at 52 1/2 on 6,000 shares; Great Western Financial, off 1/4 at 16 1/2 on 27,000 shares; and International Paper, up 1/4 at 27 1/2 on 8,400 shares.

Chichester

CHICHESTER — Miss Helen Bennett and brother Earl spent Friday afternoon in Tarrytown.

Mrs. Bessie Quick of Phoenix and Mrs. Herman Quick and daughter Melanie visited Mrs. H. Lee Breithaupt at the Lake Hill Rest Home Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Bessie Quick baked a birthday cake for Mrs. Breithaupt who was 76 years old Monday, Sept. 25.

Rudolph Neu sold his home here to Mr. and Mrs. John A. Cooper Jr. of 517 East 87th Street, New York City. Neu is visiting in Connecticut.

Mrs. Raymond Conklin entertained the following at her home Wednesday evening: Mrs. Doris Hornbeck of Saugerties, Mrs. Charles Thomson, Mrs. Francis Teney, Mrs. Carl Harrington, Mrs. Roy Erickson, Mrs. Anthony Kirk, Mrs. Richard Carr, Mrs. Harvey Ostrander, Mrs. Douglas Osborne and Mrs. Mabel Conklin.

The Chichester Wesleyan Methodist Church will hold Rally Day services on Sunday 10 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Van Eiten and children Blanche and Clark of Bushnellville visited Mr. and Mrs. Herman Quick and family Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kirk gave a birthday party for their grandson Richard Carr II's first birthday. Those present besides his maternal grandparents and his mother were, his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Carr of Shandaken, his great grandmother, Mrs. Addie Carr and Mrs. Alfred Peck and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carr and family of Shandaken, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Erickson and Holly and David Fallon.

Successful Investing....

by ROGER E. SPEAR Investment Advisor & Analyst
Conservative Mortgage
Should Be Retained

Q: "We are a couple, aged 53 and 51. We have about $30,000 a year combined earnings. We have a new house worth $60,000 on which our mortgage is now $13,000. Our cash savings amount to $50,000 and we are paying $150 a month into the Wellington Fund where our holdings now total 650 shares. We are wondering if we should pay off the mortgage and invest part of our savings to build an estate for retirement in 10-15 years."

A: You seem very well situated financially but your program for retirement is lacking in growth potential which is very necessary to offset continued inflation. I see no reason for you to pay off your mortgage. It is easily sustainable and will probably be settled ultimately with cheaper dollars. Wellington is a good, conservative fund, but it is a balanced fund, its future rise in asset value per share seems likely to be insufficient for your particular purposes. I would retain present holdings but discontinue monthly payments. I believe you should undertake a program of stock investment, putting at least half of savings into growth issues which can enhance your capital over the next ten years. I suggest as initial purchases Bristol-Myers, Delco, Becton, Dickinson, Litton Industries, Marshall Field.

Q: "We own Treasury 2 1/2% war.

due Sept. 1972, callable in 1967. We hoped these would be redeemable but this seems unlikely. Should we hold or take our loss? We are plain working people." M.R.

A: Because of money conditions, Treasuries are selling at their lowest level in many years. You have a completely secure investment which affords a satisfactory yield at current prices. Abnormal credit conditions have affected all bond levels but they're not going to last forever. I advise you to hold your Treasuries until they are paid off in full or move higher. In either of these eventualities, I believe you should switch to savings bonds, which are completely stable.

A Touch of the Orient Visits Our Hudson Shores

By LYNN MULVANEY

A Chinese junk on Rondout Creek? Members of Kingston Flotilla 10-12 could hardly believe their binoculars.

But it happened, just this past weekend when the three-masted Ding Hao, enroute from China to Monte Carlo (the long way around) put in for repairs.

Luxurious Living
Although "Made in Hong Kong" and referred to as "junk," the 60-foot craft is actually a floating teakwood showcase of luxurious living.

Traditional Chinese, with blood-red sails, the 1967-built beauty has intricately carved bulkheads and two-inch teak planking. "Properly cared for, it should last a century," claims its owner, Cornel Lumiere, French-Canadian writer and world traveler.

Step aboard the Ding Hao, (meaning the best of everything) and you step back 2,000 years in time and 7,000 miles in distance.

Step below deck and you enter a floating world of Oriental opulence. Thick wall-to-wall carpeting, king-size stateroom beds, all softly illuminated by Chinese lanterns. The entire interior is a tactile paradise of rich lacquers and fabrics, colorful custom designed Tai Ping carpets and antique panelling. Skillfully worked into the traditional motif are such practical modern-day appointments as a stereo, washing machine, deep freeze and two 75 h.p. engines.

$80,000 Item
Built by the Hip Hing Cheung shipyard in Hong Kong at about $80,000, the Ding Hao has a top speed of nine and one-half knots (fast for a junk) and was brought to this country aboard the liner President McKinley and uncrated in New York.

Lumiere, with his wife and a crew of two are heading south before a planned trip to the Mediterranean and Monte Carlo, which is to be their home port in the future.

The commissioning of the junk was conceived by Lumiere several years ago. He and his wife, Jewel, a beautiful and talented photographer-painter, detailed the design for the craft's construction. Together, they work aboard the ship as well as at their equally elegant establishment on the Island of Jamaica.

Lumiere writes—books, television plays and documentaries, magazine articles, movie scenarios.

Jewell assists with television filming and together they have produced programs in Australia.

Lumiere, who speaks English, Maylay, Japanese, French, Spanish, Dutch, Italian and German, worked for several years as a technical director (dialects) in Hollywood, Calif.

Lumiere, who admits to very little sailing experience other than "dugout canoes and catamarans," spent four months in Hong Kong Harbor before venturing on the high seas.

Many Distractions
Why did he choose a junk rather than a yacht? "Because it is the only boat in the world which has double the space for half the cost," he contends.

To date Lumiere has taken the Ding Hao through 70 locks on U. S. inland water routes and has yet to batter a wicker bumper.

In sailing conducive to producing manuscripts? No, not necessarily, Lumiere says. In fact he claims there are too many distractions, for on a boat, like in a woman's home, there is always something to be done. Anyway, he likes doing it.

Bechtold, Smith: Plan to Attract Developers, Private Homes

Declaring that "The City must take the initiative in developing unimproved properties within its borders," the Republican-Liberal Mayoral candidate C. John Bechtold revealed today that he and his running mate, Louis J. Smith, Republican-Conservative candidate for Alderman at Large, have "nearly completed a plan that will make Kingston more attractive to developers and individual builders of private homes."

"The City," said Bechtold, "has always waited until after private homes have been built, to construct sewers, water lines, streets, and sidewalks. Because of this, many large areas of Kingston which could easily accommodate hundreds of private homes, have remained undeveloped."

Agreeing with his running mate, Smith said, "We are facing a crisis. Until something is done, these areas will remain untapped, and present property owners will be forced to assume an increasing and, eventually, insupportable tax burden. The City loses great sums each year in potential tax revenues."

"We propose to solve this situation," said Bechtold, "by having the city take the initiative in developing these areas. The tax revenues they represent are needed too much for us to ignore them. We must attract more people to Kingston to share the tax load." A school spokesman explained that this year's class is larger than previous ones and consequently dormitory space is at a premium.

Liner Leaves Mothballs for Floating Dorm

NEW YORK (AP) — The older liner Exochorda leaves the mothball fleet at Jones Point, N.Y., today to embark on a new role as a floating dormitory for 200 college freshmen. The 23-year-old passenger-cargo liner formerly of the American Export Lines, will be towed down the Hudson River to Hoboken, N.J., where it will be used by the Stevens Institute of Technology.

each individual owner of undeveloped property within the City, and obtain his permission, and possibly his assistance, to perform a complete survey and inspection of the property," Bechtold said.

"This will allow us to determine exactly what is needed on each tract to make it attractive to individuals and developers. Some properties may need only the extension of an existing long way in helping to provide development for these properties, properties by establishing a non-profit municipal corporation for that purpose. Whatever method we eventually recommend, is a bond issue. Other methods to the people, it will provide a successful inroad for at least partial reimbursement by the developer."

6 REASONS FOR SAVING AT KINGSTON SAVINGS BANK

- 1. Top Interest-Dividend Rate. At Kingston Savings Bank, your savings have "Grow-Power," earning the highest interest-dividend rate permitted in New York State on regular passbook savings . . . a full 5% per year, compounded and credited four times a year, on all savings of $1 or more.
- 2. Extra Interest Days. Money deposited in the Kingston Savings Bank by October 10 earns interest-dividends from October 1.
- 3. Convenience. You can save while you shop—free parking in Kingston Savings Bank's own lot (entrance from Crown Street) while you bank . . . extra banking hours at Walk-up Teller Window. You can bank from 9 to 5 Monday through Thursday, 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Fridays.
- 4. Safety. Money in your Kingston Savings Bank savings account is insured to $15,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Your savings are free from speculative risks.
- 5. Borrow Power. Your Kingston Savings Bank passbook entitles you to borrow money with your passbook as collateral for lowest-cost installment type loan, a Personal-Savings Loan. Your savings remain intact, earning generous interest-dividends.
- 6. Community Growth. Money deposited with Kingston Savings Bank goes to work in the community. Even during the tight-money situation, Kingston Savings Bank continued to make home mortgage loans to qualified customers. K.S.B. is the leading single source of first mortgage money in the county.

E. ROBERT JOHNSON

Attended State Meeting on TB

John M. Robbins, president, and representative delegate, and E. Robert Johnson, executive director, have returned from representing the Ulster County TB and Health Association at the joint annual three-day meeting of the New York State Tuberculosis Association and the New York State conference of TB-RD Workers at the Randolph House, Syracuse.

Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., the Association's President Emeritus, attended the State Association functions and was elected to the State Board of Directors on which he had previously served many years.

The Syracuse sessions were focused on people with Topics and including comprehensive Health Planning for New York State residents, clinic services for TB patients, and reports on State Christmas Seal Association operations.

Lomontville Dept. Fetes VanWagenen

Benjamin Van Wagenen was the honored guest Saturday at a dinner given by the members of the Lomontville Fire Department in the Community Hall in Lomontville.

Van Wagenen was retiring from his voluntary post as treasurer of the fire district after 22 years of continuous service to the community.

A gold watch was presented to him from the members of the fire company in gratitude for his long and faithful service.

Choppers to Know They're in Sights

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP) — A Roswell electronics firm is coming up with a black box to foil black-clad Viet Cong bringing down U.S. helicopters in Vietnam.

Bill Underhill, president of Electronics Industries, said the device would be placed in the helicopter cockpit to pick up sounds of enemy bullets fired within 50 yards of the helicopter.

The detector would indicate the sounds of fire on the helicopter's control panel and cause a beeping noise in the pilot's headset. He said now that noise level in the helicopters is so high that sometimes the aircraft is hit without the pilot knowing his craft is being fired upon.

There are more than 2,500 species of lizard. The only two known to be poisonous are the Gila monster of the United States and the crotchet of Mexico.

Robbins officially represented the Board of the Ulster County TB-RD group at the Annual Meeting of the New York State TB-RD Association which preceded the program sessions.

Johnson, Secretary of the New York State Conference of TB-RD Workers, serves on its executive committee and took part in the Conference Executive and Membership sessions of the group.

X-ray Programming

The Ulster County TB and Health Association, a dedicated health force in Ulster County for over 50 years, conducts effective programs of public and professional education, services to school and youth groups, and annually supports qualified research in chest diseases all based on the Annual Christmas Seal Campaign. Added program emphasis has been extended this year to X-ray Programming and Air Pollution. In addition to completing the second consecutive year of school x-raying in September, the TB group also has established three X-ray projects that are "firsts."

Two weeks ago, the Association established two Community X-ray Programs, one in Marlboro-Milton area and at Saugerties; and also Industrial X-rays at Ferroxcube Corporation. The first Migrant X-ray Program in Ulster County also was organized by the TB Association in September. All these programs, also including support of some casts, were organized by Johnson, the Association's Executive Director.

Clean Air Work

The Association also has been developing its interest in Air Pollution out of its deep concern and dedication to all diseases of the Respiratory System. Initial work on the Action-for-Clean Air Committee has been developed, and basic program development for wide-range clean air activity is under way, and will be publicly announced during October.

Competition Keen for Moon Flight Seats

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — U.S. astronauts are in keen if silent competition for the three seats aboard the first moon-bound Apollo spacecraft.

Of course, they all want the first lunar footprints to be made by an American, no matter who, and not by a Russian.

But they know that ahead of the first men on the moon is the chance to live forever in history books.

Who will go? Fairly soon, perhaps within a year, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will pick the three men for the first crew.

The veterans, whose names and exploits are already familiar, stand ready—Cooper, Schirra, Stafford, McDivitt. But there are new names, too — Elsiele, Cunningham, Mattingly and others—who may be selected.

Some feel they're very much in the running. Others, either because of health, age or experience, know their chances are slim. In NASA's inner circle, the list has probably already been narrowed so that someone has a pretty good idea who will go.

NASA does not reveal completely how it picks men for space trips. Chief astronaut Donald K. "Deke" Slayton is charged with the initial responsibility for recommending crewmen for approval by higher headquarters.

"I could pick any two or three guys," said Slayton. "I think they've got that kind of capability. Naturally, there may be cases where two guys get along better together than with someone else, so it would be logical to make them a team."

Asked to elaborate on the criteria, Slayton added: "Well, you weigh a lot of things, and it's a difficult question to answer without getting into things I prefer not to discuss. Part of it is personal, confidential by my definition."

"It's sort of how do you assign anybody to anything. You know, it begins to influence people personally, pretty closely," he said. "It's obvious everybody can't be a commander, so you have to pick some people to be commanders and some for the other jobs."

On the first lunar mission, who has which job governs who actually sets foot on the moon's surface. Three make the trip but only the command pilot and lunar module pilot descend to the moon in the smaller spacecraft they take along. The third flies the mothership in orbit around the moon until they return.

WE STARTED IN 1859 BUT... WE'RE NOT 108 YEARS OLD!

We're 108 years young.

We're old enough to understand the soundness of time-tested basic ideas, but young enough to keep trying to improve them.

Modernization and keeping abreast of new ideas and techniques is a must for today's successful business.

We wouldn't be the world's largest food retailer if we weren't constantly thinking modern, thinking young

But some basic thinking never changes. Take that of our founder for instance.

He was dedicated, as we are, to bringing the most good food, to the most people, for the least amount of money.

To being fair, honest and trustworthy. To caring about the people he served.

No matter how progressive, how automated, how modern we become, we pledge to maintain these sound principles of our founder.

Kremple-Tyler Nuptials Told

Miss Katherine Kremple, daughter of Mrs. Elsie Kremple, DeWitt Lake Road, Kingston, was married Sunday, Sept. 3, to Ronald W. Tyler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tyler, Cottekill, at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Carl J. Goette, pastor, officiated at the service. Organist, Charles Brandt, provided traditional wedding selections. The altar was decorated with pink and white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Fred Trost, the bride wore a white tulle gown styled with a sash and neckline, fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves. Her bell-sleeved skirt was attached to a chapel train. A veil of nylon illusion was shirred to a coronet of satin tulle with seed pearl trim. She carried a cascade bouquet of daisies.

Miss Laura Houghtaling, Kingston, was maid of honor. She wore a maize floor-length sleeveless gown with a matching headpiece of yellow flowers fastened to a chapel veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow daisies.

Miss Maryann Krajewski, Kingston, was bridesmaid. She wore a maize colored gown fashioned identically to that of the matron of honor. She wore a Dior bow headpiece with a tulle veil and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

Lynn Slater, Tilton, was best man. Robert Kremple, brother of the bride, was usher.

After the wedding a reception for 50 guests was held at 7 D's Restaurant, Lucas Avenue Extension.

For her wedding trip the bride selected a blue dress with white accessories.

The bride attended Kingston High School and is employed by Per Se of Rosendale.

Her husband attended Rondout Valley Central School and is employed by a contractor in Stone Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyler will reside at Lucas Avenue Extension, Kingston.

Society Makes Plans For Annual Dinner

The Altar and Rosary Society of St. Joseph's Church, Glasco, held its annual meeting Tuesday, Sept. 26, in the Church basement. Members were informed that the annual dinner on Sunday, Oct. 22, will be held at Villa St. Dominick, Mass and Communion will be at 6:30 p.m. instead of 8 a. m. as was originally planned.

Judith Cacchiano, president, introduced the members to the Rev. Thomas E. McNamara, the new assistant pastor.

A bake sale is scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 15, in front of the Church. It will be held before and after the 8 a. m. Mass.

After the meeting refreshments were served by Theresa Fabiano, Thelma Verisek and Ann Burdick. Refreshment committee for October will be Susan Aiello, Jackie Porto and Mary Bruno.

Members were reminded to come in costume to the next meeting.

Marble Cake

When you are baking a chocolate marble cake, put large spoonfuls of the white and chocolate portions into your cake pan, then use a table knife to cut through the batter in zig-zag fashion to create the desired effect.

Chairmen Appointed At Rosary Meeting

Mrs. Donald Sweeney, president of St. Joseph's Rosary Society, presided at the first meeting of the season Monday evening, Sept. 18, in the new school.

Newly appointed chairmen are: Mrs. Mary McCafferty, sunshine; Mrs. Charles Hoffay, refreshment; Mrs. Salvatore Aprea, program; Mrs. Frank Falatyn, altar; Mrs. Bernard O'Malley, publicity.

Among the activities planned for fall are a rummage sale and cake sale. Mrs. Frank Erts and Mrs. Mary McCafferty will be co-chairmen of the rummage sale which will be held in the old LeFever House, corner of Green Street and Maiden Lane. Dates for each event will be announced.

The Rev. James LeBar, new moderator for the society, was introduced at the meeting. Father LeBar replaced the Rev. John Mulligan who has recently been transferred to a new parish.

The Society will resume attendance at Mass on the first Saturday of each month beginning Saturday, Oct. 7 at 9 a. m. The Rosary will be recited after Mass. All members are urged to attend.

At Roberts College

Two area residents are students at Roberts Wesleyan College, Rochester.

Miss Alma Becker of 84 Franklin Street, Kingston, began her freshman year September 18. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Becker.

Miss Sharon Finch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Finch, Saugerties, began her sophomore year at Roberts.

Registration and orientation activities preceded the opening of the college year. The annual convocation was held September 19, with Dr. Edgar B. Jackson, professor at Marquette University as special speaker.

The college, now in its 102nd year, is a liberal arts college with 700 students.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY—Mr. and Mrs. Addison Jones, 334 Foxhall Avenue, Kingston, celebrated their golden anniversary Saturday at a dinner in Whalen's Restaurant, Wall Street. Mr. and Mrs. Jones have four children, Mrs. Harry Wilber, Mrs. Kenneth Heppner, Robert Jones and Ronald Jones. They have 13 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Mr. Jones, well known in both political and civic circles, formerly owned and operated Jones Dairy. (Freeman Photo by Haines)

Mrs. Irving Scher Heads Sisterhood

Formal installation of officers for Sisterhood Ahavath Israel took place Saturday, Sept. 30 with Mrs. Harry Z. Scheetman as the installing officer.

Steering activities for the Sisterhood during 1967-68 will be Mrs. Irving Scher, president; Mrs. Harris Gaily, Mrs. Henry Jacobs, Mrs. Ira Shaw, vice president; Mrs. Arthur Schiff, financial secretary; Mrs. Sidney Treinkman, treasurer; Mrs. Murray Weiss, recording secretary; and Mrs. Daniel Gikner, corresponding secretary.

For Decoration

A delightful decoration for a chocolate cake is made with blanched almonds (plain or toasted) and semi-sweet chocolate. Just dip one end of each almond in a little of the melted chocolate and insert the undipped ends of the nuts in the cake frosting. You'll need at least a dozen of the almonds for the top of the cake, but of course, more may be used for a lavish effect.

Houck-Green Nuptials Are Announced Here

Miss Lillian Dianne Houck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Houck, 42 Market Street, Ellenville, was married Saturday, Sept. 23, to Norman Phillip Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Green, State Road, Kerhonkson, at St. Mary's-St. Andrew's Church, Ellenville.

The Rev. William Drew officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of peau de sole fashioned with a scoop neckline accented with embroidered French lace. The nosegays of rust, orange and bell sleeves were trimmed with the same lace. The empire lines of the gown were caught to an A-line skirt panelled in front with lace. Her detachable train was fastened at the shoulder and ended in a chapel length. A double crown of crystals and pearls held a three tiered silk illusion veil. She carried a white orchid and ivy on her prayer book.

Mrs. Sue Harris, 29 Cape Avenue, Ellenville, was matron of honor. Attendants were Mrs. Nancy Karen, Ellenville; Mrs. Linda Barley, Accord; Mrs. Lynda Baxter, Schenectady; Mrs. Dianne Mead, Ellenville.

They wore gold and green ensemble styled gowns and carried nosegays of rust, orange and yellow chrysanthemums.

Best man was Charles Green.

Marbletown Legion Plans Harvest Dance

Ulster Girl Named Contest Finalist

Mary Beth Anne Smith, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Smith, 46 Mountain View Avenue, Hurley, has been named a finalist in the Junior Miss Division of the Singer World Stylemaker Contest. Junior Miss contestants are between 10 and 12 years of age.

Mary Beth and her mother will spend five days in New York as the guests of The Singer Company visiting famous landmarks, dining in world-famous restaurants, and going to the theatre. The five days will be climaxed by the finals at The Plaza Hotel on November 9. That day, one of the six finalists in the Junior Miss Division will be named "Queen of Sewing."

The Queen will be given an all-expense-paid trip for two to London, Paris or Rome and $400. She can choose to accept $1,800 in lieu of the trip. A cash prize of $400 will be given to each runner-up.

On her way to the top spot, each finalist has already been judged at three levels: local, regional and national semifinal. Prizes already awarded to the 18 finalists include a Singer portable phonograph, a "Touch & Sew" sewing machine by Singer, and the trip to New York for the finals. They were chosen from among the more than 68,000 entrants across the country.

On November 7, they will be guests of honor at a tea to be given by Mrs. John V. Lindsay, wife of New York's Mayor, at Gracie Mansion.

Mary Beth's winning entry is a topstitched, A-line, gold heather wool dress with matching coat. The coat has brushed gold buttons. To complete the ensemble, she made a brimmed hat from co-ordinated gold heather wool with black windowpane checks. She used McCall's Patterns 8589 and 8254. Total cost was $24.39.

Mary Beth is an 8th grade student at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School. She is a member of the YWCA, the school orchestra, and the ski club. She first learned to sew last summer, and she now sews curtains and room decorations in addition to her own clothes. She plans to save the prize money she receives for her education; she wants to be a veterinarian.

Judges for the semifinals of the Singer World Stylemaker Contest were Miss Jean Vigirda, director of Talon Educational Service, Donahue Sales Corporation; Miss Beryl Tucker, president, Beryl Tucker Young Trends, Inc.; and Miss Margaret Hauser, editor, Co-ed Magazine.

Pamela Wood Weds Donald Crawford

Miss Pamela R. Wood, of Valley Stream, L. I., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor L. Wood, Malden-on-Hudson, became the bride of Donald Glenn Crawford, Westbury, L. I., in a double ring ceremony held at Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Uniondale, L. I., September 9th. Traditional wedding music was rendered prior to the service. The church was decorated with bronze chrysanthemums and straw flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white brocade, with a floor length train. Her silk illusion veil was attached to a small pillbox hat made of the same material as the gown. She carried a cascade of white orchids and stephanotis intertwined with ivy.

Sister of the bride, Miss Shirley M. Wood, Malden-on-Hudson and Greenwich, Conn., served as maid of honor. She wore a gown of gold brocade. Her matching veil was attached to a stylized headpiece. She carried bronze mums and yellow roses.

Best man was Alexander Raia, Freeport, L. I. Kenneth Wood served as an usher for his sister.

The reception was held in the recreation room of the church for approximately 175 people.

The couple left for a wedding journey to the Adirondack Mts., Expo '67, Thousand Islands and Niagara Falls. For her traveling ensemble the bride wore a two-piece olive green suit with an orchid corsage.

Upon the couple's returning to Malden, they were feted with a reception held September 23rd at the home of the bride's parents. The couple will reside at 175 Lewis Avenue, Westbury.

The bride is employed by Carle Place Florists, Carle Place, L. I., and the groom is employed by Tele-Signal Corp., Woodbury, L. I.

Women's Unit Focuses on State BPW Meeting

As issues requiring broad understanding by all citizens, the Transportation Bond issue and the proposed new State Constitution—both to be on the November 7th ballot—will get special emphasis from the Business and Professional Women's Clubs throughout the State, Miss Lorraine Rouget, newly elected president of the BPW State Federation said today.

Miss Rouget, in announcing a crash education study program, will bring personal greetings and commendations from Governor Nelson Rockefeller to the BPW's annual fall board meeting to be held October 8 to 9 in Plattsburgh.

Attending from the Ulster County BPW Club will be Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, president; Miss Beverly Reese, past president; Mrs. Vera Bishop, second vice president; Rosemarie Caulfield, BPW legislative chairman; and Mrs. Shirley Gippert.

The Governor and Miss Rouget met last week at the Governor's New York office to discuss the overall program plans Miss Rouget is launching for the statewide women's organization of 140 individual clubs. She said Governor Rockefeller had asked her to convey to the board membership his particular gratification at the constructive civic-responsibility role BPW clubs have helped women to play in communities and the State for the nearly half century of their existence.

Miss Rouget said today the theme of the National BPW Federation, "Plan for Progress, All Systems Go" will be carried out in pertinent areas by individual New York State clubs whose membership concerns itself with community needs, an aim that requires studies of current legislation.

"In this context, of course, the two propositions on the ballot that deal with transportation plans for the state, and the proposed new Constitution will be emphasized through intensive study during the few weeks left before the election," Miss Rouget said.

In addition to program planning to cover highlights of the proposed new Constitution, BPW members attending the fall board meeting will review the non-partisan filmstrip, "Going Places" which presents the total transportation concept from a woman's point of view. The filmstrip is one of the special services provided through the newly created Women's Unit in the Office of the Secretary to the Governor.

Such educational programs on legislation affecting women have been mounted in the past among BPW clubs on other State programs which affect women in such areas as water pollution and beautification, as well for the State narcotics and help-for-the aging programs.

"The goals BPW clubs work for are those of importance and value to women in every area of their lives and communities," Miss Rouget told the Governor. "Therefore, in the truest sense, we are working for the good of all New York State."

Doctor's Mailbag

Best Ulcer Treatment: Find Underlying Cause

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—How long should a duodenal ulcer that was bleeding be treated? My doctor says I must stay on my ulcer diet indefinitely.

A—Because so many bleeding ulcers occur without previous symptoms anyone who has had one and has been cured is well-advised to use every caution to prevent a recurrence. Your doctor has set you on the right track. Don't disappoint him.

Q—My brother-in-law is taking aluminum for his ulcer and says his ulcer doesn't bother him any more. Is this drug a cure for ulcers? Could it cause any bad side effects?

A—Various aluminum hydroxide preparations are used in the treatment of ulcers. These antacids protect the ulcerated surface by coating it. They cause no harmful side effects but they represent only one phase of the treatment. Finding and eliminating the underlying cause is the most important part.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Entertain the Bunch at Sunday Brunch

What could be more festive and fun than a gala brunch on a Sunday morning after church. A combination of breakfast and lunch, it offers a convenient way to entertain, for you can set your table and do some preparation the night before. And, after your brunch, you still have most of the day for a leisurely clean-up and to enjoy with your family. Moreover, a brunch gives you a marvelous opportunity to serve recipes you wouldn't ordinarily include in a traditional dinner party menu, so your guests are sure to be even more appreciative.

Minted orange juice is a colorful first course. Why not serve it in the living room as your guests gather. Fill the stem of a hollow-stem champagne glass with a mint-flavored liqueur. Place a well-drained maraschino cherry firmly in the stem; fill the glass with orange juice and garnish with fresh mint leaves.

Sauteed whole mushrooms that come frozen in their own butter sauce add a pleasant surprise to Creamy scrambled Eggs. Garnish the platter with sizzling kabobs of tender chicken livers, cherry tomatoes and crisp bacon strips.

For a special treat, serve Petite Pois Cups. Perky little baby peas and artichoke hearts are combined in a smooth, creamy cheese sauce and served in small pastry tarts which you can either make the day before or purchase at a bakery. Garnish with cooked shrimp.

The tiny corn muffins are made from a mix, and for a special touch, add a can of tender golden whole kernel corn with sweet peppers.

B'nai B'rith Women Open Fall Sessions At Ahavath Israel

Songs by the wayside Singers marked the opening session of B'nai B'rith Women's meetings Wednesday, Sept. 27 at 8:30 p. m. in the social hall of Congregation Ahavath Israel. The singers were Janice Savino, Tom Kiernan, Dick Burns and Will Daum.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Harvey Kronick who called upon the membership to aid in the expansion of the commercial calendar, the group's main fund raising project during the year. Chairman is Mrs. Sam Bailinson.

A report from Mrs. Wally Rosenblath, president of International B'nai B'rith, was given by Mrs. Kronick. Mrs. Rosenblath outlined her experiences on a recent visit to Israel. She also described conditions at the B'nai B'rith Children's Home during the war and post-war periods.

Miss Deborah Kalish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kalish, Overlook Drive, is the recipient of Zephaniah Chapter's annual award for school service and character.

The chapter received a membership award from its district for having successfully maintained former membership quotas. Mrs. Irving Meyers is membership retention chairman and Mrs. Ronald Wolfeld is financial secretary.

Mrs. Seymour Semilof and

Mrs. Robert Ronder volunteered to represent the organization in the radio-telethon for Ulster County Community Chest on October 21. They will serve as telephone operators.

Mrs. Kronick announced that B'nai B'rith will participate in the show with a presentation of "Dolls for Democracy."

SOME HINTS FOR YOUNG EXECUTIVES

Whether he is married or not, a young executive faces a number of problems which are more concerned with etiquette than with the actual work he does.

As he goes to a higher position or is transferred to another office, a whole new set of questions may arise. The following quiz will test your knowledge of the social side of business, and may give you some helpful hints about problems which have bothered you.

1. When you start out in a new job you (a) should (b) should not make friends with all other employees.

2. You (a) may (b) may not call your superior by his first name if other employees do.

3. A private secretary (a) may (b) may not be asked to do some personal chores.

4. In most cases, a man's wife (a) does (b) does not call her husband's secretary by the same name he uses.

5. An employer (a) should (b) should not take his secretary to lunch frequently.

6. When an executive is transferred to another office he (a) does (b) does not entertain his new boss immediately.

7. When an employer invites a junior executive to dinner, the younger man (a) need not (b) must entertain him in the same way.

8. An executive (a) does (b) does not rise when his secretary comes into his office.

If you made seven or eight correct choices, you will be a respected boss or a popular employee.

1. (a) Those who look least appealing to you at first may turn out to be the ones who can thickened but still moist. Stir in mushrooms, reserving a few for garnish. Yield: 8 servings.

BRUNCH KABOBS

8 chicken livers, cut in half
16 cherry tomatoes
8 strips bacon

Starting with bacon, loosely thread 2 chicken liver halves and 2 tomatoes on eight 8-inch metal skewers, weaving bacon over and under pieces. Broil 5 to 6 inches from heat for 10 to 15 minutes, turning occasionally, until livers and bacon are done. Yield: 8 servings.

BRUNCHEON CORN MUFFINS

One 7½-oz. package corn muffin mix

One 7-oz. can golden whole kernel corn with red and green sweet peppers, drained.

Prepare corn muffin mix as directed, stirring in corn with the water. Spoon into paper-lined or well-greased tiny muffin cups. Bake at 400 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes. Yield: About 18 tiny muffins.

Note: Or, use one half of a 14-oz. package corn muffin mix, adding corn to egg and milk.

PETITE POIS CUPS

One 10-oz. package little baby early peas frozen in butter sauce in flavor-tight cooking pouch

3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups half and half cream
¼ cup shredded American cheese

One 7-oz. can artichoke hearts, drained and cut into quarters

3 tablespoons cooking sherry
2 teaspoons seasoned salt
Pepper, to taste

Ten 3-inch baked pastry tarts

BOB GIBSON

Gibson, Santiago Ready as '67 Series Opens

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Every baseball fan who was out of diapers at the time remembers the daring dash of Enos Slaughter that enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to beat the Boston Red Sox in the 1946 World Series.

That, however, isn't the first thing recalled by Red Schoendienst and Bobby Doerr, the opposing second basemen in that Series who again are on different sides for the latest clash between St. Louis and Boston.

"Losing it," was the answer from Doerr, Red Sox coach who had just finished hitting grounders to the Boston infielders in their final workout for today's start of the 1967 Series.

Schoendienst will send Bob Gibson, a fireballing right-hander against the Red Sox in the opener.

Opposite Situations

The situation this year is the exact opposite of what it was in 1946 when the Cardinals edged Boston four games to three, winning the seventh game as Slaughter raced from first to the plate on Harry Walker's hit to left-center field.

That year the Cardinals, under Doerr, Red Sox coach who had just finished hitting grounders to the Boston infielders in their final workout for today's start of the 1967 Series.

Schoendienst will send Bob Gibson, a fireballing right-hander against the Red Sox in the opener.

Opposite Situations

The situation this year is the exact opposite of what it was in 1946 when the Cardinals edged Boston four games to three, winning the seventh game as Slaughter raced from first to the plate on Harry Walker's hit to left-center field.

And now they've had two days rest. That's all you need.

Schoendienst, 44, sees at least one similarity between the Red Sox of 1946 and the Red Sox of 1967.

Doerr, now 49 with his curly hair turned gray, remembers how sad it was to lose that series.

"It was a terrific letdown," he recalled. "We thought we had

Rested Pitchers

"The only thing is their pitching staff is rested good, and it could be that our staff will be a little tired."

Following Santiago to the mound for Boston will be Jim Lonborg, 22-9, in Thursday's second game and Gary Bell, 13-13, in the Saturday contest at St. Louis.

Schoendienst says he will use Dick Hughes, 16-6, Thursday and either Nelson Briles, 14-5, or Steve Carlton, 14-9, Saturday, depending on whether he needs Briles for relief in the first two games.

MODENA, Italy (AP) — Chris Amon, of New Zealand, will drive a 4,200-cc Ferrari Prototype in auto races at Laguna Seca, Calif., on Oct. 29 and Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 12, it was announced today.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Kevin Hardy, Notre Dame's 270-pound defensive end, will not play against Iowa Saturday because of a sprained ankle suffered against Purdue.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Ron Romans, tailback from Thousand Oaks, Calif., was cut from the University of New Mexico football team Tuesday for failing to show for practice Monday.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets acquired infielder Don Wallace from the California Angels Tuesday and placed him on the roster of their Jacksonville farm club in the International League.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints of the National League Tuesday traded split end Ray Ogden to the Atlanta Falcons for fullback Ernie Wheelwright.

Hanratty 2nd In Total Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — Terry Hanratty's 420 total offense yards against Purdue has moved the Notre Dame quarterback from 28th to second place in this department, only nine yards behind the leader, Paul Toscano of Wyoming.

Toscano has gained 683 yards in three college football games. Hanratty has 674 rushing-passing yards in two games. His 75 total offense plays in Saturday's 28-21 setback by Purdue was a record for a major collegian.

Terry Stone of New Mexico is in third place with 618 yards gained followed by Roy Winters of West Texas State with 586, statistics compiled by National Collegiate Sports Service disclosed today.

Pick USC, Houston In Top Grid Games

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Did you pick Notre Dame, Texas, Ohio State, Michigan and Duke to win their football games last weekend? So did this corner.

So let's all try again: Southern California over Stanford; When you have a cold, you take orange juice. The Trojans had a void in their backfield and went out and got O. J. (Orange Juice) Simpson and now they are No. 1.

Houston over North Carolina State: A pair of unbeaten but that terrific offense of the Cougars, led by Warren McVea, gives them the edge.

UCLA over Penn State: Gary Beban of the Bruins will see to it that Penn State doesn't pull a surprise on successive weekends. Last time out the Lions spilled Miami, Fla.

Purdue over Northwestern: Preseason publicity said Mike Phipps, new quarterback at Purdue, was every bit as good as Bob Griese but bigger. Notre Dame already believes and Northwestern soon will.

Georgia over South Carolina: Another battle of unbeaten but tradition and the home field combine to give Georgia the edge.

Alabama over Mississippi: Coach Bear Bryant says he is going to spend the week looking for a running back to augment the passing of Kenny Stabler. Here's betting he found one.

Texas Tech over Mississippi State: There are seven sophomores in the Mississippi State starting line-up.

Army over Duke: Spirit and a trio of competent quarterbacks gives the Cadets an edge.

Georgia Tech over Clemson: Tech's football players aren't tradition and the home field combine to give Georgia the edge.

Four Managers' Jobs Are Still Available

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Four managers' jobs still are open in the major leagues as the second guessing and "it was learned" season opens with the gathering of the clan for the World Series.

Not only is the Kansas City job open but the franchise is floating. Charley Finley is expected to ask for permission to move—probably to Oakland or Seattle—at a special American League meeting later this month. He probably will get enough votes to make it stick. Only then will he have time to think about a successor to interim Manager Luke Appling.

Pittsburgh has given Danny Murtaugh a new job, thus eliminating the veteran from the thoughts of the job he didn't want. Dick Groat, retired shortstop, and Bill Virdon, a manager in the New York Mets' chain and former Pirate center fielder, are high in the rumor league, along with Mickey Vernon.

The Pirates probably would like to get Al Lopez out of retirement but Al has too much fun playing golf and making a few trips to Chicago in his advisory capacity with the White Sox.

Paul Richards' bombshell at Atlanta just might be Paul Richards to manager the Braves. Lum Harris still is the leader in the rumor league.

The New York Mets are due to pick the successor to Wes Westrum before too many days have passed. Yogi Berra has to be a possibility if he wants to give up a nice safe job as a coach for the perils of managing a 10th place team.

If Gil Hodges didn't have a year to go on his Washington contract he would be the favorite. Some people think the Mets still may lure Hodges to Shea.

Lefty Gomez was watching the St. Louis Cardinals attack the friendly left field wall at Fenway Park Tuesday afternoon when a sports writer asked him how the wall had affected him in his pitching days.

"The wall didn't bother me," quipped Lefty. "It was the hitters."

Tony C. on Bench

Tony Conigliaro will play the same role that Dick Williams played for Brooklyn in the 1962 World Series with the Yankees. Although Conigliaro, out of action with double vision due to a beaning, is not on the active list he will be permitted to sit on the Red Sox bench in uniform. Williams, a utility man with the Dodgers, also was given the same courtesy in '52 when he had a shoulder separation and was reduced to the role of a "yeller."

In the 1963 Series, Williams was a Dodger pinch hitter in three games against the Yanks. He singled off Eddie Lopat, walked and was struck out by Bob Kuzava in his three appearances.

Houston Leads With 1,466 Yards

NEW YORK (AP) — The 695 yards gained by Houston in its 50-6 football victory over Wake Forest has propelled the Cougars into a commanding lead in total offense among the nation's major colleges, the latest statistics disclosed Tuesday.

The Cougars, total offense champs last season, have piled up 1,466 yards in three games for a 456.1 average. Brigham Young is second with 457.0 yards followed by West Texas State 456.7 and Notre Dame 454.0, according to figures compiled by National Collegiate Sports Services.

Harvard's 51-0 triumph over Lafayette enabled the Crimson to take over first place in rushing offense with a 329.0 average and in scoring with a 51.0 average. Brigham Young is the pace-setter in passing offense with a 296.5 average.

Syracuse is the total defense leader with an average yield of only 89.0 yards for two games. The Orange also is No. 1 in rushing defense with a 7.5 yard average. Princeton having yielded only 12 yards in one game, is tops in forward pass defense.

Kansas State is the punting leader with a 46.7 yard average for 13 punts in two games.

Colts, Packers Lead in Statistics

NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Colts is the best offensive team in the National Football League and the champion Green Bay Packers the toughest on defense so far this season.

The weekly team statistics released today by the NFL show the Colts lead in total offense with an average of 445.7 yards and in passing offense with an average of 358.

The Detroit Lions prevented a sweep by the Colts in the three main offensive departments by leading in rushing offense with an average of 182 yards.

On defense, Green Bay has yielded only an average of 150 yards over-all and also is first in pass defense by giving up an average of 26.3 yards.

Pittsburgh is the stingiest on defense against rushing. The Steelers have yielded an average of only 70 yards on the ground.

Williams Predicts Victory For Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Dick Williams, the Boston Red Sox' rookie manager, played a cat-and-mouse game and, without actually saying so, predicted victory Tuesday on the eve of the World Series opener with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Like I said all year, I think we'll win more than we lose," Williams said with an impish grin when questioned during the Red Sox' workout under a hot sun at Fenway Park.

The 38-year-old Williams first made the statement, "We'll win more than we lose," when he took over the Red Sox last spring. The team posted a 92-70 record en route to the American League pennant—after finishing ninth with a 72-90 mark in 1966.

"This is a good ball club—it doesn't know the meaning of the word quit," Williams said. "I think the entire club was downgraded at the start of the year, and with some good reason. Basically, it is the same club as in 1966."

However, our pitching came through better than most people expected. And the front office helped plenty in getting Jerry Adair and Gary Bell in trades."

Before taking the field, the Red Sox spent nearly an hour getting a rundown on the Cardinals. Frank Malzone, Eddie Kasko, Tommy Thomas and Don Lenhardt provided scouting reports on the National League champions.

"They come off the bench swinging," Williams said in

Cards' Park Almost Ready

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ground-keepers are sowing instant grass inside Busch Stadium and hanging crepe paper bunting outside the stadium as St. Louis prepares for the World Series.

A special "three-day" grass was planted today in the outfield to help repair the damage caused by the St. Louis Cardinals' football game Sunday with the Detroit Lions. The rye-blue grass mixture is scheduled to sprout Friday, a day before the first of the three games set for St. Louis.

Ground crews also began rebuilding the pitching mound, made up of two tons of clay on a steel plate. Plywood field boxes for the series were under construction in front of the regular field boxes.

Meanwhile, World Series decorations began sprouting in the city. Crews began attaching red, white and blue streamers and World Series plaques to 300 light standards; downtown, except in an area already decorated for the annual St. Louis veiled prophet parade Saturday.

Red Sox Flag At State House

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. John A. Volpe proclaimed "Red Sox Appreciation Days" for the duration of the World Series that opens today with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Volpe said a flag will be hoisted in front of the State House, emblazoned with "Go Red Sox."

Young Sets Mark In Pass Catching

WEST POINT, N. Y. — End Terry Young from Reading, Pa., wrote a new line in the Army football record book Saturday against Boston College when he caught six passes. That brought his career total to 67, two better than the 65 made by "Lonely End" Bill Carpenter in 1959.

Young is well on his way to being the greatest offensive end in Army grid history. He needs 144 yards to top another Carpenter mark, career yardage from pass receptions.

Four field goals in two games puts Nick Kurliko, senior kicker from Wilson Borough, Pa., within one of the season field goal record of five.

Overbush-Bostic Win at Wiltwyck

Mrs. Gerald Overbush and Harvey Bostic shot 41-38-79 and had a nine handicap for a net total of 70 to win top honors in the Wiltwyck Country Club mixed Scotch foursomes.

The teams of Mrs. Kenneth Love and Gerald Overbush and Mrs. Clifford Spiesman and Donald Distel tied for second with 71s.

In a third place tie with net scores of 75 were Mrs. Harvey Bostic and Kenneth Love and Mrs. Wilson Brooks and Robert Merritt.

Others were Mrs. Gerald Gruberg and Jerome Mills, 77; Mrs. Robert Daley and Gerald Gruberg, 78; Mrs. Jerome Mills and Thomas Plunket, 79; Mrs. Robert Merritt and Wilson Brooks, 81; Mrs. Thomas Plunket and Werner Kolin, 81 and Mrs. Lincoln Christensen and Clifford Spiesman, 84.

Name Phipps Back of Week, Passed Purdue Over Irish

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Mike Phipps of Purdue, son of an Indiana state policeman, is The Associated Press College Football Back of the Week.

He gave Notre Dame defense the icy stare of a man packing a pistol last Saturday and dropped the nation's No. 1 ranking team 28-21.

Max Anders, Mike's high school coach at Columbus, Ind., sent the 19-year-old sophomore quarterback a telegram, expressing pride but saying, "keep your feet on the ground."

"I know he will, anyway," Anders said. "He's a sound kid."

Phipps justified the opinion by commenting on the honor, "I've only had two games experience. Maybe after two years of college ball this would be more appropriate for the honor to come so soon I'm not sure I'm deserving of it."

He added quickly, "But I'm most appreciative."

Purdue's victory over the Irish was a superb team performance but it wouldn't have come off without the baby-faced novice quarterback. He completed 14 of 34 passes for 238 yards, two touchdowns and a two-point conversion. He also carried the ball 33 yards in nine rushes.

Phipps, who owns three shotguns for his hobby of quail and rabbit hunting, is 6-feet-3 and weighs 205 pounds. He's quite a man even when he isn't packing a gun.

Leroy Keyes, who played both offensive and defensive back for the Boilermakers in the big upset, and halfback O.J. Simpson of Southern California also were seriously considered for the AP Back of the Week.

Rod 'N Gun Report By Old Rip

The year of the high waters and long grass ended for area trout fisherman last Saturday, and the anglers by now have completed the annual ritual of preparing their equipment for winter storage.

Reports from the Ashokan Reservoir, however, indicate some fine bass and pike are still in the news. The arrival of cooler weather will afford continuing action for both the boat and shore fishermen.

The bass season runs until Nov. 30, while walleye pike may be taken through March 1. Some excellent pike have been taken by trolling. Bass have responded well to minnows and crawfish off the reservoir's rock shoals.

MUCH OF THE SUCCESS of the trout season is attributable to stream conditions which have been the best in many years. Plenty of rainy weather has kept local streams at normal levels and the fine stocking programs of the Conservation Department, the Phoenicia Fish and Game Club and the Saugerties Fish and Game Club have given trout fishermen plenty of action.

In our opinion, a fall stocking program of legal size fish would lend tremendously to spring fishing success. Bigger, more colorful fish would be available and the fall-stocked fish would provide a lot more action than the hatchery trout, which are liberated just during the open season.

IN EARLY SPRING, we had the pleasure of seeing trout planted in Adirondack streams and ponds by use of helicopters. The fish were loaded in the choppers and distributed at low flying level over entire stretches of streams. Observers have told us that the fish are dropped over wide areas and not just by easy access bridges, so predominant in the Phoenicia area.

Incidentally, ice fishermen may be interested to know that trout may be taken from Nov. 15 through April 1 in Askoti and Walton Lake in Orange County and White Lake in Sullivan County and Queechee Lake in Columbia County.

OUR TRIP TO THE NORTHLAND — We had the pleasure of spending a week at Bob and Dorothy Geandrea's lakeside cabins in Indian Lake and got in some fine year-end fishing, thanks to our friend, Adirondack guide Richard (Bun) Arndt. Found that his tip on Headquarters Flow paid off.

Excellent catches of rainbows and speckled trout were being made there by trolling and just lazy man shore fishing. Although we ran into some real warm days, the nights and mornings provided a brisk 28. . . Met Bob Saehloff and Charlie Goble, also Frank and Billy Hornbeck.

Headquarters Flow at the head of the Cedar River has been transplanted from a grim, run down logger camp into a state-owned campsite. At its entrance are two finely constructed Conservation Department offices which in years to come will provide entrance to the Moose River Plains section.

A trail road that is hardly accessible at present will wind its way to Inlet, 17 miles from the Flow. Saw some fine deer, all in good condition and with Mrs. P. spent an evening at the familiar Indian Lake dump viewing black bear. This is a real thrill for youngsters and oldsters alike. . . Also had a hello with Harold Crawley, well known locally, who is readying a home in Sabel. . . A good day's fish and our favorite pizza from Mary Harr's Cobblestone rounded out a full day in the outdoors. . . A real good blistering sunburn was a memento for the long winter ahead.

TIP OF THE HAT TO: New Paltz Rod and Gun Club No. 1 team and the Saugerties Fish and Game Club squad for their fine performance in the Ulster County Trap Shoot. . . Also to all individual winners and all the participating teams. With many local clubs now making trap shooting available, a number of records just may be made in years to come.

Up and coming gunners to watch are Bob Sperl of Saugerties and a couple of real youngsters—Jimmy Grossi of Walker Valley and William Brocker of Saugerties.

OPENING DAY FOR THE SMALL GAME season on Monday found 274 hunters using the Putnam County Cooperative area and 159 hunters using the Dutchess County Cooperative area. These totals represent an increase over last year. The heavy amounts of cover and warmer than normal weather probably contributed to lower game bags. There were a few violations of the Conservation Law, but these were handled without serious difficulties. A heavy concentration of hunters was noted in the Ellenville area of Ulster County.

THINGS WE WISH FOR: Cooperation of hunters and fishermen in helping provide us with information about their activities. All gun clubs are urged to submit material concerning their area and plans for the coming year. . . A safe, sane hunting season to all.

Donnie Van's, Tony's Triumph

Donnie Van's nipped Charlie's Rocket Car Wash, 88-81, and Tony's Pizzeria overpowered Ferroxcube, 99-62, in Tuesday's YMCA A division basketball games at the Broadway gym.

Ken Gilligan, Andy Murphy, Bruce Gilligan and Ray Lindhorst were in double figures for Donnie Van's. Bill Zilliox topped the losers with 23 markers.

The winners had a 41-28 margin at the interim and held off a belated rally in the second half.

Ron Thomas, former Wagner College player, rimmed 33 points to lead Tony's over Ferroxcube. He had 14 buckets and five foul shots. Joe Klonowski added 26 and Billy Huber hit for 21.

After a close first half, the winners outscored their opponents, 58-28, the rest of the way.

Granger Second In AFL Rushing

NEW YORK (AP) — Wallie Lemm didn't push young Hoyle Granger last year. Catching him has been the problem this season.

Houston's Granger, a husky running back, has gained 319 yards in 60 carries and stands second among the American Football League's rushing leaders released today.

"You've got to go up the middle," says Granger, who learned by watching as a rookie last season. "You've got to hit in there aggressively. You've got to make them respect you up the middle."

Granger hit Denver for 138 yards in 20 carries as the Oilers whipped Denver 10-6. It was the second time he's gone over 100 yards this season and he's the first AFL player to do that.

Boston's Jim Nance leads the AFL rushers with 367 yards in 84 attempts while Kansas City's Mike Garrett is third on 261 yards in 58 tries.

Joe Namath, who passed for 415 yards as New York defeated Miami 29-7 Sunday, leads the league's passers with 967 yards on 57 for 99. Namath, averaging 9.77 yards per completion, has thrown seven TD passes.

Emerson Boozier of the Jets leads the scoring race with 36 points on six touchdowns. Hewitt Dixon of Oakland is the top pass receiver with 20 catches for 196 yards and two TDs.

Punt, Pass, Kick Contest Saturday

Boys between eight and 13 years of age are invited to participate in the punting, passing and kicking contest this Saturday 1 p.m. at Dietz Stadium.

The local contest, part of the seventh annual nationwide competition, is being held in conjunction with Johnson Ford Agency as local co-sponsor with the Kingston Jaycees. John Mazzuca is chairman.

There will be 18 trophies awarded to Kingston area boys, one each to the top three boys in each of the six age groups, with local winners competing in zone contests on Oct. 21.

The national championships are scheduled in Miami's Orange Bowl during the NFL playoff game on Jan. 7, 1968. The contest gives each boy an equal chance of winning since he only competes against those his own age.

Entrants are judged on accuracy, as well as distance of their punting, passing and kicking.

Each participant will receive a free booklet of tips written by Green Bay's star passer Bart Starr; the Baltimore Colts' punting specialist Dave Lee and Los Angeles place kicker Bruce Gossett. In addition, boys will receive an attractive punt, pass and kick lapel pin.

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Young

Jim Hart, who turned the corner as a pro quarterback in the St. Louis Cardinals' 38-28 upset victory over Detroit last Sunday, has been selected as the National Football League's Offensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press.

Hart, given the monumental task last month of replacing Army inductee Charlie Johnson, got the Cardinals' offense rolling for the first time this season as they vaulted into first place in the NFL's Century Division.

The second-year pro from Southern Illinois University connected on 19 of 27 passes for 313 yards and a pair of touchdowns, triggering a St. Louis comeback that sent the Cards' to their second victory in three starts.

"His passes were perfect," said Billy Gambrell, who since 1963, during the five TD drives, Hart hit on 15 of 18 pass-Hart to score the Cards' last touchdown. "When he gets the time to throw he's deadly."

The 23-year-old signal-caller who had appeared in only one 1966 game, stepped into Johnson's shoes in St. Louis' season opener against New York two weeks ago. He had four passes intercepted, with three of the thefts resulting in Giant touchdowns as the Cards bowed 37-20.

The following Sunday the Cards trimmed Pittsburgh 28-14 on seven field goals by Jim Bakken. Hart ran for a touchdown, but completed only eight of 25 pass attempts.

He went into the Detroit game rated 16th among the league's passers—and promptly fell behind 14-0, the Lions turning another interception into their second score. Then, with his back to the wall, he began to deliver, tossing a 57-yard TD pass to tight end Jackie Smith.

The Cardinals rolled to four more touchdowns for their biggest offensive surge at home since 1963. During the five TD drives, Hart hit on 15 of 18 pass-Hart to score the Cards' last

Rookie Replacement Aids Charger Success

By RON ROACH

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Chargers are blessed with the American Football League's all-time leading rusher, half-back Paul Lowe.

But Lowe has been sidelined with an injury, forcing Coach Sid Gillman to use a rookie replacement, who had worked mostly as a flanker since joining the Chargers last July.

He's Dickie Post, a No. 4 draft choice from University of Houston who has dazzled defenses with his darting quickness and helped the Chargers win their first three games.

The 5-foot-10, 195-pounder reeled off 121 yards in 20 tries last Sunday against the Bills in Buffalo. Lowe, suffering a pulled leg muscle, stayed in San Diego and watched the game on television.

"Post is really something," Gillman said. "He's our fastest man and one of the quickest. Our coaches always wanted to move him to the backfield but I was against it."

Gillman was afraid Post would be broken in half by big defensive tackles.

"I hate to take a little guy and send him through the big fellows. I like to keep guys like (Keith) Alworth and Post on the outside where we can throw them the ball. They've got a better chance to score out there."

But Gillman ran out of backs in the Houston game when Lowe and veteran fullback Gene Foster were sidelined with injuries.

Five U. S. Sites For '76 Olympics

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) —

The chairman of the 1976 Winter Olympics site selection committee says Maine is still one of five states under consideration to serve as host for the winter sports spectacular.

Newbold Black III, contacted in New York City, said a subcommittee will be in Maine in November to study the proposed site. He offered the comment in reply to a Maine newspaper report that said Maine would be asked to withdraw from consideration.

The other four American contenders are Lake Placid, N.Y.; Denver, Colo.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and Seattle, Wash.

Although Augusta is designed as the host city, the proposed site for the winter event is at the Bigelow - Sugarloaf - Mt. Abraham area about 80 miles northwest of Augusta.

One of the five cities will be chosen to represent the U.S. at the end of a committee meeting in New York City, Dec. 16-17, during which presentations will be made.

Dave Hill, 20th in the list of PGA 1967 money-winners in September, earned $46,201 the first eight months of 1967.

Sir Cingle Cops Sire Stakes Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sir Cingle applied his talents in a strong stretch drive at Vernon Downs Tuesday night and won the $12,088 New York Sire Stakes in a photo finish with Grig.

The event, for 3-year-old colts and geldings, was clocked in a moderate 2:05 1-5 over a fast track. It highlighted a warm autumn night's harness racing in New York State.

Meadow Torrence was third in the mile contest, in which the long-shot winner returned $30.

In races featured at other harness tracks:

Roosevelt Raceway—Mr. Jim T. ($13,800) edged Shore Will by three-quarters of a length and won the featured pace in 2:02 1-5. Third-place Ricks Colt was a neck back.

UCCS TRYOUTS — Though the season's opener is still several weeks away, Ulster Community College basketball coach Mike Perini is shown with several of his candidates at tryouts at the Municipal Auditorium. Commercial Banks Honor 4-H Leaders

The Commercial Banks of Ulster County paid tribute to the 4-H Leaders of Ulster County by providing the Annual 4-H Leaders' Recognition Banquet. The event was held at the Hurley Reformed Church Saturday with over 100 leaders and guests attending. The Commercial Banks conduct the dinner in recognition of the excellent service performed by 4-H leaders in directing and guiding 4-H youth.

Banks sponsoring the dinner with Ellenville National Bank; First National Bank of Highland; Kerhonkson National Bank; Kingston Trust Co.; Kingston Trust Co. of Marlboro; Valley National Bank; Modena Office; Rondout National Bank; Saugerties National Bank and Trust Co.; State of New York National Bank of Kingston; Huguenot Branch of the State of New York National Bank; New Paltz; The National Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties; Rosendale and the Valley National Bank, Wallkill.

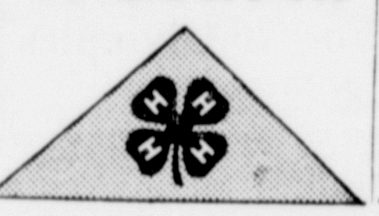

Plug Communication Gap
Charles Dvorak, program leader for the 4-H Division of New York State's Cooperative Extension at Cornell, was guest speaker. In his tribute to leaders, Dvorak pointed out the vital role 4-H Leaders play in bridging the communications gap between youth and parents. "Youth need the help and respect provided by leaders to bolster their self esteem, confidence and competence. 4-H leaders serve as models in molding them into responsible citizens of the future. The speaker discussed four attributes that leaders need: a tolerance toward youth; basic awareness of the values of subject matter which will meet the needs and interests of youth and be skilled in one activity or area which he can teach effectively. With these characteristics the 4-H Leader provides a very important influence for youth," he said.

Leaders Receive Certificates
Ivan Warren, key banker for the Commercial Banks of Ulster County assisted by Mrs. Gerald DuBois, member of the Ulster County 4-H Executive Committee, presented certificates indicating the number of years served in leadership to each 4-H Local Leader present. In making the presentation, Warren expressed the "Banks' appreciation to the Leaders for their guidance. Several guests were present including the following banker representatives: Mrs. Harrison Brown of the Kerhonkson National Bank; Walter Foster, Kingston Trust Co.; Kenneth Osterhout, Rondout National Bank of Kingston and Ivan Warren of the Valley National Bank. Other guests included Harry Beatty, treasurer of Ulster Co. Cooperative Extension and Mrs. Harry Beatty; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reynolds, Kingston; Mrs. Charles Dvorak, Ithaca and Mr. Brown, Kerhonkson; Mrs. Foster, Kingston, and Mrs. Ivan Warren.

Robbery Foiled
KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Three holdup men, one of them masked, stopped William F. Lynch by ramming his car with their car at night after he closed his grocery store. The gunmen had planned to take Lynch's money and make a fast getaway, but the cars' bumpers were locked together. Spectators began gathering and the excited bandits finally broke their car loose and fled—without the money.

Prepares for Role
LONDON (AP) — American pop singer Lou Rawls says he is taking trumpet lessons so he can play the title role in a film based on the life of jazz musician Louis Armstrong. "Louis Armstrong himself is to give me lessons," Rawls told newsmen. "He chose me for the part."

Penthouse Release Gets Mixed Notices

BY BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How brutal can a film be? The test of man's inhumanity to the moviegoer will soon be made with a new Paramount release called "Penthouse."

The British-made film has been raising the hackles of previewers in Europe and America. Some claim it to be a masterpiece, some call it an atrocity. No one seems neutral. All this delights Peter Collinson, who wrote "Penthouse" and directed it at a cost of $100,000. He has attended previews of the film in various parts of the world and was in Hollywood for a two-day visit, his first to America.

"In Berlin the audience was with the picture all the way," he reported, "and when I came on the stage, they rose in a body and cheered me. In Paris and New York it was a different story. At about one-third of the end way through the picture, we start getting walkouts. People leave the theater muttering that the film is black, sick and obscene. In an audience of a thousand, usually 20 or 30 leave."

"Penthouse" concerns a married man having an adulterous affair in a London apartment. Posing as meter readers, two thugs enter and commit all kinds of indignities against the illicit pair.

Britain's censor John Trevelyan read the original play and decreed that a film version could not be approved.

"But I went ahead and made it anyway," said Collinson, a quiet-spoken, tallish man of 28 with a mod shock of blond hair. "After Trevelyan saw it, he did a remarkable thing. He said he would approve the film—if I could get a major company to release it. He didn't want it shown in cheap exploitation theaters."

"That was fine with me. I would rather that the picture not be seen, rather than have it flung around in backstreet theaters."

Collinson had no trouble finding a backer. After one showing at Cannes, the major companies bid eagerly for "Penthouse." He chose Paramount.

"Actually the film isn't violent at all," he remarked. "The only piece of violence comes when one of the boys stamps on the hand of one of his victims."

Does "Penthouse" really have a purpose?

"Certainly," Collinson insisted. "It is a statement about society today. The man is doing wrong by having an affair. The two invaders argue that they have just as much right to have the girl as he does. In the end he has the opportunity to turn them into the authorities. But he doesn't because it would be a disgrace to him before his family and associates."

Political Women
SAYREVILLE, N.J. (AP) — If four women who scored a stunning primary election upset by defeating incumbent male councilman in this community win in November, they will make New Jersey political history.

No council in this state has ever had a distaff majority. But the gals say they are out to establish political history. In achieving their win, the women and their supporters say they rang nearly 4,000 doorbells. They claim to have spent $728 and have $200 remaining in their treasury.

Sedita Returns From Poland Tour
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mayor Frank A. Sedita has returned from a two-week visit to Poland sponsored by the State Department.

Sedita and his wife Sarah arrived here by plane late Tuesday from the trip, which also included a week's private tour of Italy. Of his Poland trip with a group of mayors, Sedita said the people of Poland asked him how summer riots in U.S. cities could happen.

Dirksen Supports LBJ

Reaffirms Stand on Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — A slashing attack by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, on critics of President Johnson's war course threatens to splinter any Republican unity on the Vietnam issue for the 1968 elections.

The Senate GOP leader, who expects to have a guiding hand in drafting the party's platform next year, fired at Republicans and Democrats alike in a desk-pounding, fist-shaking indictment Tuesday of those willing to settle for something less than a Communist defeat in Vietnam.

Sharp Exchange

In a bristling exchange with Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee over whether American security is at stake in the conflict, Dirksen trained his guns on recent dovish proposals by Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., and his Illinois colleague, Sen. Charles H. Percy.

Too Many Cooks

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Leon H. Keyserling, economist and lawyer, says present welfare programs won't help many poor people because "too many cooks are spoiling the soup."

Keyserling, an economic adviser to the president during Harry S. Truman's administration, told the Missouri Association for Social Work:

some "nameless settlement" just to end the war.

Dirksen lectured his colleagues for trying, he said, to run the war from the Senate floor. He counseled Johnson's critics not to demean the presidency.

"You do not demean him in the eyes of the people abroad because when you do, you demean the prestige of this republic," he roared. "I cannot denigrate or demean him in the eyes of the world in anything I say."

Without naming his colleague, Dirksen challenged Percy's Monday statement that more than half of the American people disapprove of the manner in which the President is conducting the war and that Johnson has not persuaded U.S. allies to bear their full share of the conflict.

30 Assisting

Dirksen said more than 30 other countries are lending assistance in one form or another in Vietnam. He said domestic criticism of the war course might make American service men "begin to wonder whether they are forgotten men, forgotten at home."

"I am not going to forget them," he said.

The GOP leader criticized Morton, without naming him, for advocating an end to search-and-destroy missions and calling for U.S. concentration on defending the population centers and ports of South Vietnam.

Search-and-destroy, Dirksen said, "is the only real technique we have that is effective."

Dirksen also challenged those who advocate turning the Vietnam matter over to the United Nations. He held such a move

Utica Newspaper Contract Talks Are Stalemate

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Negotiations in the 24-month-old newspaper strike in this city of 100,000 have broken off and no further date has been set for resumption of talks, the newspaper's publisher says.

Herman Moecker, publisher of the morning Press and afternoon Sunday Observer-Dispatch, said Tuesday there had been no progress following two days of discussions over economic issues with the printers union.

The papers are published by the Utica Observer-Dispatch Inc. They are members of the Gannett Group.

The strike began July 15 when pressmen walked off the job. They later were joined by members of the guild, photoengravers and stereotypers unions.

Non-economic issues have been resolved. The printers are not on strike but members have been observing the picket lines. By agreement, the printers are representing the other unions in the discussions on wages.

Goldwater

In Dutchess

Talk Thursday

Former Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater is scheduled to appear at Falcon Hall of Dutchess County Community College in Poughkeepsie Thursday at 1 p. m.

The 1964 Republican candidate for President will address the faculty and students of the college.

Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon was scheduled to appear last month but was unable to attend.

would be vetoed by the Soviet Union in the Security Council.

Republican senators backing U.N. intervention have included Morton, Percy, John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, George D. Aiken of Vermont and Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon.

In defending Johnson, Dirksen made several references to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who also has backed Johnson on Vietnam.

Of Morton's assertion that Johnson had been brainwashed by a military-industrial complex, Dirksen said, "I would hate to have heard that said of President Eisenhower."

Terming the Republican party an umbrella with room for all shades of opinion, Dirksen said criticism should not go so far as to invade the constitutional powers of the President.

Morton has said he will support Dirksen for chairman of the 1968 GOP convention platform committee despite their differences over Vietnam. But whether other Republicans who have criticized the President will be happy to have a Johnson defender in that position remains to be demonstrated.

Hits Jackpot

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — The stamp-vending machine in the post office lobby is no gambling device—but it recently gave up a fat jackpot.

David Russell, professor of education at Pennsylvania State University, inserted a dime for a two four-centers. He got the stamps but no change. A second dime produced the same results so he gave the machine a sharp rap—and 40 pennies tumbled out.

The professor took the four cents due him, and mailed the rest to Postmaster Edgar Benner.

STATE OF NEW YORK WATER RESOURCES COMMISSION DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

In the Matter of the Application of Hurley Sand and Gravel Co., Inc. Application No. 8-63-67.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to Section 429 of the Conservation Law, the Water Resources Commission will cause a public hearing to be held in the Conference Room of the Conservation Department's New Paltz Office of Fish and Game at 21 South Pult. Corners Road, New Paltz, New York on the 18th day of October, 1967, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon of that day for the purpose of:

(a) hearing all persons, corporations or civil divisions of the State of New York that may be affected by the execution of the plans of Hurley Sand and Gravel Co., Inc. High Falls, New York, to dredge and remove approximately 400,000 cubic yards of gravel from Rondout Creek, Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, plans for which have been filed with the Conservation Department and are now in its office (Division of Water Resources) in Albany, N. Y., where the same are open for public inspection and;

(b) determining whether said plans provide for the proper and safe construction of all work connected therewith, and whether execution of the proposal would adversely affect the health, safety and welfare of the people of the State or the natural resources of the State.

All persons, corporations or civil divisions of the State of New York, other than the applicant and parties in interest who have filed in accordance with the prior "Notice of Application" published in this matter who have objections to the execution of said plans or wish to be heard either in favor of or opposed to such plans, in order to be heard thereon, must file a notice of such desire to be heard in writing and in duplicate in the office of the Conservation Department in the city of Albany, New York on or before the 17th day of October, 1967. Any objection so filed must particularly specify the grounds thereof.

Dated, Albany, New York, September 29, 1967.

Dear Abby

So Everyone Had Good Time

DEAR ABBY: Here's the situation. A woman, her daughter and her daughter's boy friend went to Expo 67. They traveled and lived together in a one bedroom trailer for the entire week that they were at the fair.

The woman is separated from her husband. The daughter and her boyfriend are both 21, but they are not officially engaged. They are just going together.

No marriage plans have been mentioned. What do you think?

DEAR EAST LAKE: I think they probably had a wonderful time. Now what's YOUR problem?

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it's all right for a little boy to say around four or five years old, to see his mother underdressed? I have a friend who thinks it's perfectly all right to let her little boy hang around and watch her dress, from the skin out. And she thinks nothing of letting him come into the bathroom while she is in the tub. He comes in to ask her questions, or to just sit and visit while he gets his eyes full.

Maybe I am wrong, but I don't approve of this. My friend says it is better to let the boy know than to have him curious. What is your opinion?

DEAR READER: Maybe I'm old-fashioned, but I still believe in modesty. A mother shouldn't make a federal case out of it if her four-year-old son were to accidentally catch a glimpse of her in the altogether but the bathroom door should be LOCKED while Mother is bathing.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for seven years, and altho we love each other very much, I have one big problem. My husband does not want any children. He told me before we were married that he didn't want a family, but I was sure I could change his mind after we were married a while.

What is wrong with him, Abby, to think this way? He says in his opinion it is a sin to bring children into the kind of world we now have. What can I do?

DEAR CHILDLESS: Your husband is entitled to his opinion. And since he expressed the same views before you married, you don't have a legitimate complaint. Unless you can change his mind, you will have to remain childless.

DEAR ABBY: About that girl who thought her boy friend should get a job as a policeman because he was "good with guns." What we need more than people who are "good with guns," are people who are good with people.

Unconventional Play Is Winner

BY OSWALD & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The late Philip Hal Sims was unquestionably the greatest player in the world in the first days of contract. Like most top-notch players Hal had a fondness for no-trump contracts. He played lots of them and he played them as well as possible.

defense against a five-diamond contract and plenty of defense against three no-trump. So much defense that in a 1932 tournament no-trump declarers except Hal went down.

The play at all tables except Hal's started with South winning the spade lead with the queen and knocking out the ace of diamonds. The queen of spades play told West where the king was but each West decided that South would have faked with the king if he really held a guard for the second honor. Therefore each West laid down his ace of spades and collected four quick spade tricks.

When Hal was declarer he won the jack of spades with the king, led a club to dummy's ace and played out the king of diamonds.

West was in with the ace and tried to figure out what Hal was up to. He might just be playing around without the queen of spades or he might have the queen of spades, a small spade and no ace of hearts.

Then West considered Hal's reputation for awhile. He knew that Hal was considered to be the best dummy player in the world and a specialist in no-trump play.

Finally West led a heart and with today's hand, there is no Hal had justified his reputation.

Canadian Man, Girl Jailed After Check

Canadian man and a Lake Katrine girl are in Ulster County Jail today following a routine check of the car in which they were riding on Rt. 212 at 4:30 this morning.

Sheriff's deputies charged Anthony Norman Serra, 23, of Kingston, Ontario, Canada, with possession of a narcotic. Serra also gave a Riverside Drive, New York City, address as his place of residence.

Bonita Haslam, 18, Box 254, Lake Katrine, was charged with being an unlicensed operator and was sentenced to five days in jail or a $20 fine.

Serra is awaiting arraignment after Oct. 11.

Deputies Robert Jordon and Michael Giordano investigated.

The Sterley Years Called Proud and Progressive Ones

Directors of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 235 Fair Street, Tuesday night honored John B. Sterley, chairman of the board at a cocktail party and dinner at Kirkland Hotel in observance of his 40th anniversary in banking.

In brief ceremonies at the association offices, Dewese W. DeWitt, president of the association, presented an inscribed gavel and plaque to Judge Sterley, and outlined the "Sterley" years as "proud, progressive ones."

Credited With Growth

Attending the cocktail hour and dinner were Harry Halverston, first vice-chairman; George C. Swart, second vice-chairman; Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon, secretary and associate counsel; Joseph J. Kelly, Clair S. Sheaffer, Wilmer S. Nickerson, and Dewese DeWitt. Others attending were George Svirsky, George W. Tanke, Alexander J. McKinnick, executive vice president, William F. Paulus, assistant vice president and William D. Costello, auditor.

Toasts during the evening acclaimed the "pacing of the association by the judge."

In 1952 Sterley was selected as vice president of First Federal Savings and Loan, becoming president in 1957. In 1966 he was voted chairman of the board. Ever active in the political and judicial arena he has, through the last 40 years, served as chairman of the City Republican Committee, Ulster County Surrogate Judge from 1944 to 1956 and is the current Republican County Chairman.

Friends said that devotion to FFS&LA duties led to his resignation as City Republican Chairman in 1961 on the occasion of the opening of the Association's Hyde Park Branch. At that time he felt his assistance in the expansion of the association required his undivided attention.

Other affiliations of Judge Sterley include the American Legion, the Kiwanis Club and his church. He resides at 189 Manor Avenue with his wife, the former Helen A. Stephan, whom he married June 30, 1923.

Fern's Tides Main Threat

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Pocket-sized Hurricane Fern surged into northeastern Mexico above Tampico today still potent although fast dwindling.

Massive tides appeared to pose the gravest threat.

There already was extensive flooding in the vicinity of Tampico, Mexico's second largest port. That city experienced similar hardship in Hurricane Inez nearly a year ago and saw 200 die in a 1955 flood.

Top winds in Hurricane Fern shrank to minimum hurricane force of 75 miles per hour in squalls while the weakening storm was still offshore in the Gulf of Mexico.

They maintained that velocity as the eye struck inland in an area of fishing villages and farm country.

A Weather Bureau advisory reporting Fern's arrival placed the center at 2 a.m. near Latitude 22.7 North and Longitude 97.7 West, or about 30 miles north of Tampico. It was expected to weaken even more rapidly with the center over land.

In an advisory at 5 a.m., observers put the center near Latitude 22.5 North and Longitude 97.7 West, or about 25 miles northwest of Tampico, with maximum winds down to 55 m.p.h. and traveling west-southwest at 7 m.p.h. gales extended outward.

Forecasters said winds and tides along the coast would diminish gradually during the day and the mountains west of Tampico would tear the storm's circulation apart tonight.

Torrential rains lasting through tonight were expected to touch off new floods.

There was no immediate word from villages near the center of Fern's battering winds and tides. These included Manuel Gonzalez and Aldama, all punished severely by the hurricane of last year.

There were warnings in advance of tides six feet above normal in a small area near the eye and tapering down to between three and five feet in the sector from about 100 miles below Brownsville southward to Tampico.

Thousands evacuated Tampico, a city of 125,000 while the storm still approached.

By late Tuesday night, however, Jack Stewart of the Brownsville Weather Bureau said, "It looks like this thing will about wash out by the time it reaches the coast."
